Ford arrives for European mission

BONN, West Germany (AP) — President Ford arrived here Saturday night to begin a 10-day European mission that he said was directed at stabilizing East-West relations.

Ford made no statement on his arrival. He boarded a helicopter with his wife, BEtty, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to fly to Gymnich Castle, a moated country mansion 25 miles northwest of Bonn, where they will stay while in West Germany.

Ford and Kissinger planned to meet with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt Sunday and depart for Warsaw Monday morning. They also will visit Finland, Romania and Yugoslavia during the 13,200-mile trip.

Before takeoff from Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, Ford defended his decision to go to Helsinki to join with leaders of 34 other nations in signing a statement of principles for East-West cooperation.

The Helsinki agreements, which contain no enforcement provisions and carry only moral weight, "can promote wider cooperation and greater security across the entire continent of Europe," Ford said.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen reported that Ford spent much of his time during the seven-hour flight from Washington on the telephone with his aides in Washington. He said Ford was seeking ways to get the House of Representatives to reverse its Thursday vote that continued the embargo of arms to Turkey.

Ford's reception here was low key. Crowds were sparse along the road taken by the presidential motorcade and the people watched quietly.

The largest show of interest came from some 2,000 waving persons gathered in the town of Gymnich, site of the mansion where Ford is staying.

Ford entered the grounds greeted by a small German military honor guard. Accompanied by a drum beat, the President crossed a water filled moat and went into the Baroque castle for the night.

Trees uprooted, wires down

A brief summer storm caused by temperatures in the 90's brought a few raindrops, uprooted trees, knocked down countless limbs, and felled many utility lines in the valley Saturday night.

The few drops of rain were not measurable, but the strong winds caused many incidents of damage resulting in 30 calls to the Ontario Fire Department, 28 reports of trees and limbs down, and 45 phone calls of wires down to the Ontario Fire Department.

In La Verne, six trees were uprooted in a center divider on Foothill Boulevard near D Street, police said. Also, a tree limb was knocked down near the La Verne police station at Third and D streets.

Power lines were reported down on Franklin Avenue near Fremont Junior High School in Pomona, police reported.

In Claremont, wires reportedly were knocked down in the 400 block of Elder Drive.

Fire department officials in Pomona and Claremont reported numerous calls of possible damage due to the high winds.

Police officials said that the winds wreaked the most damage about ½ mile to the east and to the west of Euclid Avenue.

A roof was reported blown off a garage at 209 E. Maitland Ave., Ontario.

An air conditioner was reported blown out of a transom at the Tri-County Trophy Shop at 217 E. E St., Ontario.

Trees being uprooted caused two water main breaks, one at 121 N. Monterey Ave., and the other at Vina Danks Junior High at 1020 N. Vine Ave., both in Ontario.

At the Ontario Police Station, officers watched the winds blow a huge limb into the street near cars, and the cars were moved to safer places.

Police received phone calls of trees being blown onto houses at Oakland and Park avenues and 1948 Bon View Ave. in Ontario.

Wires were reported down on an auto in the 500 block of West Belmont Street in Ontario.

Southern California Edison crews were dispatched to trouble spots immediately after the five-minute storm whipped through the area.

The police departments kept Edison updated as phone calls were received at the Upland and Ontario police stations.

Many property owners have plenty of work to do today in cleaning up the debris from the storm.

Upland police department received about 30 calls of trees and wires down between 7 and 7:30 p.m.

Chino and Montclair police reported winds, but no reports of damage.

A Southern California Edison official said that his firm received 75 calls for service from the storm.

He said that power outages lasted anywhere from half-a-minute to 45 minutes, and of the 1,200 customers affected in Upland and Ontario, the last 25 customers were expected to have service restored by midnight or 12:30 a.m. today.

The official said the hardest hit area seemed to be between Euclid and Campus avenues south of Holt Avenue.

He stressed that the trouble area was half a mile along Euclid Avenue and two miles long.

Two brush fires, one in Diamond Bar and the other north of Azusa, burned a total of 26 acres Saturday night.

Los Angeles County firemen had surrounded the 6-acre fire near the junction of the Pomona and Orange Freeways, by 10 p.m. Firemen were still trying to control "hot spots" in the inaccessible rolling hills area.

Firemen had the blaze in the west fork of San Gabriel Canyon above Azusa, three-quarters controlled. Fanned by high winds, the fire had consumed 20 acres and was still burning.

Ford veto overridden

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Saturday to over-ride President Ford's veto of a $2.02 billion health services and nurse training bill just hours after Ford rejected the measure as too costly.

The Senate thus became the first house of Congress to over-ride a presidential veto this year.

The vote was preceded by a short debate in which Democratic and Republican senators said the bill ties together essential national health and nursing services.

The House still must vote on the veto. It passed both houses previously by voice vote.

Turkish troops moving into U.S. installations

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish troops began moving into U.S. military installations Saturday on a government order to take control in reprisal for the continued American ban on arms shipments to Turkey.

The arms ban was imposed by the American Congress after Turkey, used American equipment in its invasion of Cyprus a year ago. The House of Representatives on Thursday voted down a Ford administration request to partially lift the ban.

Officials said the takeover process may continue for several days.

Neither Turkish nor American authorities gave details on how far takeover had progressed nor what was involved at each of the two dozen bases scattered throughout he Turkish peninsula. There were no Turkish troops at the U.S. base on Balgat near Ankara, and American military police still guarded the main entrance to the base.

The semiofficial Anatolian news agency reported naval units had completely taken over the Karamursel base near Istanbul in western Turkey, one of the biggest installations on Turkish soil.

In Washington, a senior Pentagon official said the Turks at Karamursel and at another base at Sinop "haven't done anything except run up the Turkish flag."

flag."

According to official Turkish sources the some 7,000 American personnel stationed at Turkish bases would remain there for the present. Two-thirds of the Americans are assigned to the three largest bases — Kara ursel, Sinop on the Dlack Sea coast, and Incirlik, the strategic air "It is too early to say anything about Incirlik air base is the only one exempted by the government from total suspension of functions because of its NATO functions.

Defense Minister Ferit Melen said, "It is too early to say anythinr about the position of the American personnel on the bases."

Turkish officials explained the government's decision of Friday night to suspend all activity of the bases and place them under "total control" of the Turkish armed forces did not require the Americans to leave. They said, however, the Americans will be idle because of the halt in their regular work.

On Cyprus, Turkish-Cypriot leaders announced they were closing the two American installations on the part of the island under Turkish-Cypriot control. The Cyprus radio monitoring and communications stations have not been operating since the invasion.

From the Greek Cypriot areas of Cyprus messages were sent to the U.S. House of Representatives thanking it for continuing the ban.

The Turks apparently have no plans so far for dismantling the bases or their equipment.

Girl runs into path of auto

A 12-year-old Ontario girl was hospitalized Saturday afternoon when she didn't look in both directions before crossing Campus Avenue and was struck by a car driven by Aurelio Guevara, 68, of 818 E. Belmont Ave., Ontario.

Crystal Ferguson came out of her house about 2:36 p.m., looked north, and then darted across the street about 76 feet south of Ralston St. into the path of Guevara's car.

She was rushed to Ontario Community Hospital for treatment of a broken right leg, possible broken hip, and broken collar bone, and is listed in guarded condition.

Dismay over vote on Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warning of foreign policy disaster, the Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders pleaded with the House on Saturday to reconsider its vote cutting off arms shipments to Turkey.

Some senators argued that the move is a threat rather than a boon to Greece because Turkey might commandeer stockpiled U.S. nuclear weapons and become a nuclear superpower overnight.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott said it is the worst decision made by either House or Senate in the 34 years he has been in Congress.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the House's actions may well result in throwing Turkey into the arms of the Arab states in the Middle East in the conflict with Israel.

Meanwhile, Pentagon officials said they have not changed any U.S. activities in Turkey or removed any military personnel despite Turkey's decision to stop activities at U.S. bases.

Both Scott and Mansfield said the House vote and Turkey's reaction to it seriously imperiled souhern flank of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the future of NATO as a whole.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Turkey's decision to stop activity at U.S. bases in Turkey endangers the U.S. 6th Fleet. It's position is untenable, he said,, since Portugal is going through a left-wing political convulsion, since Italy is experiencing Communist political advances, since Greece has denied the fleet homeport facilities, since it cannot use the Azores and since Turkey has become alienated.

"We should give serious consideration to withdrawing the 6th Fleet," Tower said.

All those senators who spoke credited the work of an extremely effective lobby of Greek-American citizens for the 222 to 206 vote by which the House voted Thursday to continue the arms embargo placed last February after TUrkey's occupation of part of Cyprus.

Scott said: "I cannot see how it can be helpful to Greece to have its neighbor seize one of the greatest accumulations of nuclear power in the world. If I lived in Greece today, I would be terrorized."

The decision, he said, "unhinges our anchor in the Mediterranean."

Mansfield said that, as long as the House vote stands, chances for a Cyprus settlement are nonexistent.

And he stressed the possibility that, if the Turks are denied American weapons, they will buy weapons elsewhere — possibly from the Soviet Union — and will use funds to pay for them.

That, he said, will endanger Israel.

San Dimas man held

Cycle gang rivalry leads to stabbing

A Diamond Bar man was in critical condition Saturday after being stabbed twice as the result of an apparent motorcycle gang rivalry.

Timothy McGrouty, 23, of 21610 Birch Hill, was admitted to the intensive care unit at Pomona Valley Community Hospital after the 1:37 a.m. stabbing.

Police later booked Floyd Stinson, 26, of 227 W. Fourth St., San Dimas, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Officers said an altercation between McGrouty and Stinson had erupted inside Walter Mitty's, a Pomona dance club at 1626 W. Mission Blvd.

The fight was a result of an argument over whose motorcycle was the fastest, police said.

The suspect allegedly drew a five-inch knife from his belt and stabbed the victim twice. Stinson was pulled off the victim by a member pf the "Renegade" motorcycle club, officers added.

Stinson fled the dance club but was arrested later at his San Dimas residence. He was wearing a blood-stained t-shirt, police said, and was transported to Pomona city jail.

Gunmen rob Ontario market, truck stop

Robbers hit a 7-11 Market and a 76 Truck Stop early Saturday morning at Ontario.

Two men entered the 7-11 store at G Street and Vine Avenue where William Babcock, 58, was changing a coffee dispenser, shortly after 1 a.m.

One simulated a weapon and demanded Babcock give them the money in the cash register.

Babcock said the pair told him they were on parole or probation and that they would be returning to prison.

Two men in a car drove up to the 76 Truck Stop at Millikan Avenue at the San Bernardino Freeway about 2:15 a.m.

One got out of the car and asked station attendant William Santiago for change for a $20 bill.

Santiago said that he entered a booth in the center island, and felt someone bump him from behind.

He turned to see the second robber pointing a small caliber gun at him and removing a cash tray from the booth.

"Sit down and shut up or I'll blow your head off," the robber said.

The robbers fled in a black Volkswagen.

Marine grenade blast at exhibit

MERCED (AP) — A hand grenade from a Marine Corps exhibit exploded at a crowded shopping mall Saturday, injuring a security guard and forcing evacuation of the mall, authorities reported.

Lewis Anderson, identified as a security guard, was reported in critical condition at Merced Community Medical Center and was being tranferred to Valley Medical Center in Fresno for treatment of severe burns.

Watergate trial drama to unfold on TV

BOSTON (AP) — A dead ringer for Judge John J. Sirica moves across the television sound stage and takes his place behind the bench of a courtroom in which the judge himself would feel at home.

It's all part of the latest effort to make Watergate — this time the Watergate cover-up trial — come alive for the American public.

From the 12,000 pages of trial transcripts, a pile that stood 8½ feet high, will come a 2½-hour television drama being produced by Tom McCann of WGBH-TV, the public broadcasting station here.

The production is scheduled to be aired in Boston Aug. 8 and on other Public Broadcasting Service stations in September.

McCann, an independent producer who last year made a film of the White House transcripts, said: "After I've done this I feel I can now say: 'It's time to close the books on Watergate.'"

But McCann says he thinks the trial of former President Richard Nixon's closest aides also belongs in the Watergate file.

"The way former President Nixon resigned, not admitting anything. The fact that he refused to appear before the grand jury. That left an awful lot of Americans to wonder about the degree of culpability of the men around Nixon," McCann said. "The reason I wanted to do this show was to overcome that condition."

On trial were former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, ex-chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, former domestic affairs adviser John Ehrlichman and former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian.

McCann and his crew interviewed several hundred actors in their search for look-alikes for the cast of Watergate characters. Calls went out on both coasts in an effort to bring the trial to life.

Sirica's Washington courtroom came under the same scrutiny as artists worked to create a slightly scaled-down model of the paneled courtroom at the WGBH studios.

Actor Carl Betz, who plays the key role of Prosecutor James Neal, was one of the few nonlook-alikes chosen. Betz starred as a lawyer in the TV series "Judd for the Defense."

Little was known about Neal, except that he was from Tennessee, Betz said.

"The one thing we did know was that he was constantly in motion, always chewing on his glasses, or his glass case or his pen," Betz said. "In fact, the courtroom artists could never get a picture of him."

To imitate all that movement would be distracting, Betz said, "so instead I just have to indicate it."

"I've come to admire him," Betz said, "not just because of his agile mind, but that marvelous summation to the jury. It's so moving."

The production grew somewhat from its original 90-minute script.

The show opens with shots of the Watergate burglary as the prosecutor describes the crime. When the jury listens to portions of the White House tapes, viewers will see a re-creation of the President's Oval Office as Nixon, Ehrlichman, Haldeman and former White House Counsel John W. Dean discuss the burglary.

In both the current production and the earlier White House transcripts, McCann said he tried to be "very fair" in his treatment of Nixon and the President's men.

"We didn't take any cheap shots," he said. "There were no reaction shots. We didn't cut their American flag pins as they talked about the cover-up.

McCann called the trial "an important piece of American history that got short shrift in the media."

Unlike the Senate Watergate hearings, there were no cameras in the Sirica courtroom, nothing to give immediacy to the event.

"And let's face it," McCann said, "We're not a nation of readers."

Stanford U paid $14,000 for release of kidnaped student

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Stanford University paid about $14,000 to win the release of American student Stephen Smith,' who was held 10 weeks in a jungle camp in Zaire by African guerrillas, well-informed sources said Saturday.

Smith, 22, of Garden Grove, Calif., flew here Saturday to an emotional reunion with friends. He was released Friday and traveled by boat to Kigoma, 660 miles west of here, for the flight to Dar Es Salaam.

He was heavily bearded and thin but otherwise appeared healthy as he arrived with his father, Joseph Smith, 61, who had kept a lonely vigil in Kigoma for nearly a month. The younger Smith tod reporters, "It's good to be free."

Guerrillas from the Popular Revolutionary Party — PRP — kidnaped Smith and three other students from the remote animal research base in western Tanzania on May 19. Barbara Smuts of Ann Arbor, Mich., was released a week after the kidnaping to carry ransom demands to Tanzanian authorities. The other two — Carrie Hunter of Atherton, Calif., and Emilie Bergmann of Holland — were released last month.

Smith was met by Miss Hunter and Miss Bergmann at the airport and they embraced him and handed him champagne and flowers.

"I don't know what to do," Smith said. "I've never been famous before."

U.S. Embassy officials, working with Stanford University representatives, toiled during the first six weeks of the kidnaping to get the students freed. They tried several elaborate schemes, including one that ended with Zairean gunboats on Lake Tanganyika firing at a rescue boat.

But even after Miss Hunter and Miss Bergmann were freed, efforts to get Smith out were futile. The little-known guerrilla group opposes the government of Zaire.

Stanford University officials led by Dr. David Hamburg declined to say how much ransom was paid to the PRP. Hamburg told newsmen part of the deal was that neither side would disclose ransom terms.

However, sources here said the university paid around 14,000 in British banknotes that had been raised by Stanford, the students' parents and other Americans.

The sources said the deal was made after two PRP emissaries slipped into Tanzania across Lake Tanganyika, crossed the country by train from Kigoma and approached startled U.S. Embassy officials here. here.

After Smith's arrival, Tanzanian security men interrogated him behind closed doors for 1½ hours. U.S. Embassy officials were not allowed to enter the room despite protests.

Astronauts now in suite

HONOLULU (AP) — The three Apollo astronauts moved from an intensive care unit to a luxurious private hospital suite Saturday, and doctors said they were "very optimistic" about their full recovery within a week from toxic gas fumes the crew breathed on its return to earth.

Doctors said the astronauts were improved and generally in satisfactory condition.

The move to private quarters seemed to indicate increasing satisfaction on the part of doctors that the worst of any danger was over Thomas P. Stafford, Donald K. Slayton and Vance D. Brand.

Tests of the crewmen's lungs continued to make sure there were no delayed effects from fumes that poured into their spacecraft during decent Thursday following the joint U.S-Soviet space mission.

San Quentin 6 murder trial to open Monday

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Aug. 21, 1971. One prison official called it "the blackest, bloodiest day in the history of San Quentin Prison."

On Monday, six young men go on trial here to face charges of murder and conspiracy stemming from a few moments of violence that left black revoutionary George Jackson and five other men dead that day.

Known by their supporters as the San Quentin Six, they are accused of engineering an abortive prison escape attempt and of killing three white prison guards and two white prisoners.

Five of the defendants are black. The sixth, 22-year-old Luis Talamantez, says his lineage is Spanish and Indian. Other defendants are Willie Tate, 30; John Larry Spain, 25; Fleeta Drumgo, 30; Hugo Pinell, 30; and David Johnson, 28.

During the Superior Court trial, prosecutors will seek to prove the defendants joined Jackson in planning to escape with a smuggled gun.

The defense team, led by Charles Garry, is expected to argue that prison officials set up Jackson, one of the Soledad Brothers accused of beating a white guard to deah while he was serving a prison term.

The jurors, 11 of whom are white, will hear testimony in a tightly guarded courtroom in the Marin County Civic Center, a sprawling complex that was Frank Lloyd Wright's last work.

A wall of thick plexiglass will separate the four-man, eight-woman jury and the defendants at the center, which was the scene of a August 1970 shootout in which a judge, two inmates and Jackson's younger brother, Jonathan, were killed.

Under the tight security, the defendants will be chained and shackled, which the defense claims will bias the jurors.

All of the defendants have spent most of their adult lives in prison. Charges against them now: five counts of murder, conspiracy to commit escape by force of violence, conspiracy to possess a firearm in a prison and conspiracy to kidnap prison officers.

Brown names prelate to farm labor post

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. today named Roger Mahoney, a Roman Catholic prelate from Fresno, as chairman of the board that will oversee California's new farm labor law.

Others on the five-member Agricultural Labor Relations Board are former United Farm Workers official Leroy Chatfield; grower Richard Johnsen Jr.; former labor lawyer Joseph Grodin, and poverty lawyer Joe Ortega.

The board will administer elections under the secret-ballot law that takes effect Aug. 28, aimed at resolving the decade-old dispute between the UFW and the Teamsters over representation of California's farm workers.

Mahoney, 39, is auxiliary bishop of Fresno's Catholic diocese and secretary of the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Ad Hoc Committee on Farm Labor.

Chatfield, 40, serves in Brown's office as director of administration. He was the UFW's administrative officer in 1973-74.

Johnsen, 50, of Sacramento, is executive vice president of the Agricultural Council of California.

Grodin, 44, teaches labor law at the University of California's Hastings College of the Law in San Francisco. Brown's office said he spent 17 years on a San Francisco law firm that represented both the Teamsters and AFL-CIO unions.

Ortega, 44, is executive director of the Model Cities Center for Law and Justice in Los Angeles.

Brown's office said Mahoney, Chatfield and Grodin are Democrats. Johnsen is a Republican. Ortega is a member of the La Raza Unida party.

The job pays $42,500 a year.

Suspects not tied to murder wave in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A widening investigation failed to come up Saturday with any major suspects in a 40-minute mini crime wave that left three dead in three attacks and robberies, police reported.

Two of the six men arrested after the separate incidents Thursday night in the West Los Angeles-Santa Monica area and questioned in the attacks were released on $5,000 bail each and "the other four are free to go anytime they come up with the money," an officer said.

The six were booked on suspicion of robbery Friday although much of the interrogation involved the violent attacks that left dead actress Barbara Colby, 37; actor James Kiernan, 35, and Gloria Witte, 57, wife of a Lockheeed aerospace executive.

Officers still believe the attacks were linked since all involved black assailants driving vans.

A police spokesman said "obviously" alleged robbery evidence that led to the arrest of the six men was not linked to the slayings and assaults, "if so they would have been booked for murder."

"We have no information to link anyone specifically to the killings at present," the officer said. "At this particular point we have nothing new. An autopsy report is still pending."

Miss Colby, daughter-in-law of entertainer Ethel Merman, and Kiernan were attacked in a parking lot near a Venice acting school and died of chest wounds from .22 caliber bullets.

Mrs. Witte was shot twice with a shotgun when she, her husband and another couple were accosted by three masked men who ordered them to lie face down on the lawn of an expensive Santa Monica home. Mrs. Witte attempted to run.

In the third incident, six men ambushed two other couples. One man was kicked, the women were molested and the robbers fled with about $5,300 in cash and jewelry, police said.

Use bats on gangs: mayor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor Frank Rizzo on Friday advised citizens distressed about gang violence "to grab one of those big baseball bats and lay right into the sides of their heads."

Rizzo, former Philadelphia police commissioner who was once photographed carrying a billy club while wearing a tuxedo, told 30 residents of a South Philadelphia area long plagued by gang violence:

"If anything happens to you, you come to my office again and I'll come in that courtroom. I'll be your lawyer."

In response to a woman who said she taught her children to hit the ground if she heard gunfire, Rizzo said:

"If I lived in that community, I wouldn't drop to the ground. I'd strangle the guy who was doing it (the shooting)."

A representative of the mayor's office said Rizzo "never advocated vigilante action by the public." But he said "if their son or daughter is attacked, they are within the law to strike back if there is no policeman present."

Nation's worst gas shortage this winter?

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the predictions in a government report prove true, sometime this winter Americans may find their gas stoves won't always light for cooking and gas furnaces won't always fire up for heating.

A report by the House Government Operations Committee says the nation could experience its worst natural gas shortage in history this winter. "For the first time curtailments might reach residential users," the report says.

The report is the latest in a series of forecasts from some segments of government that the natural gas shortage this winter will be even more severe than last when tens of thousands of workers lost their jobs because the fuel wasn't available for manufacturing needs.

At least one House subcommittee and the staff of another federal agency remain skeptical. They claim that producers may be holding back supplies to exert pressures to drive up prices.

In March, for instance, a staff report of the Federal Trade Commission recommended federal legal action against the nation's 11 major natural gas producers, claiming they were underestimating natural gas reserves in an attempt to influence "the price at which producers sell natural gas to interstate pipeline companies."

And the House Commerce Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations has been looking into whether the industry has been deliberately withholding gas by underestimating supplies and failing to produce adequately from existing wells.

Warnings of a nationwide crisis of emergency proportions are contained in the Government Operations report, which says the shortage for the year ending March 1976 will be 45 per cent greater than the previous 12 months.

The report says the states of Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, New Jersey and North Carolina will be hardest hit.

West Virginia, for instance, might see a drastic migration of its population and relocation of much of its industry.

In Kentucky, the report forecasts a 100 per cent curtailment of the fuel to 135 companies that employ 30,000.

A 60 per cent shortage is predicted for Ohio and the report quotes the governor as saying his state will be faced with an "unprecedented crisis."

Columbia Gas of New York State, the report says, will completely end deliveries to all its industrial customers as of Nov. 1.

In all, 32 states depend on interstate natural gas for 90 per cent of their gas supplies, and 19 states are totally dependent on the interstate supplies that come mainly from the Louisiana and Texas gulf coast.

Natural gas is consumed by 160 million Americans and comprises 40 per cent of total domestic energy production.

Severe shortages of the fuel, Commerce Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said last month, would prevent a recovery from the recession ane wuld "cause a significant downturn in our future living standards."

There are two schools of thought about why there will be a shortage. The first is that the United States is just plain running out of gas, that there is less and less to be discovered.

The second is that government controls keep the price so low that a producer has no economic incentive to risk money in a search for new fields.

A long-time advocate of such deregulation is Federal Power Commission Chairman John N. Nassikas, who believes an end to price controls will spur companies to increased exploration.

Nassikas in recent testimony to congressional committees, also mentioned that this year some residential users could also expect to feel the pinch.

"They are getting close in some pipeline systems to where they may have to reduce deliveries to residential users," he told the Government Operations Subcommittee on Conservation, Energy and Natural Resources in June.

He said that North Carolina, southern New Jersey and parts of Pennsylvania were areas where the shortage will be worst.

Interrupting gas of residential customers would be difficult. A safety hazard would result if pipeline pressure is reduced because pilot lights on stoves, water heaters and furnaces would blow out and gas would flow through open lines into homes.

A staff aide on the Governnent Operations Committee said the only way he could see to cut back residential customers would be to shut off gas supplies to the homes completely.

Nassikas recently came under sharp criticism from Rep. John N. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the investigations sub-committee that is looking into industry practices as possibly contriving the shortage.

Just call her Gypsy Rose Knee

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Some people say they can predict anyone's future by reading their palms. But Toni Lockhart says she does it by reading knees. The left knee, to be exact.

A former legal secretary in San Diego, Miss Lockhart now bills herself as Gypsy Rose Knee.

She claims to have analyzed more than 2,000 knees, male and female, since she began her unusual practice in 1972.

"Knees are the most innocent part of the body," said the 37-year-old divorcee. "They are like babies.

"Knees are not calloused like the hand, not covered with hair like the head."

She said she touches a knee, points out physical features, then relates them to the personality of its owner.

Peaks or craters on a knee indicate traits like patience, compassion, selfishness, fear, luck, humor, humility and curiosity, she said.

And a new mole indicates a person's life or professional career is on the rise, she said.

She said she got the idea for reading knees three years ago, at a party in her native Seattle.

"If a girl doesn't have an escort, she has to have a gimmick," she explained.

"So one night, I went to a party as the goddess of spring and decided to read knees as my gimmick."

Later on, though, the gimmick evolved into a new career.

"Although I started knee reading as a lark, a peculiar thing occured," she recalled. "The more knees I read, the more information I was able to receive about people."

She admitted that part of her technique is purse psychology.

SHE'S A KNEE READER

Toni Lockhart is shown doing her specialty, reading knees. The one-time San Diego legal secretary claims to have read over 2,000 knees, identifying personal traits by the peaks or craters they contain. She bills herself as Gypsy Rose Knee.

Ferris wheel ride decapitates youth

NEW YORK (AP) — A breezy ride on a Coney Island ferris wheel ended in death for a teen-age boy who was decapitated when his head became caught in the steel frame of an amusement park ride.

Binziendo Morales, 15, of Brooklyn, opened the door of the enclosed car in which he was riding Tuesday afternoon and his head jammed between a suspension bar and the door, police said.

Motorcyclist hurt in hit, run sideswipe

A 19-year-old La Puente man suffered minor injuries early Saturday when his motorcyle was sideswiped by a hit and run driver on the Pomona Freeway, west of Dudley Street in Pomona.

Michael Newton suffered cuts and abrasions to the body when the driver of a yellow Ford swerved into the side of his cycle at 1:25 a.m. Despite having a flat tire, the car left the scene.

Highway patrolmen said Newton was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Cal Poly survey finds senior citizens altruistic

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

San Dimas senior citizens have been credited by Cal Poly students with a strong sense of altruism as a result of a survey which provided an exchange of feelings and activities between two generations.

Joan Greenway, chairman of the Social Sciences Department of Cal Poly, recently submitted a written and verbal report to the San Dimas City Council on the results of the survey completed by social science students.

The survey was done at the request of the Senior Citizens Commission and the council. It had the dual purpose of gauging senior citizens' attitudes and concerns and providing a practical experience for college students to utilize urban anthropoligical skills.

"The merging of two extreme generations was the most healthy experience that came out of this," Mrs. Greenway told the council.

"Students took senior citizens to horse shows and drama productions at Cal Poly and to other outings," she added.

One black student in the class was determined to crusade for the needs of the elderly black, but the team soon discovered there were only two black senior citizens in town and both were well cared for by their families.

Other than disappointment in this delayed crusade, the students were pleased with the survey and the interaction with senior citizens, she added.

Conversations and friendships blossomed between the young people and the seniors. It was an enjoyable and informational exchange of experiences and ideas, the department chairman noted.

She pointed out that in the followup and indepth interviews after the initial contacts, the surveyors discovered "a strong streak of altruism."

"Almost all these people continually voiced their concern for others, what should be implemented for others," said Mrs. Greenway.

Typical of this feeling were their suggestions for a Meals on Wheels program. Most of those over 50 said they prepared their own meals and enjoyed a nutritious, balanced diet. However, they saw a need for helping senior citizens less fortunate and also providing the service when they were temporarily ill or alone.

Mrs. Greenway pointed out in the report, however, that to operate a Meals on Wheels program on such a "hop-scotch" basis would be both impractical and expensive.

Although nutrition seemed to be little problem, the spiraling cost of food was a principal concern. Transportation was the only item that stimulated more concern than high food costs.

Those queried, Mrs. Greenway continued, "claimed security was not a problem, but students noted the presence of large dogs, bolted doors and gates and a great reluctance to admit persons to the home."

The department chairman reported that most of those polled favored a city police department rather than service from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. They agreed that greater efficiency and speed in response would be possible with a city force.

"They all voted faith in their local government officials, but were suspicious of higher levels and doubtful that the state and federal governments really did feel for the people," Mrs. Greenway stated.

Both city commissions on youth and senior citizens will study the report. The seniors surveyed recommended exploring means of bringing young folk and the elderly together in areas of mutual interest and concern.

'I'll fight this case all the way to the...'

Bucking the system: the Supreme Court

LEWIS AND RUTH Goldfarb pose in front of their New Brunswick, N.J., home which touched off a legal battle ending when the Supreme Court ruled that lawyers' fixed fees for title searches violated antitrust laws.

EDITOR'S NOTE — For every citizen who manages to take his case to the Supreme Court and win, there are many who fail because they lack money, or courage, or luck.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many people buck the system and fail. But a few, like Virgil and Mae Ruth Justice, take their cases to the Supreme Court and change things for everyone.

It cost the Justices thousands of dollars, and years of work and worry, to right what they felt was a terrible injustice to their teenage daughter, Peggy.

But the Justices, who live in Mena, Ark., believed that the Constitution guaranteed all Americans the right to petition in court for the redress of grievances. So they petitioned, and in the end the Supreme Court agreed that the Justices could seek damages because Peggy had been denied a hearing when Mena's school board suspended her in 1972.

That court ruling, and a similar one involving an Ohio case, now assure all the nation's school children that they cannot be suspended from school in violation of their right to a hearing. And school board members who knowingly deny that right are liable for damages.

The Justices are not alone. Lewis and Ruth Goldfarb, Steven Wiesenfeld and others fought long and lonely battles and were vindicated by the Supreme Court in decisions rendered during the term that ended June 30.

Wiesenfeld contested a ruling of the Social Security Administration. The Goldfarbs were incensed at fees imposed by state and local lawyer associations. The victories won by these individuals now protect everyone's rights.

Lawyers involved in such cases say it's becoming ever more difficult and more expensive for a private citizen to change the system without support from public-interest law firms, Ralph Nader-type consumer advocates, or civil liberties organizations.

But Virgil and Mae Ruth Justice did it almost by themselves.

Mrs. Justice pondered a moment and explained why. "I don't think it was anger so much as it was the idea that a child was being mistreated."

In February, 1972, their daughter was a high school sophomore. She and two other girls were suspended by the school board for the rest of the semester because they had spiked the punch for a home economics class party.

"We asked for a hearing and they refused. That was Saturday, and we tried through the next week until Thursday to get a hearing," Mrs. Justice recalled in an interview. "So we hired an attorney."

Mena is a town of about 5,000, and hiring a lawyer is not an everyday occurrence there.

"We had never had occasion to use an attorney. We asked around the community about where we could find a good, honest lawyer." Ben Core of nearby Fort Smith, who once practiced in Mena, was recommended. Mrs. Justice now praises him as "a fine, Christian man."

After negotiations with the school board failed, the Justices told Core to go ahead with a suit that claimed the girls' constitutional rights had been violated and sought money damages from board members.

The justices finally won when the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 on Feb. 25 that school board members may, indeed, be forced to pay damages for knowingly violating the constitutional rights of students.

Following its normal procedure, the Supreme Court ordered the lower courts to determine whether the Justices are entitled to damages.

The battle has cost the Justices more than $10,000 and they're still paying for it. Justice is an independent truck driver and has worked overtime on wearying long-haul trips to pay the legal bills.

"We can thank God my husband's health held up," Mrs. Justice sighed. Was the fight worth it? "Definitely," she replied.

"Peggy was very proud that her Daddy did have enough guts to stand up for her rights. She still is proud of him, and I am, too," she said. "If everybody sat back and took their decisions and never said anything, how could you accomplish anything?"

Empleados de la ciudad protestan tardanza

Acusando a la ciudad de que no ha negociado de buena fe y que evade deliveradamente las negociaciones sobre salarios, los empleados de la ciudad de Pomona invadieron la Camara del Concejo el Lunes por la noche en protesta de la interminable discusion laboral.

Representantes de la Asociacion de Policias y de otros grupos miscelaneos dijeron que las tacticas dilatorias de la Municipalidad estaban destruyendo la moral de la empleomania y habia colocado a la ciudad en una "postura de mala fe".

Rick Shaurette, presidente de la Asociacion de Policia, califico la presente situacion policial "desagradable", pero indico que la policia habia sido forzada a colocarse en un plano retardatorio del servio por las tacticas dilatorias de la municipalidad.

"Hemos llegado hasta donde debiamos llegar", dijo Shaurette, anadiendo que el comite negociador estaba en la audiencia preparado para continuar negociando directamente con el Concejo. Afirmo que mas conversaciones con el jefe negociador de la ciudad, abogado David G. Miller, las consideraba inutiles.

John Adams, representante de los varios empleados de la ciudad, dijo al Concejo que la oferta de un aumento del 2 por ciento era irrazonable e inaceptable. Acuso a la ciudad de que repetidamente habia dilatado la reunion con los representantes de los empleados y que la negociacion estaba estancada.

El alcade, Sr. Lepire, dijo a Adams que el Sr. Miller estaba presente y que le urgia a que se reuniera con el. Adams dijo que el salario de los empleados se sometiera a arbitraje, con efecto retroactivo a Julio primero.

El Concejo no hizo comentariosni oferta alguna a lo requerido.

El ex-concejal Clay Bryant acuso a la ciudad de que estaba hostigando a los policias, preguntandoles por que del aumento de ausencias por enfermedad en el departamento durante los ultimos 10 dias. Bryant ataco a la Municipalidad y a la administracion del Distrito Escolar de Pomona por su "carencia de liderazgo" en la comunidad. Su mas vitriolica acusacion, sin embargo, fue dirigida contra el Administrador de la Ciudad, Sr. Jerrold Gonce, a quien caracterizo como discualificado para su trabajo y en violacion de los requerimientos de residencia.

Gonce aclaro despues que el habia vivido temporamente en Ontario, pero que actualmente estaba viviendo en Pomona.

Bryant urgio al Concejo que dimita a Gonce y suprima inmediatamente la Oficina del Administrador de la ciudad y a todo su personal. Dijo que el Concejo deberia tomar sobre si las funciones ejecutivas de la ciudad. Bryant tambien acuso a un miembro de la oficina de Gonce que habia estado envuelto en actividades "criminales", de las que Gonce tenia conocimiento y que, a pesar de eso, no habia tomado decision alguna relativa al asunto. Aunque declino nombrar al individuo ni la clase de delito, Bryant aseguro tener "evidencias" en su posesion que soportan los cargos y ofrecio entregarlos en privado a Lepire.

E. J. Gaulding, un miembro de la comision planificadora de la ciudad, senalo que Bryant tenia la responsabilidad moral de entregar las evidencias del delito a las autoridades propias.

"Yo decidire lo que tenga que hacer con ellas. Ese es mi privilegio", contesto Bryant.

El Concejo tuvo una larga sesion ejecutiva a continuacion de la conclusion de los asuntos en la agenda, pero no hicieron referencia a las negociaciones laborales cuando retornaron a la Camara.

Los pagos en discusion entre la ciudad y la policia estan senalados para ir a adbitraje dentro de breves dias.

La ultima oferta de la ciudad fue de 2.5 por ciento de aumento.

La policia ha estado solicitando un 20 por ciento de aumento, pero ahora reclaman paradad con los bomberos de la ciudad, lo que significaria un pequeno aumento inmediatamente y aproximadamente un 10 por ciento el proximo Abril.

La Ciudad ofrecio a sus empleados 2 por ciento. No se conoce la contraoferta de los empleados.

Supreme Court

Lewis and Ruth Goldfarb share Mrs. Justice's grit, but they bagan their fight against the system with the advantages of Goldfarb's legal training and they soon picked up encouragement and a free lawyer from a public-interest organization.

However, even organizations working for the average citizen choose their cases carefully.

"Your cause has to fit their own objectives," said Lew Goldfarb, the young Reston, Va., homebuyer who challenged the legal profession's tradition of establishing minimum fee schedules for such services as real estate title searches, writing wills, and handling divorce proceedings.

The suit filed by Goldfarb and his wife, Ruth, resulted in a Supreme Court decision June 16 ending the legal profession's tradition of fixed fees. The court said fee schedules violate federal antitrust law when they affect interstate commerce and when they are enforced with the threat of discipline against lawyers who charge less than the suggested minimum.

Goldfarb's own legal education was a major factor in the couple's original decision to go to court after 20 different Fairfax County attorneys quoted the same fee, $522.50, for the title search required before they could buy their $54,000 house in a wooded cul-de-sac in Reston, a 45-minute drive from Washington.

Mrs. Goldfarb lamented the lack of basic legal and consumer education provided by the nation's schools. Asked what she would tell others who feel wronged by the system but lack training in the law, she said: "Write letters. Go public with whatever you have to say. Write to consumer groups, to senators, to congressmen, to anybody who might listen ... I guess I was born a letterwriter. I've written letters even to complain about sticky M & M's melting in my hand. I could list you a hundred small redresses we have been able to get from writing letters."

Stephen Wiesenfeld of New Brunswick, N.Y., felt the same way when he sat down three years ago and wrote a letter to the editor of his local newspaper complaining of unjust treatment by the Social Security Administration.

It was one more blow at a time when it seemed Wiesenfeld had troubles enough. His wife had died giving birth to their only child, a son named Jason.

Wiesenfeld, now 32, decided then that he must rear his son well even if it meant sacrificing some years from his career as a financial consultant.

The decision presented financial difficulties but, Wiesenfeld said, "the real tragedy would have been if I hadn't been able to spend the first three years of Jason's life with him."

Wiesenfeld's wife had been a teacher, so he petitioned for the Social Security benefits normally paid to widows upon the deaths of their wage earning husbands. He said he was told the benefits "weren't available to a man."

That smacked of illegal discrimination on the basis of sex, and he said so in his letter to the newspaper. Phyllis Boring, a teacher at Rutgers University and a leader in the Women's Equal Action League in New Brunswick, saw the letter, contacted Wiesenfeld and put him in touch with Ruth Bader Ginsberg, an American Civil Liberties Union lawyer specializing in equal rights cases.

Wiesenfeld won when the Supreme Court ruled on March 19 that the government must pay Social Security benefits to widowers, as well as widows, left with children to rear.

There were others who laid their grievances before the Supreme Court this term, many with free and expert advice from lawyers who have learned the system inside out in hopes of changing it.

But for every Wiesenfeld and Goldfarb and Justice, there are many who tried to change the system and failed, or stopped short.

"Justice is so expensive, maybe you can't afford it," Mrs. Justice mused. That's one reason, and there are others.

Many citizen suits are settled in trial courts with rulings that satisfy those individuals but produce no nationwide rule of law.

In addition, the nine justices of the Supreme Court turn aside many more cases than they hear, perhaps because they spoke on the same issue a year or two ago and see no need to address it again so soon, perhaps because of procedural errors in the lower courts, or perhaps because one citizen's complaint doesn't quite raise the issue they want to review.

Soviets become major world gold producers

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer

ALDAN, U.S.S.R. (AP) — In 50 years the Soviet Union has become a leading world gold producer and one of the country's first gold strikes was made in this corner of Siberia, called "the Russian Klondike."

It was the start of a gold rush that has made the Soviet Union the second largest producer after South Africa. The Soviets are now cashing in on the high world gold price with sales to provide needed hard currency.

Just how much gold the Soviet Union produces at this and other fields and the size of Soviet gold reserves are closely guarded secrets.

A trip to this area of wooded mountains and icy rivers 3,000 miles from Moscow provided no clues. A group of Western newsmen permitted to make a rare visit to Aldan's gold fields didn't even see any gold.

Aldwn, a city of 21,000 with log buildings sprawled across the hills, has none of the aura of a boom town or a gold rush settlement. About the only glitter in Aldan was the gilded statue of Lenin, and that wasn't gold leaf.

There was a brief flurry of excitement after the first gold discovery in 1923 and mining engineer Valery Anokhin said "Aldan could not avoid gold fever as people flocked in."

The gold is actually mined near a series of settlements scattered around the Aldan area where 4,000 workers run the big dredges and work the quarries where gold-bearing rock is loaded on trucks to be taken to a processing plant.

In 1935 the Soviets said they produced 150 tons of fold and had reserves of 745 tons. That was the last time they revealed figures.

Now there are widely varying Western estimates on production and reserves, but all authorities agree that the Soviet Union is the world's second biggest gold producer with an output from one-third to one-half of South Africa's.

Although the Soviet Union is a world economic power, its ruble is not convertible and the Kremlin has to pay gold or dollars for cash transactions with Western countries.

The ruble is officially pegged at $1.42 but that is an artificial rate and when the ruble is used in deals between Communist countries the exchange rate is more of an accounting unit than a reflecting of the ruble's actual worth.

So the Soviets do need gold and have a small army of geologists looking for it. The largest producing area is in eastern Siberia where all major rivers — the Lena, Yana, Indigirka, Kolyma, Andayr and Aldawn — have important placer deposits.

Battered wives: now emerging into open

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer

Wife beating, a social problem more common than rape but seldom publicized, is beginning to arouse the indignation of the women's liberation movement.

Until recently, even feminists ignored the issue. The police, the courts and most social agencies have given it little attention. There are no nationwide statistics, but regional statistics are beginning to be publicized, primarily by women's groups.

Any generalization has to be partly guesswork, but wife beating "affects at least three times as many women as the rape issue," says Del Martin, a woman's lib activist in San Francisco who is writing a book on the subject. Some FBI statistics seem to support her statement. In New York State, for example, 4,764 rape cases were reported to police in 1973, while 14,000 wife abuse cases were taken to family court, the FBI says.

"It's usually something people keep very quiet and suffer with," says Enid Keljik, the New York coordinator of the National Organization For Women's (NOW) Marriage and Divorce Committee.

One woman, in a hospital with a fractured skull, said a doctor tried to persuade her to report her beating as a fall downstairs. "He's remorseful. Go back to him," she says the doctor told her. And she did, only too ready to believe again."

"It's fear," said another woman. "Your belly's full of it. It usually happens at night when there's no place to go. I used to take the baby carriage out at night and walk the streets to get away."

Both these women live in Somerville, Mass. They are members of a recently formed group of Somerville wives who share the common experience of husbands who beat them. Their organization, called Respond, is trying to open a refuge where the women can go when their men become violent.

"What we need is a place for a woman to get away, to bring her kids and stay for a while with other women who understand her problem," says Mrs. Jean Luce, a leader of Respond.

Early this year, NOW began to discuss the problem. For the first time, wife beating will be on the agenda of a national NOW conference, scheduled for October in Philadelphia.

This summer in San Francisco, the California legislature is holding its first hearings on wife beating. And in a handful of cities — including Seattle, New York and Philadelphia — women have formed organizations similar to Somerville's Respond because they feel the courts, the churches and the social agencies have failed them.

Mrs. Keljik and others in the women's movement offer statistics like these in support of their claim that wife beating is a major social problem:

— In Boston, police receive 45 wife beating reports a day.

— Sixty per cent of the police calls at night in Atlanta are for domestic disturbances, many of them wife beating cases.

— One out of eight of the 19,500 murders in the nation in 1973 involved a spouse killing a spouse, according to the FBI.

— In Pasadena, Calif., a police department spokesman says, "There's quite a bit of it here, but we don't have anybody expert in the area."

"It's a hidden problem," says Allan Rogers, director of the Massachusetts Law Reform Institute. "Many people don't consider this a serious thing. They say every man has the right to beat his wife once in a while."

$6.1 million asked for flood channel

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

President Ford included $3 million in his proposed budget for work next year on the Cucamonga flood control channel.

But this amount was later reduced to $1.6 million by the House of Representatives.

San Bernardino County officials are now asking the U.S. Senate to appropriate $6.1 million when it studies the federal budget.

"We feel the $1.6 million proposed isn't sufficient for the 1975-76 fiscal year," said county Supervisor Robert Townsend. "The U.S. Corps of Engineers which has charge of the project reports it has a capability of $6.1 million in work next year."

Townsend has contacted the offices of both Sen. Alan Cranston and Sen. John Tunney. "Their representatives were not aware of the overall project. They asked for more information, which we sent them. "They were concerned and promised to watch for the matter to come up in the Senate Ways and Means Committee."

Support is expected from Cranston who was instrumental in obtaining $600,000 during the past fiscal year to start the channel work, said Townsend.

The supervisor has also contacted the office of Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., to determine why the $1.4 million was cut from the President's proposal. "The funds may have been given to another project since the overall public works budget wasn't reduced," he added.

County officials are seeking federal assistance to line the channel with concrete floors and walls, widen some areas and build debris basins to prevent a repeat of the 1969 floods.

Heavy runoff water then spilled over the dirt enbankment, causing $12 million damage to homes, businesses and industries.

Total channel cost is estimated at $75 million. The channel system carries off storm water from above Upland and Alta Loma some 14 miles to the Prado Basin south of Chino.

With the $600,000 previously allocated, the U.S. Corps of Engineers is constructing a channel outlet structure near Hellman Avenue and the Chino-Corona Road.

The work consists of grouted stone levees to dissipate the energy from the high velocity water to be delivered by the concrete channel, officials explained.

With the $3 million allocated in President Ford's budget, officials had anticipated improving the channel north to the Pomona Freeway. The project would have been advertised for bidding next spring.

Should the project receive only the $1.6 million approved by the House of Representatives, channel improvements will extend north to about Hellman Avenue, they added.

"We feel the entire channel project could be completed within five to eight years if funds are allocated to match the U.S. Corps of Engineers work capabilities," said Townsend.

In addition to federal money, the county flood control district will provide about $15 million to construct bridges where the channel crosses main streets. These will replace the dips which now channels the water across roadways.

Poly stadium may add seats

The Pomona City Council Monday is expected to consider allocation of $25,000 to help finance construction of additional seating at Kellogg Field on the Cal Poly campus.

The funds were requested last week by representatives of citizens' stadium committee. A $75,000 project is envisioned, with the Cal Poly Foundation and student body each contributing $25,000.

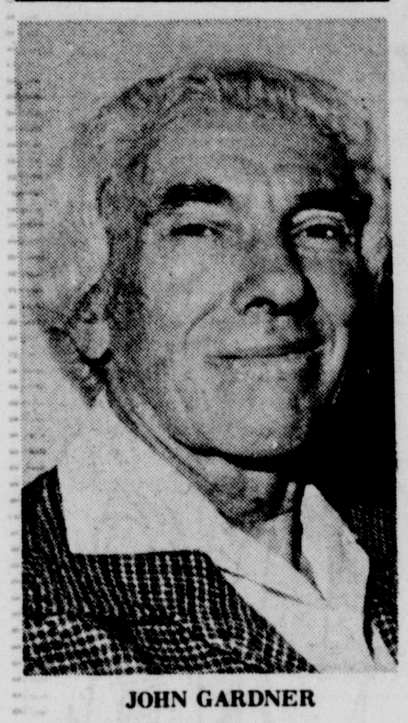
The project would increase the stadium's seating capacity by 4,100 seats.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include council discussion on the city's agreement with the Pomona Development Co. concering the property located on the northwest corner of Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard.

A six-story bank building was originally proposed for the site, but the project has failed to materialize.

The city's agreement with the company expires Aug. 31, with the property reverting to the city unless the council approves yet another time extension.

The council will also receive a communication from Police Chief F. P. Wallick, recommending that the city not grant a conditional use permit for operation of a bar on West Mission Boulevard at the site of the old Playmate Bar.



JOHN GARDNER

CIM clerk, accountant will retire

John Gardner, 61, called one of "the originals" by his fellow employes at the California Institution for Men in Chino, will soon retire after 36 years as a clerk and accountant.

Gardner started his state employment in 1939 in Chino when CIM was still on the planning board. In 1941, he along with construction officials and engineers was transferred to the Chino prison as a steno-clerk. "There were only four of five men here then," recalled Gardner.

In 1941 Gardner was promoted to senior accounting clerk. In 1945 he became the institution bookkeeper. Then in 1952 he was promoted to an accounting technician and finally to an accountant in the mid-1960s, a job he has held since.

Gardner is considered the institution's local historian, being able to recall nearly all the events that transformed CIM from a small 200-man minimum security facility to one of the largest prison institutions in California, and the general reception-guidance center for Southern California.

Gardner also became known to the inmates as an excellent organist and was asked to perform the Sunday organ services for the Catholic inmates. Gardner since has been playing the organ at CIM for Sunday services and has become the chief choir leader and organist for the Youth Training School's Catholic wards. Gardner, though retiring, will continue to play for the youth institution and CIM on a contract basis.

Gardner also said he plans to pursue his oil painting during retirement.

John Lincoln, associate superintendent at CIM, said when he first came to CIM he worked for Gardner as a clerk and through the years gained a great respect for him. Lincoln said Gardner "was a modest man. He would never say that he is largely responsible for the continuity of the entire accounting system of CIM since its very inception. He can never be replaced," said Lincoln.

Gardner is married and lives in Cucamonga. He has two children, a son in Mass., and a daughter who teaches school in Cucamonga. They have three grandchildren.

A member of the Class of 1949, Woodward will serve a three-year term on the board.

Woodward has been a freelance writer for trade and specialty publications, and at one time he was managing editor of Lucius Beebe's newspaper in Virginia City, Nev.

Totter hired

Brad J. Totter of Glendora has been hired as loan officer at the Fourth & Mountain Branch of Bank of America in Ontario.

He was hired by the bank a year ago and formerly worked on its advanced credit training program.

New Fire Chief takes over

A low-key ceremony will be held at Fire Station 1 in Claremont Friday at 8 a.m. when Claremont Fire Chief Robert A. Lee turns command over to Ron King, division assistant chief of the county fire department.

At that time the city of Claremont with an estimated 30,000 residents, will merge with the Los Angeles County Fire Department and become the 38th municipality to join the county Consolidated Fire Protection District.

Twenty-one Claremont firefighters will become county fire department employes with full rights, privileges, retirement, health and medical benefits now received by all county firefighters.

They also will retain their seniority rights, determined by the date they were hired, which will be inserted into the existing seniority system of the county.

Under the new plan, Fire Station 1 on Second Street will become county Fire Station 101 and will house Engine Company 101.

Additional fire protection will be provided by two existing county fire stations on Sumner Avenue and Padua Avenue. Although located outside city limits, their response time is one to two minutes.

Other county fire units will be called to fill needs until a firefighting situation is controlled.

Paramedic service, operating out of the San Dimas station, will become available to Claremonters, although Cole-Schaffer has paramedic ambulance service available.

Emergency telephone lines will be switched over to the county's dispatch center with exact timing so no calls are missed or delayed.

The county fire emergency telephone number is 629-9671, but residents may still phone the Claremont emergency number of 624-1666.

Residents are urged to obtain telephone stickers containing the new number at the fire station and to place the stickers on their telephones.

County firefighters will be walking the Claremont neighborhoods and passing out stickers and answering questions.

Richard H. Houts, chief engineer of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, will become fire chief for the city.

Lee who has been chief since he has hired by the city in September 1967 and will become a captain said that it is not often that a person gets a demotion and a pay raise at the same time.

He has been drawing $1,967 a month as fire chief. He will be paid $2,053 by the county as a captain.

Lee will probably go to a foothill county station north of Azusa.

He said that the Claremont firemen have received several changes of assignments because the city of Whittier elected to delay annexation to the county fire district, and 150 assignments were changed throughout the county as a result.

He said that Claremont firemen Walt Gatten, Rick Beck and John Moden will remain at Station 1 as engineers, and James David, Wayne Koppelman and Roger Banta will stay there as firemen.

Fireman Gene Metzger will be assigned to Station 70 at Malibu. Others will be assigned to stations throughout the eastern part of the county.

Claremont's Fire Station 2 at Base Line Road and Indian Hill Boulevard will be used by the city for park and recreation activities, but without any capital improvements.

A credit to the community

The valley can be justly proud of the $8½ million addition to the Pomona Valley Community Hospital which opens its doors to the public today.

But more than pride, it was the growing need of the community to take care of its sick that prompted the hospital's board of directors to undertake the project more than three years ago — a fifth addition in the 62-year history of the medical center.

Despite all past additions, the hospital has frequently been overcrowded because of the growing need for its services. Such problems have now been abated for years to come.

The new wing provides 65 new beds, 20 per cent more than before; enlarges emergency facilities to a point where it is second in the county only to the County-USC Medical Center in Los Angeles; and adds physical therapy and radiology sections that are the most modern in the state.

Expansion of medical services is a reflection of the foresight of community leaders who understand that a sick or injured person has only one overriding concern: What can be done and how quickly.

The Progress-Bulletin congratulates the hospital officials and staff, and all others who have been instrumental in bringing the new wing to fruition. The project is a credit to the community.

Private colleges are looking up

Parents of college-bound youths face a 10 per cent climb in tuition this fall. Even so, early indications are that the nation's private institutions of higher learning will not be lacking for students.

A recently completed survey of 607 independent colleges and universities shows that enrollment applications are ahead of last year for 55 yer cent of the schools; another 17 per cent are at least even.

The figures were released by the National Council of Independent Colleges and Universities, an affiliate of the Washington-based Association of American College (AAC).

The figures are a continuation of last fall's uptrend, which saw both the private and public sectors sharing a record 10-million enrollment. This year, however, the increase may not be shared by the public institutions. As many as 200,000 vacancies are predicted for fall by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

The increasing interest in independent colleges is occurring even though the average cost of attendance this fall, including tuition, room, board, books, transportation and personal expenses, will reach $4,391.

Such cost, together with current economic conditions, could be expected to channel more young people into public universities and vocational training, but this apparently won't be the case.

Commenting on the survey results, AAC president Dr. Frederick Ness cited a number of factors responsible. One is the growing number of states offering programs of some kind to offset the tuition gap between independent and state institutions, thus enabling students to have more freedom of choice. States having student grant programs have risen to 40, which represents a doubling during the past eight years.

Ness also credits federal programs of student aid with "making possible a financial package of state and federal assistance which, together with aid offered by the schools themselves, keeps the doors of independent colleges open to disadvantaged and middle-income students."

Also, the schools are tailoring programs to attract and accommodate new constituencies, such as housewives and working adults. Part-time enrollment and weekend classwork is now commonplace. According to the U.S. Office of Education, adults now account for nearly 50 per cent of the nation's total college enrollment.

In sum, fears that the nation's private schools were in danger of going under from the blows of recession and rising costs appear to have been unfounded. Instead, they seem to be thriving.

Did CIA plot backfire?

WASHINGTON — The late Robert Kennedy was tormented by the terrible thought, according to intimates, that he may have helped trigger the assassination of his brother.

We raised this possibility in January 1971, when we first revealed that the CIA had plotted to assassinate Cuban Premiere Fidel Castro. It has taken us 4 and a half years to get the rest of the story.

Loyal associates of Robert Kennedy, rushing to defend his memory, have sworn that he knew nothing about the assassination attempts and, contradictorily, that he put a stop to them. Both accounts are incorrect, according to sources with an intimate knowledge of the events.

Not only was he fully aware of the CIA's attempts to kill Castro but after President Kennedy was gunned down in Dallas, Robert was devastated by the possibility that the CIA plot may have backfired against his brother.

The preparations to knock off Castro began during the last months of the Eisenhower administration as part of the Bay of Pigs planning. President Kennedy, who inherited the fiasco, swore to friends afterward that he would like "to splinter the CIA in a thousand pieces and scatter it to the winds."

Instead, he appointed his brother, Robert, to oversee the CIA with instructions to shake it up. Characteristically, Robert began investigating the undercover operations from top to bottom. His purpose was to prevent another Bay of Pigs.

He became fascinated, say our sources, with the CIA's covert activities. Eagerly, he pursued the details down through the lower levels. As one source put it, "He was like a wide-eyed schoolboy."

In the process, he learned about the continuing effort to eliminate Castro, an operation known inside the CIA as the "executive action plan." In fact, Robert took a special interest in the activities against Castro. One insider, former Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatric, told us the focus "on the Cuban situation" was intensified in 1961 at Robert Kennedy's "insistence."

The President eventually put Robert in charge of a counterinsurgency committee, called the Special Group, which concentrated upon harassing Castro. One member, former CIA chief John McCone, acknowledged that the group had "directed mischievous things against Castro like infiltrating saboteurs, blowing bridges and carrying on general confusion."

McCone insisted, however, that "the group at no time gave any consideration to any assassination plot." We have established that the "executive action plan" was directed by William Harvey, the CIA operative whom we linked to the assassination plot in our original 1971 story. We also have learned that he reported to the late Desmond Fitzgerald in CIA headquarters. We have been unable, however, to identify the next link in the chain of command.

Nevertheless, wholly reliable sources insist that Robert Kennedy knew about the plot against Castro and did nothing to stop it. The intended target, Fidel Castro, also knew about it. One assassination squad reportedly was apprehended on a Havana rooftop, within range of Castro's movements, about the first of March 1963.

The Cuban premier, in an interview with Associated Press correspondent Daniel Harker the following September, warned that U.S. leaders would find themselves in danger if they attempted to do away with Cuban leaders.

"United States leaders should think that if they are aiding terrorist plans to eliminate Cuban leaders, they themselves will not be safe," Castro told Harker.

Two months later, President Kennedy was shot down in the streets of Dallas. The accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, had been active in the pro-Castro movement and had traveled to Mexico to visit the Cuban embassy a few weeks earlier.

The first person to reach Robert Kennedy's side after the shooting was CIA director John McCone, who remained alone with Robert at his McLean, Va., home for nearly three hours. All others, including Robert's priest, were turned away. But McCone swore to us that Castro's name was never mentioned during the agonizing three hours.

Other sources say that Robert, deeply despondent, went into semi-seclusion for the next few days. Although he bottled up his feelings, they knew him and understood the circumstances well enough to realize he blamed himself for his brother's death. There was little doubt, they say, that he believed the CIA's attempts against Castro put into motion the forces that brought about his brother's martyrdom.

On Jan. 18, 1971, we reported: "Among those privy to the CIA conspiracy, there is still a nagging suspicion — unsupported by the Warren Commission's findings — that Castro became aware of the U.S. plot upon his life and somehow recruited Oswald to retaliate against President Kennedy."

It has now been disclosed that the Warren Commission was told nothing about the CIA's plot to kill Castro even though the late Allen Dulles, the CIA chief who initiated the plot, sat on the commission.

According to the final report, the commission investigated "literally dozens of allegations of a conspiratorial contact between Oswald and the Cuban government" but found no substance to any of them.

The Cuban premier himself, in an interview with Frank Mankiewicz and Kirby Jones, emphatically denied having anything to do with the Kennedy assassination.

"It is . . . very interesting that this man Oswald, who was involved in the assassination, traveled to Mexico a few months prior to the assassination and applied for a permit at the Cuban embassy to travel to Cuba, and he was not given the permit," said Castro.

"But I ask myself why would a man who commits such an act try to come here. Sometimes we ask ourselves if someone did not wish to involve Cuba in this, because I am under the impression that Kennedy's assassination was organized by reactionaries in the United States and that it was all a result of a conspiracy . . .

"We have never believed in carrying out this type of activity of assassination of adversaries."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Some political advisers are urging President Ford to let the Republican convention choose his running mate next year. Sources close to the President tell us, however, that he will insist on keeping Vice President Nelson Rockefeller on the ticket . . .

Ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew has gone into Nixon-like seclusion in a fashionable neighborhood near Annapolis. The Agnew family refuses to talk to reporters and has little to do with its neighbors. Close friends say the proud Agnew is waiting for the right time to tell his story and clear his name . . .

Just in jest

Back in the days when the Roman Empire first began to totter a bit because of unemployment problems, the toga clad senators and other assorted Roman politicans decided that free bread and circuses would be the magic formula for keeping the populace happy and eventually restoring prosperity. Which just goes to show you what simple decisions those old Roman Empire statesmen had to make. Today bread and circuses wouldn't keep an American politician in office over thirty days. But never underestimate the ingenuity of modern statesmanship. Why, right now the house Ways and Means Committee is studying a plan that, if adopted, would make bread and circuses seem mere child's play. In addition to the food stamps which are now being issued, the Committee is considering beefing up the deal by also issuing clothing stamps. And in Michigan, health, education and welfare officials have about decided to offer folks on welfare relief a lump sum payment of $5,000 each if they will promise to leave the state.—Well, we all know what happened to the Roman Empire because of bread and circuses and other politically inspired cure-alls. Could it be that world history is once again about to repeat itself?

Heartline

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions. It costs you nothing. Write to Heartline, 8514 North Main St., Dayton, Ohio, 45415.

Heartline: I left the railroad industry in 1957 and haven't worked for them since then. I had nine years of service. I was told last year that I needed 10 years at age 55 to be vested. The new pension law 93-406 states that you need only eight years to be vested. I am 56 now. What is my status? A.B.

Answer: The new pension law does not pertain to the Railroad Retirement Board.

Heartline: Is it true that many Medicare carriers are basing their allowable amounts on outdated figures or averages of what doctors are charging? D.A.

Answer: Sometimes. Medicare computes reasonable charges, on which benefit payments are based, only once a year. So, if doctors have raised their charges since the most recent update, there could be a lag until Medicare completes its next annual review.

Heartline: I have heard that there is going to be a raise in Medicare premiums in July of 1975. Is there any validity to this? J.G.

Answer: Unless there is a change in the law, the Medicare premium will not go up from its present level.

Heartline: Will Medicare pay for false teeth? Mr. G.

Answer: No.

Heartline: I have worked steadily in a job covered by Social Security for almost 12 years, but I will not be under Social Security in my new job. Since I will not reach retirement age for many years, I am worried that I won't draw any Social Security benefits at that time. R.S.

Answer: If you have at least 40 quarters of coverage now, you will be insured in the future. But your benefit will be less than it would be if you continued in a Social Security covered job. This is because the benefit amount is based on your average Social Security earnings for years up to the year you retire and your earnings from the new job will not be credited as Social Security earnings.

Ann Landers

6 years on couch to no avail

Dear Ann Landers: You really blew it when that woman wrote to say her husband had given her the same thing for her birthday again that he's been giving her for years. An argument.

On Mother's Day he tells her, "You're not my mother, so don't expect anything." Last Christmas he gave her a set of brooms. Her question: "What makes a person so insensitive that he can't show a little love or affection?"

You replied: "People who are unable to show love and affection probably received none when they were growing up."

Your answer was completely backwards. What actually happened was that the guy got too much love and affection from his mother and he was afraid to show any toward his wife for fear she would smother him with affection in return.

I ought to know about such things. I spent six years on the couch because of the same problem. —Ralph

Dear Ralph: Sorry, I don't buy it. There's no such thing as "too much love." I don't know what it was that you got too much of, but it sounds like "smother love," a poor substitute for the real thing.

A great deal masquerades as love that is not love at all. Love is discipline, genuine concern, and the ability to allow the loved one room in which to grow.

I hope the couch resolved your problem — even though it failed to identify it.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read today's mail and I'm so burned up I'm letting the housework go. I'm not even going to answer the telephone until I get this letter written.

Isn't it enough that in-laws can come whenever they feel like it and stay as long as they want? What is your opinion of cousins (teenagers, yet) who write and say they are coming to spend a MONTH during summer vacation? What is a person supposed to do?

Of course these relatives are my husband's. He thinks it's O.K. But I am the one who has to do the washing and ironing and cooking. In other words, I'm running a free hotel. I also have to be a magician with the budget. The grocery bills are out of sight from these kids. They have stomachs like garbage disposals — they can eat any given amount.

Please, Ann, say something in your column to help people like me. I am —Exploited, Tromped-On And Trapped

Dear Friend: No one can be "Exploited, Tromped-On And Trapped" unless she allows herself to be.

I can't help you, but you can help yourself. Sit down at once and write the cousins that you are sorry but they'll have to make other plans because you just aren't up to having company this summer. Tell them YOU need a vacation and you're going to take one by not having any guests for a while.

CONFIDENTIAL to I'm Bored: I'm not surprised. Your whole life is centered around yourself, and YOU sound like a crashing bore. If you could possibly include even ONE person, it would help.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your wisest course is to rely only upon prersons who in the past haven't let you down. Don't put too much trust in a new principal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take with a grain of salt a sure thing a friend will want to let you in on. His intentions are good. The deal isn't.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will have to maneuver a bit today to protect your interests. Be on your toes. Lady Luck won't be there to help you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't make a hasty judgment on a matter of importance today. If you're wrong, you'll have a rough time backing out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) if you have an old obligation to a friend you just haven't gotten around to honoring this is a good time to clear it up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful today you don't make a decision for another without first getting consent. It could cause some hard feelings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Those you associate with today are not likely to be as ambitious as you will be, nor will they be seeking the same goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The next few days, don't let your optimism overpower your common sense. Deal with big issues on a realistic basis.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're a bit too anxious today to finalize issues. For the sake of expediency you could make some bad moves. Be patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have good ideas today but you're not likely to implement them properly. Don't let others get you off-track.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are several ways to economize now if you give the matter a little more thought. Be as prudent as your friendly banker.

Your Birthday July 28

You could become involved in something this year that's conducted from a distance. It could be interesting, profitable. One you know who now resides elsewhere will be your contact.

A kid's-eye view of the(kitchen)

A flood of books have been written lately on the sorrows of motherhood. They undoubtedly have been responsible for the significant decline in births in this country.

But none has carried such an impact as a little book called, "Smashed Potatoes," edited by Jane G. Martel. It's a kid's-eye view of the kitchen. . .filled with recipes and know-how as a child sees it.

POPCORN

37 of those hard little seed things that splode into popcorn.

3 hot butters to tricle on

1 dish of salt to throw over it

Put the popcorn seeds in the popcorn bowl and plug it in the plug hold —and get the toaster out of the way.

It takes about 10 hours to get going —but if you wait, you would see something funny. If your brother takes the lid off, popcorn go zinging all over the kitchen. POW! POW! POW!

Go wash both of your hands, because you need to eat it with fingers.

If you want to save it, put it in a big plastic Baggie and put it under your bed till tomorrow.

You just keep eating till it's all gone.

Frankly, I never go by the elephant's cage at the zoo and see them hosing the peanut shells down a drain that I don't think, "What a wonderful place to raise children."

You show me a boy who likes to cook and I'll show you a mother who is a little crazy.

I have another recipe I'd like to share with you from a mother's-eye view of the kitchen. It's called:

MY SON'S OMELET
FOR ONE

8 eggs (four on the floor, one mixed with shells, one sliding down cupboard door)

1 quart milk left standing until sour

1 egg beater

1 blender

1 mixer

4 pans

8 dishtowels

3 spatulas

Yield: One mother with a migraine.

Racing greyhound hits about 37 mph

DEAR DR. MILLER: How fast would my boyfriend's greyhound be if it were running in a race?. — M.B.

DEAR M. B.: It depends on the shape it is in, plus a few other factors. A reasonably good racing greyhound will cover the most popular 5/16ths mile distance in 32 seconds, traveling at about 37 miles per hour. For comparison, a thoroughbred horse would do about the same.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Which is better to get ticks off a dog? A lighted match close to the tick but not the skin or soaking the tick in gasoline? — M. N.

DEAR M.N.: Neither of the above should be used. Separately or (obviously) in combination. Too dangerous. An individual tick or two can be coated with white petroleum. A few more could be directly sprayed with an aerosol product containing flea spray. Powder is slightly more difficult to use. In larger numbers, a tick dip is most effective. For prevention where exposure is anticipated, a prior tick dip or a spraying of the dog's exterior (avoid nose and eyes) or use of the newer tick repellant collars is recommended.

Individual ticks should not be picked off by hand, unless you are an expert. (Many wild ticks are potentially hazardous to human health as well.) Squashing them in the hand in the process of getting them off the dog can be hazardous to humans involved. Also, this process frequently leaves the head of the tick in the skin to cause infection.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What is this I have heard about using lanoline to keep a Siamese cat from chewing up wool sweaters? I have checked into this and found that Siamese often do chew on wool so I guess I can't blame Tom Tiki too much. So far, I have just been careful to keep anything wool out of his reach. Some say lanoline will stop this wool hunger. Some say it doesn't do any good. I just want to be sure it won't hurt him if I try it. — P.E.

DEAR P.E: Plain unscented lanoline carries a calorie or two plus, in quality, a laxative effect. Unless old and rancid, it is otherwise innocuous. Allowing your cat on occasional lanoline lick (from your finger perhaps) should prove perfectly harmless and possibly effective in preventing wool chewing. It does indeed work with some Siamese, though unfortunately, not for all. Withholding wool is the ultimate answer for the otherwise incurable wool-consuming cat.

Dr. Lamb

High blood pressure medicine

DEAR DR. LAMB — To a layman it seems very strange to be taking a diuretic for high blood pressure. If you would explain I'm sure it would be appreciated by many of us.

A recent newspaper report says that essential hypertension may be caused by a metabolic defect in blood vessel walls. Would you care to comment?

DEAR READER — The commonly used diuretics work by causing the kidneys to increase the elimination of sodium. The body holds on to sufficient water to maintain a fairly constant ratio of salt (Sodium) to water. If you eliminate a comparable amount of water. With some of the newer, powerful diuretics you can overdo this to the point you have instant dried human. After all, normally more than half of the body weight is water.

The excess water in the tissues acts as a pressure device against all the blood vessels. That has some effect in raising pressure. The elimination of excess water also eliminates some from the amount of blood inside the blood vessels. These factors too lower pressure.

And, there is some thought that the sodium acts with other chemicals in the body to cause the small muscles in the arteries to constrict. Any cause for constriction of the arteries will cause the pressure to go up.

This last mentioned action of sodium is related to the idea that chemically some people have a different response, causing the muscles in the small arteries to contract, whereas in normal people with lower pressure the muscles in the arterial wall do not overcontract. The truth remains there is still a lot to be learned about the causes of high blood pressure.

For more information on blood pressure, write to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, and ask for The Health Letter, No. 1-8 on Blood Pressure. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for mailing and costs.

We do know, though, that diuretics are very helpful in many patients and that almost everyone with some degree of high blood pressure does much better by eliminating any evidence whatsoever of obesity. The latter is why I always recommend that even if you think you are skinny, if there is any evidence of back fat or other fatty deposits under the skin and you have high blood pressure, the first order of business is getting your excess fat off and keeping it off.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor told me I have a hydrocele but didn't elaborate too much as to what it is. Will you please tell me just what it is? Is there treatment other than surgery? Is it serious? My doctor was rather casual about it. Can a hydrocele become malignant? I have no pain or discomfort whatsoever, just the mental anguish as to what it is.

DEAR READER — A hydrocele is simply a sac of fluid around the testicle. We all have some fluid in our body cavities, such as the abdominal cavity. Because of some defect in the layers of membranes fluid leaks down into a sac around the testicle and causes the swelling. In most instances it is not an important medical problem, in terms of being dangerous to your health. The exception is when some important disease in the abdomen is the underlying cause.

I presume your doctor decided by examination that you had no other problems other than the hydrocele. The usual procedure is to drain it when it is too large, but to eliminate the problem entirely it is usually necessary to do minor surgery to remove the sac and repair the membranes. This is not dangerous surgery. The hydrocele itself cannot turn into a cancer.

Yes, food in cans changes

Client asks if food in sealed cans changes chemically in time. Yes, but those changes aren't dangerous. Some cans of carrots and veal 38 years ago were opened up in London. They had been brought back from the Arctic where they'd been taken on an expedition 114 years previously. The grub was still good.

In the preparation of food, which is the more significant, the way you cook it or the way you season it? Matter of opinion, sure enough. Most everybody hereabouts will say the way you cook it, I imagine. A gourmet of some renown, however, points out that the use of seasoning herbs dates much farther back than the use of fire.

To learn the average foursome spends 36.6 per cent of their time on the course walking, 8.5 per cent swinging, 20.4 per cent eyeballing the cups on the greens, and 34.5 per cent waiting. In other words, those golfers do not exercise at all while out there for 55 per cent of the time.

South bid his hand with all the delicacy of a bull in a China shop. It didn't really matter this time since three notrump was the correct final contract. What did matter was that he played the hand with almost the same technique.

East won the first trick with the king of spades and knocked dummy's ace. South cashed dummy's ace of diamonds and led a second diamond to his eight. West let that eight spot hold, so that North would only be able to take three diamond tricks.

This didn't worry South at all. East had overcalled. East needed the king of hearts for his overcall. Therefore, South entered dummy with the last high diamond, led a heart, finessed his queen and wound up one trick short after West produced the king.

We don't sympathize with South at all. True, East had made a horrible overcall. But when you have a sure thing why not take advantage of it?

South could have cashed his queen of spades in case East had overcalled on a three-card suit. Then he could have led the third diamond to dummy, thrown West in with the fourth one and made West lead a heart or a club to give South his all important ninth trick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Toronto letter reads in part: "My right hand opponent opens one notrump and is raised to game. What should I lead from?" His hand is:

♠ Q 8 2 ♥ 7 5 4 ♦ 3 2 ♣ 10 8 7 5 4

The answer is the deuce of spades. His partner has cards. He has nothing and his best chance to beat this contract is to find his partner with five cards in the spade suit.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Stock Exchange trading for the week:

Wall Street

Sharpest decline in 6½ months

NEW YORK (AP) — The combination of a further rise in interest rates and renewed inflation worries added up to the biggest setback of the year for the stock market this past week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 28.32 for its sharpest weekly loss since it dropped 31.06 last Dec. 2-6 at the bottom of the long 1973-74 bear market.

The Dow has now fallen 47.72 points since it reached a new recovery high July 15.

Other market measures posted equally steep declines, with Standard & Poor's 500-stock index losing 3.91 to 89.29 and the New York Stock Exchange composite index sliding 2.20 to 47.87.

Declines overwhelmed advances 1,605 to 263 among the 2,020 issues traded on the Big Board.

If there was any comfort for the optimists, it came in the fact that volume shrank considerably, suggesting an absence of any heavy selling pressure.

Turnover on the NYSE averaged 18.63 million shares a day, down from 22.76 million the week before.

There was considerable talk on Wall Street that a long-predicted "correction" — a normal pullback dictated by internal market forces after a protracted rally — had at last arrived.

But analysts also generally agreed that the market's problems extended to the economic news, on the specific subjects of interest rates and inflation.

An uptrend continued in the bank prime lending rate. New York's First National City Bank held its rate unchanged at 7½ per cent after three consecutive weeks of quarter-point increases, but a number of other major banks moved to catch up with Citibank at the 7½ per cent level.

And there were fears of further upward pressure on interest rates because of Federal Reserve figures which showed the nation's money supply continuing to grow at a rate well beyond the Fed's stated target of 5 to 7½ per cent.

As long as the money supply was growing faster than the Fed wanted it to, the reasoning went, the central bank might well take further steps to offset it, pushing interest rates still higher in the process.

Early in the week, in what one broker called "a bit of a shocker," the government reported that consumer prices rose at a 9.6 per cent annual rate in June — twice the pace set the month before.

Alan Greenspan, President Ford's chief economic advisor, meanwhile predicted that the wholesale price index for July would take a big jump as a result of higher grain prices.

In all, 114 issues hit new highs for the year on the Big Board, against 20 new lows.

Xerox, the week's most active issue, tumbled 8¾ to 58⅜. On Monday the company reported that it would withdraw from the computer mainframe business and take an $84.4 million writeoff.

Some other big-name glamor issues were notably weak as well. IBM fell 11⅜ to 190½; National Semiconductor was off 7⅞ at 37⅝; Polaroid dropped 1⅝ to 38⅞ and American Home Products lost 1⅞ to 36.

One of the few gainers on the active list was Eastman Kodak, which edged up ¾ to 99⅞. The company reported a 3 per cent decline in second quarter earnings quarterly dividend, slumped 5⅜ to 30⅝.

The Foothill Philharmonic Committee will sponsor trips to Friday and Sunday afternoon concerts of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra at the Music Center again this year.

A block of choice seats has been reserved and air conditioned buses have been chartered for the trips. The buses will pick up patrons at designated stops for each trip and will take them directly to and from the Music Center.

"Sundays at the Symphony" is composed of two series of concerts. Series G-1 consists of six programs beginning Oct. 26, followed by those on Dec. 21, Jan. 25, Feb. 29, March 21 and May 2. The second series of five concerts, G-2, includes concerts on Nov. 9, Jan. 11, Feb. 15, March 7 and April 11. Buses will depart from Claremont Village Green, Claremont Manor and Mt. San Antonio Gardens shortly after 1 p.m., returning about 5:30 p.m.

"Fun Filled Fridays," the third group of concerts, Series C, are scheduled Nov. 7, Dec. 19, Jan. 30, Feb. 20, March 19 and April 16. The Friday bus will leave Bridges Auditorium at 9:30 a.m., arriving at the Music Center by 10:15 a.m. The bus will take those who wish to go to the downtown area for shopping and luncheon and return them to the Music Center at 1:15 p.m. for the matinee concert. Others may stay at the Music Center for brunch and hear a preview of the program to be played that afternoon. The buses will return to Claremont about 4:30 p.m.

Tickets are still available in two price ranges for the G-1 and the C Series. Patrons may subscribe for one or more of the series.

Additional information and order forms may be secured from the chairman, Mrs. W. R. Weingartner, 624-5267, or Mrs. Don Clark, 626-5409.

The new mature woman

A time of fulfilment

By LYNNE ABRAHAM
(fourth in series)

"Lifestyle," according to Webster, is "an individual's typical way of life." But there is nothing "typical" about the way today's middleaged woman lives, works or loves.

For married women, who make up about two-thirds of this group, the years after their children have grown and left home can be happy ones. "The time of the empty nest turns out to be a time of fulfillment," according to a University of Michigan research team.

With home responsibilities lessened, a married woman is likely to get more involved in her community as a volunteer or to take a job. Her earnings add to the couple's retirement security and sometimes permit long-postponed leisure activities. Many older marrieds are returning to school, some finding, as one 54-year-old did, that education can revitalize a marriage: "I'm happy and my husband's happy. We're both growing."

But the very ingredient that will bind one marriage can tear another apart. More couples than ever before are "celebrating" their 20th anniversary in a divorce court, and not simply because they chose to ignore deep-seated marital problems until their children were grown. Dr. Alfred Messer, an authority on the "20-year split," blames the current high divorce rate among the middleaged on growing demands for personal fulfillment.

This new attitude was dramatically stated by Angelina Alioto, estranged wife of the mayor of San Francisco: "I have been my parent's daughter, the wife of my husband, the mother of my six children and grandmother to my 11 grandchildren. But I have never been me."

Even among women who maintain conservative beliefs about the importance of home and family, the combined impact of the women's movement and inflation is undeniable. Nancy Seifer, writing in "Absent from the Masjority — Working Class Women in America," notes that when traditionally housebound wives of blue-collar workers take jobs to bring in needed money, they risk upsetting their marriages. "As wives gain independence, many husbands grow unsure of their roles, and marriages begin to flounder."

Whether divorced, widowed or never-married, one out of three middleaged women is without a spouse. For many, the single life is a good one. By the time she reaches 40, a never-married woman usually has a permanent home, belongings she cherishes, and friends she can count on. Even widows and divorcees, once they adjust to life as a strong single instead of a half-a-couple, value the freedom they've gained. Said one woman participant in a woman-alone workshop, "I can eat when I'm hungry, and watch TV until 1 a.m. if that's what I want."

Some women cut costs by taking roommates, or living alone but sharing meals and other expenses. A few experiment with communal living arrangements. However, most older single women live alone. Those now supporting themselves for the first time are often pleased at how resourceful and self-reliant they can become.

With money, the single life can be lively indeed. But many women without partners — especially those with children — are caught in a financial squeeze. There has been a dramatic increase in the number of families headed by women. Thirty-eight percent of these families live below the poverty level, compared to 11 percent of all U.S. families.

"The latest fad among consenting adults is marriage!" one wag has remarked. Today we see mature women opting for less traditional unions — with younger men, for instance, or with husbands whose careers do not intrude on their own.

Once she's tasted the independent single life, a divorcee or widow may be reluctant to leap into remarriage. But the older woman is by no means out of the marriage market. In fact, there's a new breed of femme fatale, according to Harper's Bazaar writer Helen Van Slyke. "The middleaged misfit has become the hottest menace in town," she writes. "Youth alone is no match for charm, wit, assurance, attentiveness, and experience. It takes time to develop a style."

BACK SAFELY Cincinnati's Joe Morgan dives back to first base under the tag attempt by Dodgers' Steve Garvey in the seventh inning of Saturday's game won by the Reds, 5-3.

Rose sinks L.A. hopes

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jack Billingham thinks the Cincinnati Reds have slammed the coffin lid on the defending National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

"They've got to feel it's going to take a miracle now," said Billingham, after he beat the Dodgers 5-3 Saturday before a national television audience.

The triumph, powered by Pete Rose's four hits, three runs scored and one run batted in, gave the Reds their widest West Division lead of the year, a commanding 13½-game bulge.

"I don't see how they can do it. It would take a complete collapse on our part and that's not going to happen," continued Billingham.

But Dodgers' Manager Walter Alston refused to concede anything to the Reds. "I don't think anybody's gonna play dead," he said.

"A win was the only thing on my mind," added Billingham, a tall right-hander, who was let go by the Dodgers, his first major league team, in 1969 expansion draft.

Rawly Eastwick came on to provide that win with last-out relief in blazing style, striking out pinch-hitter Ken McMullen on three straight pitches with two men on base.

"I just don't feel any pressure in that kind of a situation," said Eastwick. "The pressure's on the batter."

Johnny Bench, who drove in two runs without a hit for the National League West-leading Reds, delivered the winning run in the fifth inning with a sacrifice fly to centerfield.

Rose ignited that rally, as he had done in the first and third innings when the Reds scored their first three runs. With the score tied 3-3, Rose led off the fifth with a single. Dave Concepcion and Joe Morgan loaded the bases when Ron Cey and starting Dodger pitcher Doug Rau made errors on ground balls.

Rau was then replaced by Rick Rhoden, who limited the Reds to only one run, which scored on Bench's sacrifice fly.

Rose's four hits gave him 135 for the season and boosted his batting average to .318.

Despite stomach ache

Shaw wins third gold medal

CALI, Colombia (AP) — Teenaged Californian Tim Shaw, not letting a slight stomach disorder upset him, captured his third gold medal and East Germany set a world record for the women's 400-meter freestyle relay in the II World Aquatics Championships Saturday night.

Two more finals in swimming, the men's highboard diving championship and the water polo title game on Sunday will end these games.

The United States also got gold-medal performances Saturday from Greg Jagenberg and the synchronized swimming duo Robin Curren and Amanda Norrish, upping the American tally to 13.

The East German, America's chief rival in the battle for medals, got their second gold of the night when Rosemarie Kother won the women's 100-meter butterfly. That gave them 10 gold.

Over-all, the Americans, with nine silver medals and eight bronzes, lead with a total of 30, while the East Germans, with seven silvers and five bronzes, have 22. No other nation was even close.

World recordholder Shaw, a 17-year-old sensation from Long Beach, Calif., wasn't even pressed in recording a winning time of 15:28.92 in the 1,500. It was well off his world mark of 15:20.91, however.

The East German women's world-record performance gave them revenge for a loss to America in a dual swim meet between the two nations last year at Concord, Calif., where a U.S. quartet set the old world mark of 3:51.99. The East German clocking here Saturday night was 3:49.37.

The 17-year old Shaw, with victories in the 200 and 400 freestyle here, set a meet record in beating Brian Goodell of Mission Viejo, Calif., who was second in 15:39.00. Third place was taken by David Parker of Great Britain.

At the end, Shaw was nearly 20 meters ahead of the 16-yearold Goodell, only other swimmer in the field to finish in the same lap with the outstanding freestyler.

Parker was just entered the turn for his final leg as Shaw touched the wall for his third individual gold medal of these games.

Shaw was denied a gold medal Friday night when a world record-shattering performance by an American team in the 800-meter freestyle relay was disqualified because Bruce Furniss of Santa Ana, Calif., jumped the gun on the final leg.

Saturday night, however, Shaw was on his own. He immediately grabbed the lead and was never challenged.

"It was just a regular 1,500," said Shaw. "There was nothing special about the race."

Kornelia Ender, 100-meter butterfly champion here, gave the East Germans an early lead they never lost in their record-shattering performance in the 400-meter relay.

Barbara Krause raced the second leg and Claudia Hempel the third. Ute Bruckner finished up for the East Germans and held off a challenge by American anchorwoman Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif.

The rest of the American team consisted of Kathy Heddy of Summit, N.J., Karen Reeser of Sunnyvale, Calif. and Kelly Rowell of Santa Clara, Calif.

Danny Lopez knocks out Cruz

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Danny Lopez carried the early fight with ease and then fired a right cross to the chin which knocked out Raoul Cruz of Mexico City in the sixth round of their scheduled 10 rounder Saturday night.

Lopez, 126¾, Arcadia, Calif., controlled the fight during the second through fourth rounds and through the start of the fifth.

Midway through the fifth Cruz battered Lopez with straight lefts and right crosses and seemingly had him in trouble.

But at 1:30 of the sixth Lopez hit Cruz with a right cross and knocked him flat on his back. Referee John Thomas did not bother to count, and Dr. Bernhard Schwartz had to enter the ring to revive Cruz. He left under his own power.

The victory may earn Lopez a shot at the World Boxing Association featherweight title held by Nicaragua's Alexis Arguello.

Arguello has signed to defend against Royal Kobayashi Oct. 12 in Japan, but he has expressed interest in a $100,000 offer made by Olympic promoter Aileen Eaton to fight Lopez.

The victory over Cruz improved Lopez' record to 26-3 with 24 knockouts. Cruz, 126½, of Mexico City, is 43-12-1 including triumphs over former world bantamweight champions Lionel Rose, Chuchu Castillo and Rafael Herrera.

Lopez, once a highly-rated contender for the featherweight title, won his last fight when he knocked out Castillo in two rounds. But he had dropped three previous fights causing talk that he had lost his ability.

Lopez had lost to Famosa Gomez in 10 rounds, had been knocked out by Bobby Chacon in nine, and had been knocked out in nine when he suffered bad cuts in a bout with Shig Fukuyama.

In a companion 10 rounder, Gerardo Aceves, 126¾, Mexico City, knocked out Enrique Garcia, 126, also of Mexico City at 2:03 of the fourth round.

A right cross to the chin followed by a left hook put Garcia down and referee Lou Filippo counted him out.

Aceves continued undefeated and is now 16-0-0. It was his 12th knockout. Garcia is 47-10-0.

Ryan wins (finally) as Angels split

ANAHEIM (AP) — Troubled Nolan Ryan needed eighth-inning help, but snapped an eight-game losing streak Saturday night to lead the California Angels a 5-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins and a split of their doubleheader.

Eric Soderholm and Danny Thompson hit two-run singles in the eighth inning and Minnesota scored three more runs in the ninth to rout the Angels 9-4 victory in the opener.

Ryan, winless since June 6 during which time he had an earned run average of 6.39 while undergoing the longest tailspin of his career, leveled his record at 11-11 and authored his sixth shutout of the season.

His good fastball was missing as he gave up six hits, fanned only two and walked four before being relieved in the eighth by Jim Brewer.

John Balaz, a rookie outfielder, gave Ryan all the runs he needed when he ripped a two-run homer—his first—off loser Vic Albury, 5-5, in the second inning.

The Angels, who managed six hits, added two more in the fourth on run-scoring singles by Mike Miley and Jerry Remy. It was only the second victory for California in its last 15 home games.

Angel Manager Dick Williams was ejected in the third inning of the second game.

In the first game, Ed Figueroa, 8-7, gave up singles to Steve Braun and Rod Carew and walked Tony Oliva to fill the bases before Soderholm drilled a single to center, putting the Twins ahead 4-3. Jim Brewer replaced Figueroa and walked Lyman Bostock before Thompson capped the burst with his single to left. A single by Carew and sacrifice flies by Jerry Terrell and John Briggs gave the Twins their runs in the ninth.

Lee Stanton drilled a two-run triple in the first inning off winner Dave Goltz, 8-8, and Mike Miley's single gave the Angels a 3-0 lead in the fourth. Tommy Harper singled for a California run in the ninth.

Minnesota's first two runs came in the fifth on Briggs' double, Bostock's single and Figueroa's throwing error on the hit, a walk and second baseman Jerry Remy's throwing error.

Aztecs blank Hartford, 5-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Uri Banhoffer fired in three goals and Alex Russell added a goal and an assist as the Los Angeles Aztecs blanked the Hartford Bicentennial, 5-0, in a North American Soccer League game Saturday night.

Banhoffer scored what proved to be the winning goal in the 11th minute on a 23-yard shot from the left side after a pass from Bobby Sibbald in the middle.

North bests South 21-13 in Shrine Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dexter Tisby of Fairfax High scored his team's first touchdown and gained 91 yards on 13 carries to lead the North to a 21-13 victory over the South in the annual Shrine High football game.

The South was on the North 33 with 32 seconds remaining, but South quarterback Dan Morovick of St. John Bosco threw the ball out of bounds on fourth down to stop the clock when he forgot what down it was.

Had the South scored a touchdown, it could have tried for a two point conversion to tie the game.

The mistake wrote a sad end to a strong performance by Morovick, who started the game's scoring with a 23-yard pass to Harlon Johnson of Bell and later ran five yards for another score. He also completed 10 of 22 passes for 132 yards.

The victory before 35,382 in Rose Bowl was the second for the North over the South since the selection process was changed to include only players from the CIF Southern Section and Los Angeles City.

After Johnson scored and Art Sorce added the point after kick to give the North a 7-0 lead, the South evened the score on Tisby's touchdown and a kick by Brian Bethke of South Hills.

Bill McCormick of St. Francis in La Canada then ran seven yards to give the North a 14-7 lead, and quarterback Tom Miller of Burroughs of Burbank ran three yards for another score to put the North ahead 21-7.

Jim Kaat first at 15 victories

Jim Kaat of the Chicago White Sox became the major league's first 15-game winner this season and Baltimore's Mike Cuellar pitched his second one-hitter of the baseball season Saturday.

Kaat, 15-7, checked Oakland on five hits—including home runs by Phil Garner and Gene Tenace—and rode Bucky Dent's three-run homer in the eighth inning to a 5-2 victory over the A's.

Cuellar, 10-6, limited Milwaukee to George Scott's line single in the seventh inning and the Orioles, aided by five errors, breezed to a 4-0 victory. The 38-year-old left-hander, who one-hit California May 31, lost the no-hit bid against the Brewers when Scott, leading off the bottom of the seventh, hit a clean single up the middle, several feet beyond the reach of shortstop Mark Belanger. Cuellar finished with 10 strikeouts and three walks.

In other American League action, Boston beat the New York Yankees 4-2 and Cleveland defeated Detroit 6-0. In National League afternoon games, Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 5-3, Montreal downed Pittsburgh 5-2 and the New York Mets edged the Chicago Cubs 9-8 in 10 innings.

In late NL play, San Diego beat Atlanta 4-2, Philadelphia ripped St. Louis 9-4 and, in a twi-night twinbill, San Francisco swept a doubleheader from Houston 3-2 and 9-3.

In the AL, Kansas City beat Texas 7-0 and, in a twi-night doubleheader, Minnesota routed California 9-4 in the first game before Nolan Ryan broke a personal eight-game losing streak to pitch the Angels to a 5-0 victory in the nightcap.

Arcadia offense ousts Claremont

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Correspondent

If Arcadia Post 247 had its way, it would schedule Claremont Post 78 in all of its District 18 American Legion baseball playoff games.

Coaches Angelo Mazzarese's and Angelo Possemato's club routed Claremont pitching for the second time in three days to advance to today's 3 p.m. championship game with La Verne.

Arcadia bombed three of coach Jack Helber's hurlers for 14 hits in an 11-2 rout.

In two matchups, Arcadia ripped Claremont pitchers for 24 runs and 30 hits. Its other outing was a five-hit, 5-3 loss to La Verne.

Arcadia has shown to be rough on opposition pitching — everyone's but La Verne's.

La Verne needs only one win today to repeat as the District 18 representatives. Arcadia must beat La Verne twice.

Claremont's bats were silenced through six innings as winning pitcher Brad Ducich yielded just four hits while fanning four and walking one.

Claremont awoke to score two eighth-inning runs off reliever Jeff Mascaret, who walked the bases loaded. Tim Helton broke the ice with a solid single to center to drive home Carl Cervantes and Rob Haerr.

Helton wound up the tourney with six hits in 14 at-bats, including two home runs and five RBI.

Bill Anderson continued to supply much of the Arcadia offense. The second baseman-shortstop added three hits, two RBI and four runs scored to his tourney totals in Saturday's rout at Ralph Welch Park.

He helped break the game open in the second inning with a two-run shot to left field.

His three-day performance includes eight hits in 13 at-bats, seven runs scored, two doubles, one triple and two homers.

Tim Noonan contributed to the assault with three hits and three RBI. Ducich helped his own cause with two hits. He has six hits in 12 at-bats in the playoffs.

Righthander Mark Knueven (5-1) will take the mound for Arcadia today and will probably be opposed by either Bill Bumstead (6-3) or Dave Drury (3-4) for La Verne.

Post 330 is led at the plate by Bruce McNaught (four-for-eight), Bumstead (three-for-seven) and Drury (three-for-seven).

Cullen Bryant may go to court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The attorney for Cullen Bryant said Saturday he will go to court if necessary to stop National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle from ordering the running back sent from Los Angeles to the Detroit Lions.

Bryant was ordered to Detroit in a "Rozelle Rule" move by the commissioner Friday in compensation for Ron Jessie, the wide receiver who played out his option with the Lions and signed with the Rams as a free agent last month.

The controversial rule, already under court test in Minnesota, allows the commissioner to decide the compensation for signing a free agent if the teams involved cannot agree—and the Lions and Rams were unable to decide what to do in the Jessie case and the rule was invoked for only the fifth time.

Bryant's attorney, Ed Masry, said, "This is the first time a veteran player has ever been involved.

"I think it's a dangerous precedent and bad for professional football. The Rozelle Rule is bad enough when applied to just draft picks but when he starts pulling veteran players around I think he's taking too much of a dictatorial stance."

The attorney added, "The question is whether or not the commissioner can, of his own volition, transfer a veteran player."

The attorney said he had sent a telegram to Rozelle "asking him to reconsider and rescind" the award.

If the commissioner does not change the order, Masry said "there is no alternative but to go to court, which is something I don't want and I'm quite certain the majority of owners don't want." He said because of the immediacy of the case there was no time to wait for a decision from Minnesota, where a ruling is not expected until at least this fall.

Masry said although Bryant had left the Ram training camp he would not report to Detroit.

The Detroit Lions expressed "delight" at the award, and said Rozelle would decide at the end of the season if any other compensation were due, but the Rams continued to decline comment on the case.

In New York, a league spokesman said only that the commissioner was fulfilling his obligations. The spokesman declined further comment.

In the other Rozelle Rule cases, except one instance, draft choices were awarded for the signing of veteran players who had become free agents.

The exception was when Rozelle gave the rights to Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame, then a rookie, and a first-round draft choice to San Francisco in 1968 after New Orleans signed former 49er Dave Parks.

Masry said Bryant, a three-year man out of Colorado who was converted from a defensive back to running back, was "shocked" by the ruling.

Willmar takes Del Mar win

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — Willmar saved ground early and survived a hard bump near the finish to score a length victory in the $22,200 Oceanside Handicap Saturday at Del Mar.

Frank Olivares kept Willmar along the hedge until the final turn, then eased the gelding outside, brushed with Buck Price while making his bid, and took a hard bump from New Stamp at the finish.

Carrying 115 pounds, he covered the 7½ furlongs on turf in 1:29 1-5. He paid $10.20, $3.20 and $3.20.

Buck Price finished in a dead heat with Blue Times for second. Each paid $2.40 and $3. Buck Price, ridden by Darrel McHargue, carried 112 pounds, while Blue Times, with Bill Shoemaker in the saddle, packed 120.

New Stamp finished fourth in the field of seven 3-year-olds and up.

The victory earned $13,200 for Willmar's owners, Raymond Benford and Vito Mazzotta.

YER OUT! — Diamond Bar's Mike Dorning tags Pomona National's Ken Chapple out at the plate during third-inning action Saturday in the District 20 Little League playoffs. Diamond Bar overcame a 3-1 deficit to down National 10-3 and nab the District championship.

Diamond Bar nabs District 20 L.L. title

Home runs net victory

Diamond Bar exploded for six runs in the fifth inning enroute to a 10-3 victory over Pomona National in the championship finals of the District 20 Major Division Little League Tournament held Saturday at the Diamond Bar L.L. field.

The championship marks the third time in five years that the Diamond Bar Major League All-Stars have nabbed the District 20 title.

The victory advances Diamond Bar to the Section Three Tourney. The DB'ers will open Section play Tuesday night at 5:30 p.m. at Rainey Schnepp Field in Upland. Their opponent will be Ontario American, a 8-2 victor over Ontario Eastern in the District 23 finals Saturday.

Pomona National held a 3-1 lead going into the fifth inning of Saturday's contest, but the powerful Diamond Bar attack struck for six runs, including two-run homers by Tommy Davis and Ted Brewster.

In that frame, Jim Paulson led off by reaching safely on an error. Mike Dorning followed with perhaps the key play of the inning and the game, faking a bunt and then slapping the ball past the charging third baseman for a single.

Jim Liggett then put down another bunt, which resulted in a throwing error on Pomona National and brought home Pauison and Dorning with the tieing runs. Liggett was out at third on the play, but Roger Kling kept the rally alive with a single and Davis put Diamond Bar ahead to stay with a long home run over the right field barrier.

Brewster applied the capper to the inning by following Pat McQueen's one-bagger with a homer over the fence in leftfield.

Kling pushed the D.B. lead to 10-3 in the top of the sixth with a three-run home run of his own, the hit being his third of the contest.

National looked like it was going to put the game away in the third inning, as two Diamond Bar errors, two walks, and singles by Henry Gonzales, Robert Gianciolo and Ken Chapple netted three runs off of starting hurler Greg Lynch. But Lynch bore down to get Ron Lawson to ground out with the sacks full to prevent any further scoring.

Lynch was hit by a pitch in the fifth inning and had to leave the game, but Davis proved to be a most effective fireman. The Diamond Bar southpaw retired all six men he faceed, striking out four of them, to preserve Lynch's victory.

The initial run of the contest had come in the top of the second, as Diamond Bar's McQueen singled, moved to second on a passed ball, to third on a wild pitch, and scored on Brewster's ground out.

Diamond Bar amassed nine hits on the game, while Pomona National had six. Big difference was in the extra-base hit department, as Diamond Bar belted those three homers to only a double by National's Bernardo Valenzuela. Hurlers Lynch and Davis combined to fan nine Pomona batters, and Diamond Bar played errorless ball afield outside of the third inning when National picked up its three tallies.

Chino rally wins Pony championship

Chino made a great comeback to defeat Ontario Pinto 5-4 to cinch the championship in Montclair's District 1- Section 4 Pony League Tournament for 14-year-olds. In the second of two games played at John F. Kennedy Park Saturday night, Chino scored four times in the seventh frame to pull out the win.

In the earlier game, it was do-or-die situation for both Claremont and Ontario, and Ontario came out on the long end of a 4-1 decision.

Chino will now advance to the Section 4 Pony League Tournament in Rialto starting Wednesday night.

Chino scored in the first without the benefit of a hit. Ron Lopez walked and scored after two Pinto errors were committed. Chino added an unearned tally in the fourth.

Ontario scored four times in the sixth on three singles and two walks. Kevin Vaughn and John Giordano picked up an RBI apiece. One other run came in on an error, and the final tally for Pinto came across on catcher's interference.

Trailing 4-1 in the last half of the seventh, Chino's Ron Lopez tripled to right field to start a one-out rally. After a walk to Jerry Schlesinger, Ben Almendariz grounded out with Lopez scoring. Roger Fernandez drove home Schlesinger with a single knotting the score. Ben Craft then singled sending Ontario pitcher Mike Newman to the showers.

Reliever Stan Schubert's first toss was wild, advancing Fernandez and Craft. David Pickens then lined a single to left, Fernandez scoring with the game-winning run.

Loepez was chosen as the MVP of the tournament. He made some fine defensive plays at shortstop, as well as collecting four hits in the tourney including the key hit in the seventh inning.

Claremont took an early 1-0 lead when Matt Jahant's grounder to third brought in Kevin Corcoran, who had reached base when he was hit by a pitch. After that, it was all Ontario. Pinto tied up the game in the third, and went in front in the fourth when Stan Schubert executed a perfect squeeze bunt to score Mike McCarthy.

Ontario made the final 4-1 by adding a pair of tallies in the seventh on four singles. Bob Fellhauer and Vaugh picked up the RBIs in that frame. Vaughn gave up just five hits to Claremont.

Claremont was in the game after losing to Chino, 7-1, in a contest that ended at 12:30 Saturday morning. In that game, every run was unearned, as Claremont was guilty of committing nine errors and Chino was charged with three miscues. Almendariz allowed just four hits to Claremont.

American takes title

Ontario American jumped to a 7-0 lead after two innings and coasted to a 8-2 victory over Ontario Eastern in the District 23 Major Division Little League Championship game held Saturday at Rainey-Schnepp Field in Upland.

The victory boosts American into the Section Three Little League Tourney, slated to begin Monday in Upland. American will play Diamond Bar at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at Rainey-Schnepp Field.

A three-run homer by Jose Sandoval and a solo blast by Tommy Melton spelled victory for American. Robert Guillen hurled the distance for the win, allowing only five hits and one earned run. Terry Byers chipped in with two RBIs for the victors.

The two homers by American Saturday gave them a total of eight in three tourney games.

Chino drops from Colt play

Chino was eliminated from the Colt League Section III baseball tournament Saturday afternoon in a 6-3 loss to Riverside American at Upland's Memorial Park.

All the scoring took place in the first three innings. Riverside scored four runs in the first and two more in the second before Chino scored its three runs in the top of the third.

Chino starter John Duits surrendered four runs on three hits, three walks and an error in the first frame and was chased by two more hits in the second. Riverside American scored twice that inning, but relief pitcher Joe Pickens held American scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Pickens also rapped out two of Chino's four hits off three Riverside pitchers. His third-inning single drove in two runs and he later added a double, but the only other Chino hits were singles by Gary Heaton and Greg Setlich.

Brent Ballard of Riverside American hit three singles, including a three-run safety in the first inning.

The elimination of Chino leaves two Riverside teams — American and National — to battle for the Section III title today. The two squads will meet at Memorial Park at 2:30 p.m. and again at 5 if necessary.

Don Pierce suspended

DEL MAR, Calif (AP — Jockey Don Pierce has been suspended for six days as the result of a bumping incident Friday in which his mount was disqualified.

Del Mar Race Track stewards said Saturday that Pierce's horse, Mount Bayou Bullet, veered off his course and bumped Last Lea, riden by Tony Diaz, several times during the stretch run in the first race Monday.

Mount Bayou Bullet won the race but was disqualified immediately and moved back to second. Last Lea was declared the winner. Stewards then reviewed the race before announcing the suspension on Saturday.

Pierce's suspension will begin Monday and run through Saturday, Aug. 2.

Nicklaus drops back into tie

ILE BIZARD, Que. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus backed off from a four-foot, par-saving putt, then missed it—a lapse that cost him sole control of the third-round lead Saturday in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

"Just as I was getting ready to stroke the putt, there was a big yell from the gallery around the (nearby) 17th green," he said.

"So I backed off. When I went back to it I guess I should have backed off a second time. I was still hearing the yell."

The putt missed. It was a bogey that dropped him back into a tie, for the second day in a row, with graying Gay Brewer. Each had a third round of par 70 and matching 54 hole totals of 206, four-under-par on the 6,628-yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course.

But Nicklaus, seeking his fourth title of the year, was far from disappointed.

"A round of 70 today was not a bad round at all," he said. "It could have been a little better—I missed a couple of short putts on the back nine—but actually it was a pretty solid round of golf."

"I'm really surprised I could shoot a 70 and still be tied for the lead," said the 43-year-old Brewer.

They'd been tied at the end of the second round, but Nicklaus led through most of Saturday's play—at times by as much as two strokes.

The lapse on the 16th hole—it was there that he backed off when a great, happy cry went up from the gallery around a nearby green—cost him dearly.

"I should have made the putt," said Nicklaus, who has never won this Canadian national championship.

The big yell that caused him to back off was the crowd reaction to Tom Weiskopf's 18-foot putt for a par on the 17th.

It was, he said, the key to a scrambling round of 68 that lifted him to within a single stroke of the top at 207.

"That was a very big putt for me," Weiskopf said. "I couldn't afford to get too far back and I needed the par. Then I looked up and saw Jack miss that short one. It was a big swing for me."

Australian Bruce Crampton, whose 67 was the best round of the mild, sunny, breezy day, and Gibby Gilbert were tied at 209 and were the only other players under par after three rounds. Gilbert birdied two of his last three holes for a 69.

Arnold Palmer, who scored his first professional victory in this tournament 20 years ago, once got to within a couple of strokes of the lead, then blew it in unhappily familiar fashion.

"It's just the same old thing," Palmer said, "and it's getting damn frustrating."

After getting three under par for the day, he three-putted twice, backed off to a 69 and was four strokes back at 210.

"It was just pure negligence," he said. "I've done the same thing in every big tournament I've played recently and it's kept me out of position to maybe win the tournament."

Hubert Green shot a 69 and was at 210, even par. Lee Trevino had his best round of the tournament, a 68, and was at 211. Johnny Miller also shot 68 for 212. South African Gary Player dropped out of contention with a 73 that left him at 213.

Nicklaus, who scored two-putt pars on his first seven holes— twice missing from less than eight feet—took the lead for the first time when Brewer bogeyed the fourth from the right fringe.

Jack stretched the lead to two strokes with a four-foot birdie putt on the eighth, but Brewer birdied the ninth from 15 feet and both bogeyed the 10th, missing the green.

Jack made birdie on the 11th from about 10 feet, but was bunkered on the 12th, came out to four feet and missed the putt.

Both Nicklaus and Brewer two-putted for birdie on the 525 yard, par five 13th and Jack still led by one.

That lead disappeared on the 16th. He got his drive into the rough, stroked a three iron onto the green and watched in amazement as it kicked dead right into the rough. He chipped up to four feet, backed off when the Weiskopf gallery let out its roar and then missed the putt.

Mets offer Jones freedom to leave

CHICAGO (AP) — The New York Mets said Saturday they are offering Cleon Jones his unconditional release, thereby backing Manager Yogi Berra in his dispute with the former All-Star outfielder.

The latest problem involving Jones arose July 18, in a game against the Atlanta Braves in New York. Berra used him as a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning and told him to play left field in the eighth. Jones refused and stalked out of the dugout.

Last Tuesday, the Mets advised Jones he was under suspension. The club announced it publicly on Friday and the Major League Baseball Players' Association responded by filing a grievance in Jones' behalf. That grievance was to be heard in arbitration next Monday in St. Louis, the Mets' next stop on their current road trip.

But with the announcement of his release, the Mets also lifted the suspension and the hearing is now expected to be canceled.

In a statement by General Manager Joe McDonald, the Mets said: "Having exhausted all avenues in attempting to reconcile this problem, we are offering Cleon Jones his unconditional release. We see nothing to be gained in going into the arbitration proceedings. Regardless of the result, the problem would not be resolved.

"We have no desire to hurt anyone," McDonald's statement continued. "The suspension is being lifted. Cleon will be paid in full (including the days he was under suspension). We feel another club will sign him and we wish him well."

Jones did not accompany the team to Chicago and was unavailable for comment.

"I'm glad it's over. I'm relieved. I feel I did the right thing," said Berra, who had issued a him-or-me ultimatum to the club last week during a series of meetings involving himself, Jones, McDonald and Mets board chairman M. Donald Grant.

Technically, Jones will not be released until the end of next week. The Mets must go through the six-day process of clearing him on waivers before he can deal with any other club.

The Mets had appeared to be giving Berra less than complete backing earlier in the week when, despite his refusal to accept Jones back on the club, the Mets allowed the suspension to continue rather than release him and both Grant and McDonald tried to get Berra to change his mind.

"I feel Joe did everything he could to try and resolve the problem," Berra said, "but he couldn't. I feel the way Joe does. I wish Cleon all the luck in the world. He's got talent if he wants to play. He wants to make a deal by himself with another club and now he can do it."

Berra said part of the problem with Jones arose with the arrival this season of Dave Kingman, who has become the Mets' regular left fielder and has 21 home runs. When Kingman, a preseason acquisition from San Francisco, arrived, Jones became expendable although he had been the Mets' regular left fielder for the better part of 10 seasons.

Jones, according to Berra, arrived late for workouts on numerous times "but I overlooked it. ..I bent over backwards."

A knee problem has resulted in Jones playing infrequently this season, batting .240 in 21 games with no home runs and two runs batted in.

Jones' injured knee appears to have been a cause of the blowup in the dugout which brought the issue to a head.

"When he went up to pinch hit," Berra said, "I told him he was going into left field." Cleon, who hit a line drive for the second out of the inning, claimed he didn't have his knee wrapped and didn't have time to get it wrapped. "When the inning was over," Berra said, "he hollered, 'Get somebody else to go out there.'" Berra also said he believed Jones had enough time to get his knee wrapped or to put on the brace he has worn this season.

Jones got himself in the Mets' doghouse earlier in the season with his much-celebrated arrest on indecent exposure charges in St. Petersburg, Fla. When the Mets came north from spring training, Jones was left behind to continue building up his left knee following surgery during the winter.

On the night of May 3, St. Petersburg police said they found Jones and a young woman asleep in the nude in a van parked on a downtown street. Local authorities later dropped the charges against Jones, but the Mets fined him $2,000, the largest fine in

Ilie Nastase disqualified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ilie Nastase defaulted his quarterfinal match with Cliff Richey Saturday in the $100,000 Washington Star International Tennis Tournament after being disqualified for failing to resume play when ordered to by the referee.

The disqualification came after an uproar which saw an irate Richey storm off the court, accusing his opponent of delaying tactics and Nastase argue over a foot fault.

Later, top-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina joined Richey in the semifinals of the $100,000 tournament Sunday by defeating Jaime Fillol of Chile 6-2, 6-1.

Harold Solomon upset Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe 6-4, 7-5 in the other quarter-final match. He will face Richey in Sunday's other semifinal.

In another afternoon quarterfinal, third-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico defeated Eddie Dibbs of Miami, 6-4, 7-6 and will face Vilas Sunday. In the second set, Ramirez led 5-0 and was at match point but Dibbs came back to force a tie-breaker which Ramirez won 9-7.

The fourth quarter-final was scheduled Saturday night.

The finals of the tournament will be played Monday night with the winner earning $16,000 and a 1975 automobile.

After taking the first set 7-6, Richey led 6-5 and was at match point when Romanian Nastase kicked off his left shoe to complain about a foot fault against him.

Richey, seeded No. 10, waited as the third-seeded Nastase, who is notorious for on-court antics, slowly put his shoe on again as he talked to the linesman and the crowd.

Richey, from San Angelo, Tex., became angry, picked up his gear and stalked off the court.

"I'm not going to take that stuff," said Richey as he sat by the players' trailer. "He has done that 49,000 times and they haven't called him on it. I didn't default, he did."

Richey also said that Nastase used stalling tactics on him in Paris in 1971 and in Tucson against Australian Ken Rosewall, with Rosewall returning to the court and losing.

"How many times do you have to take that?" he asked to another player who was looking on. "He can do it to everybody else but when it's turned around on him, he says 'what happened?'"

However, Richey returned to the court to play when tournament referee Nick Powell ruled that Nastase had acted in an unsportsmanlike manner and did not continue play quickly. The referee said, however, that this infraction was not serious enough for disqualification.

When the two were back on the court, umpire Norm Fitz gave Nastase 15 seconds to resume play. Then the Romanian complained that he should have two serves.

Fitz said he had ruled there had been a foot fault and that Nastase would be making his second serve.

As Nastase continued to argue over the ruling, the crowd, now definitely on Richey's side during the dispute, began to shout the countdown.

After a wait of some 30 seconds, Richey again picked up his racquets and towels, storming off the court once more.

As he approached the players' trailer, umpire Fitz announced he had disqualified Nastase for failing to continue play.

"I went out prepared to play and he was arguing that he should have two serves," said Richey. "The umpire called a disqualification."

Later, Natase said he did not take the shoe off on purpose and "I didn't want to disrupt him."

He argued that he should have had two serves because, he said, "15 minutes is too long to wait for him."

Playing his typical baseline game, the 22-year-old Solomon was content to keep the ball in play and let Ashe, 32, make the miscues—which he did.

"He was really thinking on his service and not playing his game," Solomon said. "When he's hitting the ball, he's the best player in the world."

Ashe, number two seed here and playing his first competitive tennis since Wimbledon, said he had a plan against Solomon and that it was working but "I just made mistakes at the wrong time."

After Solomon won the first set in 50 minutes, Ashe attempted to overpower the smaller player and moved to a 4-1 lead but Solomon was able to take control again and move to a 5-4 advantage.

With Solomon at match point, however, the Silver Spring, Md., clay court specialist hit three losers to knot at 5-5. Solomon then took two straight games to

S.D. captures Section opener

SAN Dimas Green won its opening game in the Thorobred Section III baseball tournament at Rowland High Saturday by a 5-1 margin over West Covina Red.

Bob Cochran pitched no-hit ball through the first six innings for the San Dimas squad, but his spell was broken in the bottom of the seventh and final inning when John Higgins led off with a single for West Covina.

Cochran surrendered another hit one out later and lost his shutout in the inning, but never encountered serious trouble.

San Dimas scored twice in the fifth inning on singles by Timmy Brown and Steve Hines and a double by Rick Ortega.

The winners added three more runs the following inning on RBI singles by Robert Alexander and Ortega and a sacrifice fly by Binky Benton.

Ortega, Dave Alexander and Gary Oddi each hit safely twice for San Dimas.

San Dimas Green is not scheduled to play again until Monday. West Covina (1-1) and Covina (0-1) will meet in a losers' game today, with the winner taking on San Dimas (1-0) Monday and again Tuesday if necessary.

The winner of the Section III tourney will advance to the Western Regionals in Azusa.

Rams get Carlson

FULLERTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams acquired reserve quarterback Dean Carlson, a three-year veteran out of Iowa State, from the Kansas City Chiefs Saturday for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Carlson, 6-foot-3, 210 pounds, was originally drafted by Kansas City in 1972 and had a brief stay with Green Bay before returning to the Chiefs on waivers.

He saw little action with the Chiefs last year, playing one game and completing seven of 15 passes for 116 yards.

He joins five other quarterbacks already in the Ram camp, including James Harris, the No. 1 Los Angeles quarterback, and Ron Jaworski.

Three players were waived, third-year veteran defensive tackle John Gordon and rookie kickers Reinhold Stuprich of Hawaii and Bobby Matthews of Sam Houston State.

The Rams went through two drills Saturday with one workout scheduled Sunday. Coach Chuck Knox gave the players their first

Mann ties record

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Carol Mann, a former U.S. Open champion, shot a second-round 66 Saturday to tie the course record and take a five-stroke lead in the Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

Miss Mann's 36-hole 134 put her 12-under-par going into Sunday's final in the 54-hole $40,000 George Washington Classic.

Her 66 equals the lowest round this year on the LPGA tour.

Kathy Whitworth, another tour veteran, was in second place at 72-67—139 in the competition for the $5,700 prize.

Three players follow Miss Whitworth at 140—Suzie McAllister, who shot a five-under 68; Kathy Ahern, 69, and Donna Caponi Young, 72. Mrs. Young, another former U.S. Open champion, shared first place with Miss Mann after 18 holes at 68.

Mary Canney, mother of four girls, and Jo Ann Carner, another former U.S. Open champion, fell off the pace after tying for third place Friday at 69. Mrs. Canney shot 74 for a 36 hole total of 143 and Miss Carner 75 for a 144 standing.

Defending champion Sandra Haynie, at 144, and U.S. Open champion Sandra Palmer, 149, appeared to be out of the running.

Miss Mann birdied seven holes in tying the course record by Judy Kimball in the inaugural 1970 tournament here. In the current competition, Miss Kimball stood at 76-78— 154.

"I ought to be good tomorrow," she said, adding, "It made me mad not qualifying for the U.S. Open."

Haden plans law career

ANAHEIM (AP) — In 1937, Byron "Whizzer" White was an All American football star and a Rhodes Scholarship winner. Now, 38 years later, he's a member of the United States Supreme Court.

A modest Pat Haden doesn't see himself cast in the same mold, but he starred three seasons as the University of Southern California quarterback, won a Rhodes Scholarship and currently plays pro ball for the Southern California Sun of the World Football League.

White played professional football for the Detroit Lions before going into law, and Haden plans to enter the legal profession after his pro career. Pat signed a three-year contract with the Sun for a bonus and an estimated $25,000 salary for his first season.

Haden threw the touchdown pass and two-point conversion that brought USC an 18-17 victory in the 1975 Rose Bowl game over Ohio State.

How does a top-flight football player maintain a 3.8 grade average, just slightly below straight "A" for four years?

"It's something that has to come from within," Haden says. "What I was doing, I enjoyed very much both academically and athletically. I think, obviously, when you enjoy something you do, you're better at it.

"I was an English literature major and enjoyed that. I enjoyed both the reading and the writing. It wasn't a drudgery for me. Perhaps, if I'd been an econimics major, it would have been.

"So it was more or less fun. I felt I was doing something that would improve me as a person. I did relatively well in both because I was happy doing it."

He had to budget his time throughout college, but doesn't feel that it was too tough.

"Football took all afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock. I usually had one, two or three classes a day. When I got home shortly after six, I had from then to 10 to study. And if that wasn't enough, I could study longer or get up earlier in the morning. My day usually went from 9 a.m. until midnight or 12:30.

"That's not unusual. A lot of people working do it and a lot of students do it—particularly the pre-med students, who work all the time.

Haden, 22, won out in the Rhodes examinations and will leave for England and his advanced studies on Sept. 27. He'll be able to play eight regular season games for the Sun and hopes next year to play a full season before resuming his studies.

"With Daryle Lamonica hurt, it presents an unusual situation," he admits. Haden was originally listed as the No. 3 quarterback behind the veteran Lamonica and Mike Ernst, who was with the Cincinnati Bengals last year.

"I'll be playing a lot more than if Daryle was healthy," Haden pointed out. "But as I'm getting ready to leave, Daryle will be coming back."

Haden hopes to complete his education in England, return for more football and then go into law.

He had been drafted by the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, but decided to go with the Sun.

"There were a number of reasons," he explained. "No. 1 was financial. The Sun was a much better financial endowment for myself than what the Rams offered. Secondly, I was very pleased with my conversation with Chris Hemmeter of the WFL. This league under his leadership is in much better hands than perhaps it was last year.

"The quarterback situation with the Sun was much better for me," Haden added. "The Los Angeles Rams are a fabulous organization, but the quarterback situation is rough with two fine young quarterbacks in James Harris and Ron Jaworski. The Sun situation was better. Lamonica is an exceptional quarterback, but this is his 13th season."

Haden hopes to eventually become a starter with the Sun.

"I'll come back from Oxford and see how it goes from there," he says. "I'm leaving myself open. Whatever comes to be will be."

Bench switches future priorities

NEW YORK (AP) — Fighting to win a baseball pennant is one thing, but looking death in the face is another. It makes a man reorder his priorities, says Johnny Bench.

"I used to do everything at headlong speed," the all-star catcher of the Cincinnati Reds said Tuesday. "It was run and dig and battle as if the whole world depended on it. But sometimes things happen that change your values.

"On the field, I still try as hard as I can but I have decided there is no need to try to catch the wind anymore."

The rugged, 27-year-old receiver appeared at a news conference here, not as one of the thunderbolts of the season's winningest baseball team but as a newly-recruited foe against deadly cancer.

He was named by the American Cancer Society to head a campaign to be known as Athletes Against Cancer.

"This is very real to me," Bench said, recalling his own scare in 1972, a moving experience with a five-year-old leukemia victim in Dayton, Ohio, and the shock he received when he saw a film of the fading Babe Ruth.

"Babe Ruth was one of my heroes," Bench recalled. "I thought of him always as a robust, vigorous man. Then in Chicago I saw a film of him in his farewell at Yankee Stadium.

"It was really touching—those spindly legs, that white hair and that gravel voice of his, a man victim of a disease that eats you up."

Bench movingly told of the impact on his life when a lesion was discovered on his right lung during the late stages of the 1972 season, when the Reds won the National League pennant and played Oakland in the World Series.

"I didn't tell anybody on the team about it," he said. "I carried my own little torch. But I must confess I had an eerie feeling."

He underwent an operation on Dec. 11. The lesion proved to be benign. Fortunately it was not necessary to remove any back muscles, although the operation left a scar covering half his chest and back.

"I was very lucky," he said. "If the lesion had not been discovered in time, it would have eaten away at both my lungs. That's the reason I want to warn everybody about cancer."

Bench's eyes became moist when he told about an experience with a preschool Dayton youngster whom he met in 1973.

"His name was Philip Buckingham. He was five years old at the time," Bench said. "A close relationship developed between us. I would talk to him on the phone. He always carried his Johnny Bench doll. You had to be entranced by his smile.

"I invited him to my wedding Feb 21. He couldn't make it. He died the next day. He was sore at me, anyhow, for marrying Vickie—he thought she was taking me away from him."

Vickie, a one-time television model, was at Bench's side during the news conference. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Buckingham, parents of the young leukemia victim.

Bench was not reluctant to talk baseball, but it was obvious that he was more interested in pronouncing the dangers of cancer.

"I won't be playing too much longer," he said. "Some day, I may want to manage. But I want more to my life than that. I have an obsession about cancer.

"Two guys on our team have quit smoking in the last year. I keep hollering at my father. I am disappointed I can't keep him from smoking."

Bench said the Reds had suffered a letdown following the All-Star break, losing three of their last five games, but predicted: "This is our year for the World Series. No other club can put 25 better men on the field."

All-Star classic makes a comeback

CHICAGO (AP) — The All-Star football game, sidelined last year because of the National Football League players' strike, makes a comeback amid pomp and pageantry Friday night in Soldier Field.

A squad of 55 collegians, including 21 players who were first round picks in the NFL draft, will challenge the champion Pittsburgh Steelers, 16-6 victors over the Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl last January.

John McKay of Southern California, who two years ago was criticized for his "country club" camp, again will direct the collegians. And once again McKay has run a light camp, with only one-a-day workouts and limited physical contact. In recent years the All-Stars held controled scrimmages against the Chicago Bears, but McKay even ruled that out this year.

"We're not going to scrimmage the Bears," said McKay, who also ruled out a meeting with the Bears two years ago. "We're getting ready to play the Steelers, not the Bears. If the Bears want to play us, let them get into the game."

In preparations two years ago, pro scouts were aghast as McKay put the All-Stars through one-a-day workouts and held contact to a minimum.

He silenced his critics as the All-Stars put up on impressive performance before bowing to the Miami Dolphins 14-3. Larry Csonka scored touchdowns in the first and fourth quarters, but in between the collegians outplayed their pro counterparts.

McKay is going through the same routine this time around.

"One practice a day is all I can stand," he said.

In addition to the 21 first round draft picks, the All-Stars have 11 members who were picked in the second round and 10 in the third.

McKay said the 1975 squad "looks good" but it doesn't have as many "name players as we had two years ago. That team probably had more guys become regulars in their first year in the NFL than any other All-Star team."

The All-Stars are 17-point underdogs against the Steelers in the game which will begin at 6:30 p.m., PDT, and will be televised nationally by ABC.

The game always has been televised locally but the sponsoring Chicago Tribune Charities this year announced it will not be on local television unless it is sold out 72 hours in advance.

The All-Stars have not won since 1963, when a team coached by Otto Graham defeated the Green Bay Packers 20-17. The professionals lead the series 29-9-2.

While McKay concedes, "This game was not designed for the collegians to win because we'll be playing the game by professional rules and it will be a group of veterans against a squad that has just been assembled," he sees some hope.

McKay likes the looks of his linemen, both on offense and defense.

Randy White, a defensive lineman from Maryland who was drafted No. 1 by the Dallas Cowboys, "has impressed the coaching staff," said McKay. "The linebacking corps has done well. The secondary had its problems but started coming along. The quarterbacks and receivers have done well."

Steve Bartkowski of California and Steve Joachim of Temple are the quarterbacks with Bartkowski, Atlanta's No. 1 pick and the first player chosen in the draft, probably getting the starting assignment.

Larry Burton of Purdue, Emmett Edwards of Kansas and Pete Demmerle of Notre Dame are among the wide receivers.

"You can't win without a running game," said McKay, who has some of the nation's premier runners in Walter Payton of Jackson State, Louis Carter of Maryland, Don Hardeman of Texas A&I, Stan Winfrey of Arkansas State and Harold Henson of Ohio State.

McKay has stressed defense in his camp. "The thing about this game is that if you play good defense, slow the other team down, you have a chance to win. But you can't do that if you don't play good defense."

Basketball clinic set for Monday

"Operation Cool Head," a youth basketball clinic sponsored by the Mexican American Urban Coalition of La Verne begins Monday at Garey High.

The camp, for ages from 8 to 17, will provide an opportunity for youth to learn basketball and be involved in something positive for the summer.

The camp's daily schedule will be 2 p.m.-6 p.m.

The fee for participating in the camp is $3.

The camp will be conducted by top athletes and coaches, both professional and non-professional. They include: Ron Riley of the Houston Rockets, Cal Poly Pomona's Paul Newton, Garey High's Delbert McDonald, Garey High head basketball coach Mike Wells, Garey High's athletic director Simon Tolbert, Pomona High coach Curtis Donaldson and clinic director Jesse Henderson.

For further information, contact Mr. Henderson at 623-0741 or 593-4533.

Warriors to play at Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The Golden State Warriors, surprise winners of the National Basketball Association championship last season, will face the Houston Rockets in the fourth annual NBA Hall of Fame Game, it was announced Saturday.

The announcement was made by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien and Lee Williams, executive director of the Naismith Hall of Fame.

The game will be played Sunday, Oct. 26, at the 8,500-seat Springfield Civic Center.

This will be the first time that a defending NBA champion has participated in the exhibition game, which helps raise funds to assist in the growth of the national basketball shrine.

Pads sign Poly star

Pitcher Vic Bernal of Cal Poly signed with the San Diego Padres Sunday and will report to the National League team's farm club in Walla Walla, Wash.

Bernal was a sixth-round choice of the Padres in the June baseball draft.

TALKS OF MOVEMENT — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn sits back in his leather swivel chair and discusses the aborted "Dump Bowie" movement in Milwaukee.

Bowie Kuhn's not afraid

NEW YORK (AP) — Ninetynine per cent of the baseball owners want a strong commissioner—"not a milk-soppy commissioner"—and that's what Bowie Kuhn aims to give them.

"Nonsense," the 6-foot-5 former Wall Street lawyer said in response to the suggestion that the $150,000-a-year post makes him the lackey, or virtual valet, of the directors who hire him.

"I have never been afraid of the ownership in this business," he insisted. "Right or wrong, I act from a sense of conviction. As much as I love the game, I have never needed baseball.

"It's the one strength I have—the knowledge that there is an alternative. I felt I was a pretty successful lawyer. I have always known it is a profession I can go back to."

Kuhn, coatless, the sleeves of his green shirt rolled up and gold-rimmed spectacles dangling from his nose, leaned back in the leather swivel chair of his 16th floor Manhattan headquarters and talked freely of the aborted "Dump Bowie" movement 10 days ago in Milwaukee.

Four directors in the American League—representing the A's, Yankees, Orioles and Rangers — assembled enough votes to unseat him, but when the formal action was postponed until the next day Kuhn was reelected for another seven-year term. At the final count, the lone dissenters were Charles O. Finley of the Oakland A's and Jerry Hoffberger of the Baltimore Orioles.

"Frankly, I was so disturbed by the unfortunate procedure that I was on the verge of telling them to take the job. But when so many influential people urged me to stay, I acceded to let them fight it out," Kuhn said.

"I wasn't about to go out and politic for the job. I wouldn't. I don't think a commissioner should. But when so many men whom I respect said, 'We really want you,' I stuck it out.

"I am human. Needless to say, I am damn happy I got support and was reelected. I certainly didn't want to be beaten."

Kuhn sees some good coming out of the Battle of Milwaukee, although the incident left scars and resentments on both sides.

"The enormous support given me when the chips were down should strengthen the office of the commissioner," he said. "Now I have a better chance to look at some of the operational problems.

"Our one big problem now concerns franchises. The game itself is solid. Attendance is up despite one-sided races. TV and radio ratings are good. We have learned to work with the players' union.

"But operating expenses are enormous. Too many clubs are in the red.

"We don't want expansion for expansion's sake. Expansion money is fool's gold. But we need to place the franchises we have in the most suitable areas."

Kuhn is fully aware that as the commissioner of baseball, hired by the owners, he is an open target. He is in the unenviable position of being damned if he does and damned if he doesn't. He walks on eggs.

If he fails to take quick and decisive action in measures involving the owners, he is accused of protecting his job. If, on the other hand, he is stern with his employers and ruffles a few feathers, he is subject to dismissal action such as nearly occurred at Milwaukee.

Kuhn has had a long-running clash with Finley, the maverick owner of the A's whom he has chided, suspended and fined some $10,000 over a period of years. He suspended the Yankees' George Steinbrenner for making illegal political donations. He alienated the Orioles' Hoffberger supposedly by interfering in the Orioles' sale plan. And he irritated the Rangers' Brad Corbett because of his handling of certain player cases.

Speculation has been that Kuhn, having survived the recent threat to his job, might now be a more subserviant commissioner, bowing to the whims of his bosses.

"Not a chance," Kuhn retorted. "I will stand on my track record. I have enough independence to do what I think is right. That's the way most of the owners want it. That's the way it will be."

He does not run scared.

Kuhn refused to duck a single pitch when confronted with some of the criticisms levelled against him.

One was that he was too lenient with Denny McLain, a 31-game winner, when the Detroit pitcher was suspended for only half the season in 1970 for associating with undesirable characters.

"Given the circumstances, I think the ruling was fair," the commissioner said. "McLain was not accused of betting on baseball. He was never indicted. He was never found involved in bookmaking. The main charge against him was that he was guilty of bad associations."

It was said that Kuhn was too slow to act last year when the Atlanta Braves announced they planned to hold Hank Aaron out of the opening season series in Cincinnati so that Aaron could have a better chance of hitting his 714th and 715th home runs at home. The claim was that Kuhn was provoked into action by newspaper headlines.

"Ridiculous, not true," Kuhn said. "I certainly was made aware of the situation by reading newspapers. But often it is necessary to move at different speeds. In a disciplinary action, it is imperative to move immediately. In one of judgment, with days remaining before the possible act, I thought the Braves should have been given the chance to change their mind. When they didn't, I acted."

Corbett, president of the Rangers, reportedly became disenchanted with Kuhn because he felt the commissioner didn't act toughly enough in two cases. One involved Houston's Cesar Cedeno, who became involved in the death of a woman in a Dominican Republic hotel room. The other concerned the problems of Willie Davis, traded to the Rangers by Montreal, and later dealt on to St. Louis.

"In the case of Cedeno, he was found blameless by local authorities. I saw no reason that I should arbitrarily judge the case," Kuhn explained.

"Now, as for the Willie Davis case, it is said the commissioner's office had a dossier on Davis' financial problems and other matters and that this information should have been forwarded to the Rangers before the trade.

'The old brassie got a bum deal'

By Phil Roche
PB STaff Writer

IN THE OLD DAYS when I eyed a ball in the middle of the fairway on 500-yard hole, I'd lick my lips and pull out my trusty brassie (2-wood) and let it fly.

The old beatup brassie gave me beautiful loft and maximum distance. I knew golfers who carried only two woods, their brassie (for all No. 1, 2, and 3 wood shots) and a 4-wood.

More than one good golfter I knew hit all drives with the brassie. "Get my ball up in the air," they'd say, "never have to worry about those derned grounders."

Well, I want to tell you the old brassie is about dead. They've got some new-fangled 5-woods instead now, all little, shiny and clean, and you use it instead of your 2-or 3- iron or 4-iron.

By golly, I can take those flashy, caved in irons, and 1½ woods, and those new $1.45 balls that go a mile (although I don't much believe in any of those things), but I'll quit playing golf before I take up with the 5-wood.

It's not so much that I don't like the 5-wood, it's more that I think the brassie got a bum deal.

Last week I tried to find a brassie. Foolishly, years ago I decided I could go to 3-wood and didn't need a brassie. I went to Whittier Narrows, Marshall Canyon, San Dimas, three sporting goods stores, finally wound up out at Diamond Bar. Couldn't find a 2-wood anywhere.

Howard Smith, head pro, was there. "Howard," I said "What ever happened to the old brassies? Where are they?"

"They're not making them any more," said Howard. "Didn't you know that? The pros don't use them much and a lot of people are following the pros."

I stood there, mouth open, while Smith told me the 5-wood now completed the set, no brassie.

"Well, Howard," I said, "What do I do when I have a long second shot on a 500 yard hole, and I can't get home with that miserly little 3-wood? It seems to me that shot's just right for a brassie. What do I do?"

"Hit your driver," said Howard.

QUALIFYING ROUNDS for the 1975 First Annual Silver Circle Senior Women's Golf championships of both Northern and Southern California will begin at more than 400 women's golf clubs throughout the state on Aug. 3, announced tournament coordinator, Anne Miller.

"Never before have senior women golfers, aged 50 and over, had such an opportunity to compete on behalf of their home clubs on a statewide basis," said Ms. Miller, president of "California Woman Golfer, Inc." and editor of "Country Club Golfer" magazine.

"We expect to see more than 10,000 California senior women in these "Better Ball of Partners" championships sponsored by Home Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles.

In Southern California, qualifying rounds will start on Aug. 17 and continue through Sept. 7.

Los Coyotes Country Club in Buena Park will be the scene of the Silver Circle Championship finals of Southern California on Oct. 27.

Eligibility to enter the Silver Circle Championship finals will be determined by the combined scores of the individual low gross and low net winners at each club. The low 100 winning partners, plus all ties, will determine the partners to compete in the Silver Circle Championships.

Senior women golfers interested in entering the Silver Circle competition should contact their club tournament chairperson or tournament headquarters at: Post Office Box 637, Harbor City, California 90710. The phone is (213) 541-7520.

ROOSEVELT BROWN

LENNY MOORE

GEORGE CONNOR

DANTE LAVELLI

NFL honors four greats

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Dante Lavelli, Lenny Moore, George Connor and Roosevelt Brown, all with rags-to-riches stories, reach football immortality Saturday.

The four former playing greats will be enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, pushing the shrine's total to 85.

Two hours later, at 1 p.m. PDT the Cincinnati Bengals play the Washington Redskins in a pre-season in nearby Fawcett Stadium which will be televised nationally by ABC.

A year ago, the festivities were overshadowed by pickets of the striking National Football League Players Association. They, in turn, were picketed by oldtime players, demanding a share of the pension fund.

No such problems are expected this year.

Lavelli, an Ohio State University dropout, was considered the fifth right end when he reported to the Cleveland Browns in 1946.

But he easily beat all competitors, becoming an All-American Football Conference all-star as a rookie with 40 catches for 843 yards.

Teaming with Hall of Famer Otto Graham, the 6-foot, 199-pound Lavelli hauled in 386 passes for 6,488 yards and 62 touchdowns in his 11 seasons.

Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown, who will take part in the ceremonies, said, "I think Dante had the strongest hands I've ever seen. Nobody could take the ball away from him once he got his hands on it."

Brown was responsible for switching Lavelli from halfback to end when he coached at Ohio State and later when forming the Browns.

Roosevelt Brown, only the second pure offensive lineman to make the hall, was the 27th-round draft choice of the New York Giants in 1953. Even so, the Morgan State product was not worried.

"I wasn't scared about being cut," said the 6-3, 245-pound Brown, "because I thought once they signed me that meant I had made the team."

Brown, who will be presented by former Morgan State assistant Coach Talmadge Hill, became a fixture at offensive right tackle for 13 New York seasons. He was an all-National Football League selection eight times.

Connor, at 6-3 and 240 pounds, is one of the pro game's most versatile performers.

With the Chicago Bears, the Notre Dame product was equally adept at playing offense as defense. Testimony was his selection at three all-NFL positions, offensive tackle, defensive tackle and linebacker, in his eight seasons.

George Halas, his coach with the Bears, will induct Connor. "We set high standards for him as a player," Halas said. "He exceeded them. He parlayed leadership, intelligence and fine ability into one of the great careers."

Where does soccer go?

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that North America has Pele, where does soccer go?

Back to the grass roots level, maybe to the farm system to nurture some Peles of our own, and then up...up...up. Past football, past baseball, past basketball, past hockey.

At least that's the way Commissioner Phil Woosnam sees the North American Soccer League of the future.

"It's going to be an American sport and the biggest American sport," Woosnam said. "North America will be the hub of world soccer in 15 years."

Woosnam is bullish despite the debacle of NASL's first serious go at pro soccer in this country in 1967-68. After that season, all but five of the 17 franchises folded.

"That was too much, too soon," said Woosnam, who led the Atlanta Chiefs to the first league title. "The media didn't understand. If they believe, then everyone believes."

Thus, Pele. The media, and the sporting public, couldn't ignore a $4.5 million package and an athlete probably second only to Muhammad Ali in world esteem.

"Image is what professional sports is all about," said Woosnam in his winsome Welsh accent.

With an image, Madison Avenue can't be far behind. Madison Avenue spells revenue, and revenue means national television.

Moon next for Casey?

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — "Baseball? Baseball? Oh, no, I wouldn't go into baseball again," declares Casey Stengel with his obvious humor.

"I would, ah, oh, what do you call it. What's this here stuff when you get to the moon? I'd be an astronaut. I love the moon."

Charles Dillon "Casey" Stengel, who won fame as a baseball player and manager, celebrates his 85th birthday on Wednesday and he remains one of America's greatest—also as a humorist who can joke despite misfortune.

He's a millionaire, vice-president of a bank, and a member of baseball's Hall of Fame.

Yet Casey isn't happy these days because his wife, Edna, is in a hospital and he isn't in the best of health.

"I go there to visit her," says Casey. "Everybody wants pictures of her and myself like we used to do. Now we can't do it. It would look lousy to send out a Christmas card and not have her picture on it."

So Casey lives at their Glendale home, still able to reminisce over more than a half-century in baseball.

"Joe DiMaggio was the perfect ball player," says Casey. "When you're managing the first thing you have to do is watch the centerfielder, the right fielder and the left fielder and see how they place themselves.

"When DiMaggio played centerfield for me he played terrific and if he went to shift from centerfield to right center they would shift too.

"You never had to yell over there with DiMaggio because his judgment was great and he kept the same distance with his three ball players. When he moved, they did too, get it?

"And that was good. The best thing I had in the big leagues was when he controlled the outfield. When he was there, I never had to watch it."

Stengel played 14 years in the majors with New York, Boston, Philadelphia of the National League with a lifetime batting average of .284.

He managed the Boston Braves. With the New York Yankees he won 10 American League pennants in 12 years with seven World Series titles. He became the first manager of the New York Mets when they joined the National League.

Stengel gained fame also for his Stengelese manner of nonstop talking with physical illustrations of the points he made.

He played when big salaries weren't yet in vogue, but he made enough to make successful investments.

"I was glad I wasn't in on them big salaries," he said in an Associated Press interfiew. "For one reason, you know why. They used to pay off in silver and gold. How in hell could I carry all that gold around? And that silver if I had $100,000. If I had $100,000 in silver in one pocket and $100,000 in gold in the other, I wouldn't be living now, you know that.

"They'd take me on the street and I'd have more bumps than I've got Now."

Stengel hated to see Billy Martin fired as manager of the Texas Rangers. He respected Martin as a second baseman with the Yankees and says when Billy comes West for the Old Timers game at Dodger Stadium, "I'm going to let him manage at least half the game."

The game consists of about three innings and Casey will be handling one of the clubs.

"I'm very proud of Martin," Stengel says. "Regardless of what they say about him, he really could put out. He was one of the slickest players we ever had. He could pick up signals and he wouldn't tell you about it for three years. So nobody knew for three years that he was picking up the signals."

"So what's the matter with him knowing about his skill. He's very capable and very ambitious in baseball and one of the best managers in the country."

Stengel loves the Old Timers games because the fans get to see the former stars.

"You know they play a game at Cooperstown and there is a seating capacity of only three or four thousand," he says. "where thousands get to see the Old Timers wherever they are."

Stengel is proud to be in the Hall of Fame with special recognition as both a player and manager but says he didn't think about it when he was active.

"When you're playing ball and you're fighting out there for yourself and you team and you're fighting against the other players and you're fighting for the league, you're not thinking about the Hall of Fame.

"You don't think about it then. You're just saying you've got to do good every day or you won't get in there anyway.

"After I got in there I paid more attention to the Hall of Fame than I ever did in my life. I go up there anytime I can and I do something, sign autographs or talk to the people who come up there."

Casey turns up at Old Timers games, when his health permits.

Ballet slated at Redlands

The San Francisco Ballet Celeste International willl perform in the Redlands Bowl at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The celebrated touring company set a bowl record for return engagements, making 17 annual appearances from 1952 through 1968. During that time Ballet Celeste drew overflow crowds.

Many of the young dancers have gone on to star in ballet companies all over the world. Ballet Celeste's summer tours have taken them all over Europe, the Far East, Canada and most of the United States. Highlights have been appearances at two World's Fairs (Expo '70 in Japan and Expo '74 in Spokane, Wash., and at the prestigious International Festival of Youth Orchestras and Performing Arts in Great Britain. Ballet Celeste was the only American company invited to appear in the latter.

ARTIST AT WORK — Adrian Enriquez Jr., formerly of Claremont, puts the finishing touches on one of his ceramic pots which are on exhibition through Aug. 24 at the Festival of Arts at Laguna Beach. Enriquez was encouraged in his art work at Claremont High School by his instructor, Geraldine Turner. He won first place in the San Gabriel Valley Art Festival and has exhibited throughout Southern California. In September he will show his work at Adrian's arts and crafts center in La Verne.

Anka to play Greek

Singer-composer Paul Anka will open his first Los Angeles engagement in 15 years when he appears at the Greek Theater Aug. 4. The show runs through Aug. 9.

Anka's talents as a songwriter quickly came to the fore in the early days of his career. All the songs he sang were selfpenned, at a time when this was not usual. He became the idol of the teen-agers; it was the love themes that appealed to them and which assured his fame.

In the 1960s, when he was losing his boyish image, Anka launched a second carer in writing for others; notably, "My Way," which has virtually become the signature for Frank Sinatra, "Johnny's Theme" for the Tonight Show and "She's a Lady" for Tom Jones.

Featured with Anka will be singer Odia Coates, who has become an integral part of Anka's show, appearing with him in all the major rooms round the country.

Tickets for the engagement are available at the box office, all Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies and Wallich's Music City stores.

'PRINCE' AND QUEEN — Queen Mother Elizabeth of England chats with American actor Richard Chamberlain, costumed for his role as the Prince in "The Story of Cinderella." The former queen of England paid a visit last week to the Pinewood Studios in Iver, where the film is being made.

Two studios join for film on TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — United Artists and MGM have joined for coproduction of "Network," a movie about the television industry written by Paddy Chayevsky.

A leading figure of television's golden age of drama, Chayevsky won Academy awards for his writing of "Marty" (1955) and "The Hospital" (1972).

"Network" marks the fourth coproduction by major studios in recent times. Previous films were "The Towering Inferno" (Warner Brothers and 20th Century-Fox), "The Wind and the Lion" (MGM and Columbia) and "The Man Who Would Be King" (Columbia and Allied Artists).

FREDDIE PRINZE will be making his Los Angeles stage debut when he appears with Helen Reddy at the Universal Amphitheater Aug. 4-9.

Nero to play lover

LOS ANGELES (AP) — European actor Franco Nero will portray Rudolph Valentino, great lover of the silent screen, in the two-hour television movie, "Valentino," to air on ABC during the coming season.

Nero is best known to American audiences for his performance as Sir Lancelot in the film version of "Camelot." He also starred in "The Virgin and the Gypsy."

VIOLIN SOLOIST — Eudice Shapiro will be soloist in two concerts at the Claremont Music Festival this week. She will play the violin part in Brahms' Horn Trio with a chamber group Wednesday and Stravinsky's Violin Concerto with the festival orchestra Friday. Both concerts will be in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m.

Music festival in final week

The seventh annual Claremont Music Festival at Pomona College will conclude with concerts Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Monday and Thursday programs, to be held in Lyman Hall at 8:15 p.m., are concerts by groups of faculty members and students. Admission is free.

The final chamber music concert in Bridges Hall at 8:15 Wednesday night will open with Introductions and Parodies by Karl Kohn, Pomona College music professor. The program will also include Beethoven's Sonata for Horn and Piano and Brahms' Horn Trio, both featuring the famed German hornist, Hermann Baumann.

The Kohn work will be performed by violinists Eudice Shapiro and Laurie Wells, violist Arthur Lewis, cellist Peter Rejto, hornist Jerry Folsom, clarinetist Richard McDowell, and bassoonist John Steinmetz, with Kohn at the piano. In the Beethoven sonata, Baumann will be joined by Hewitt and in the Brahms trio by Hewitt and Miss Shapiro.

Giora Bernstein, founder and director of the festival, will conduct the orchestra in the Friday night concert at Bridges Hall. Miss Shapiro will be soloist in Stravinsky's Violin Concerto in D. The orchestra will also perform Ravel's "Menuet Antigue" and Beethoven's Seventh Symphony.

ANCIENT ART — This gold "Bottle with Ring Base" from Scythia of the Fourth Century B.C., is one of the works from a Russian art exhibition to open Aug. 6 at the county Museum of Art, Los Angeles. One of the most spectacular exhibitions ever to be sent out by the USSR, the collection will be on view through Sept. 4.

Scythian gold art

Russian exhibit set

An exhibition of Ancient gold treasures from the USSR, termed "the most spectacular exhibition ever to be sent out of the Soviet Union," will open Aug. 6 at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, Los Angeles.

"From the Lands of the Scythians: Ancient Treassures from the Museums of the USSR, 3,000 B.C. to 100 B.C." will be on view through Sept. 4. To accommodate anticipated crowds, the museum will be open seven days a week at extended hours, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

"From the Lands of the Scythians" includes nearly 200 objects from the ancient Scythian, Urartean, Altaic and Sarmatian nomadic civilizations that occupied the Eurasian steppes and mountains, territories now part of the Soviet Union. The objects form part of one of the principal national treasures of the Soviet Union, and the exhibition represents the most comprehensive selection of this unique material ever to be put on public view.

The nomadic horsemen who ruled Eurasian lands from the Black Sea to the Siberian mountains between the third millennium B.C. and the first century B.C. left no towns, temples coinage or written language as record of their existence. The most important source of information on these ancient people is a description of the Scythians written in the Fifth Century B.C. by the Greek historian Herodotus in his history of the Persian Wars. His observations of the way of life and burial rites of these tribal people seemed so incredible that for centuries his report was regarded as fictional. However, recent excavations have shown his commentaries to be remarkably accurate.

Although the primary emphasis of the exhibition is on the luxurious gold objects recovered from the tombs of the Royal Scythians of about the Seventh through the early Fourth Century B.C., it also includes other extraordinary ancient objects of wood, textiles, felt, leather, iron and fur. Most of these were recovered from the famed "frozen tombs" of the Altai mountains in Siberia built between the Sixth and Fourth centuries B.C. Shortly after the burials, water seeped into the stone mounds and turned to ice, preserving in permafrost the many colorful objects in their original state. They are particularly valuable since many are the most ancient known examples of these fragile arts and crafts.

Most of the material in the exhibition, including a selection from the famous Siberian gold collection of Peter the Great, comes from the State Hermitage Museum in Leningrad; however, a number of major objects are on loan from the State Historical Museum in Kiev.

The exhibition, part of a continuing exchange program between the Soviet Union and the U.S. government, was organized by the Ministry of Culture of the USSR and is supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The exhibition has been designed by Coy Howard, assistant professor of architecture at UCLA, with Jeanne D'Andrea, the museum's exhibitions and publications coordinator, to provide a vivid introduction to the life and culture of these ancient nomadic peoples. Arranged in chronological order from the pre-Scythian cultures to the later periods, the installation will be enhanced by informative charts, maps and photographic blow-ups. Museum members will be admitted free, the general public for $1, and children under 18, students with I.D. and senior citizens for 50 cents.

Local and out-of-town groups of 20 or more may make special arrangements to see the exhibition between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. daily. Groups are urged to make advance arrangements by calling the museum's education department from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, at (213) 937-4250, Ext. 217.

Women's art

An exhibit of American women's art through the ages will be held in the art gallery of Cal State Long Beach from 1 to 4 p.m. today.

Entitled "Generations of Women," the exhibit presents a range of creative works that bridge the gap between fine and folk art by featuring needlework, needlepoint, embroidery, weavings, lace, pottery and dolls, as well as drawings, paintings, jewelry and leather work.

According to Marilyn Elkins, one of the organizers, "The definitions of fine and folk art ignore the inter-relationships of thought and craft which women have found mutually shared and experienced in both traditional and academic form.

Counseling may help 'redlining'

Homebuying counseling programs are the best means of attempting to solve the problem of red-lining.

So testified Richard C. Farrer, president of the California Association of Realtors when appearing before the California Business and Transportation Agency.

Farrer defined red-lining as a policy adopted by a financing institution that it will not make mortgage loans in certain geographic areas because it considers the financial risk too great.

But the Realtor chief said his association does not condorn and, in fact, actively opposes red-lining as a covert means of racial or religious discrimination.

"Our association has advocated for many years that some system of home ownership counseling be part of attacking the problem of housing blight.

"Experience as shown that where counseling programs have been attempted, foreclosure average rates drop to those for the rest of the population, even below."

Farrer suggested the importance of educating homebuyers who will take care of their property to protect physical value and manage finances well enough to meet financial obligations of ownership can be far-reaching.

"Homebuyers need to realize it takes only a washer, wrench, screwdriver and a few minutes to repair a leaky faucet which can save money on the water bill and water," Farrer said.

"Painting, replacing a broken window and fixing screens also can be problems for the family which has never owned property and finds it difficult to cope with such problems."

Farrer testified that this brought about another aspect of counseling — financial management.

Red-line areas are usually areas where low-income families live "who need to guide themselves with a budget so the house payment can be made on time."

"These families must recognize the fundamental distinction between renting and owning," Farrer said. "This is where financial management is significantly important.

"The house payment is for the month just past. The rent is for the following month.

"These families must realize that when a house payment is one day past due they are delinquent and that it is not as simple to talk with a lender as it may have been to ask a landlady for a couple week's extension because 'the money situation was tight this month.' "

The Realtor leader said that no knowing these aspects of home ownership can contribute to making the property a poor risk to the mortgage lender.

Farrer said that some form of counseling is the most workable solution.

He stated counseling programs should include four features.

"First," he said, "would be the screening to determine the potential for success of families considered for homebuying subsidy programs.

"Second, an incentive should be built into the program, possibly in the form of a certificate award which pre-qualifies them for buying a house.

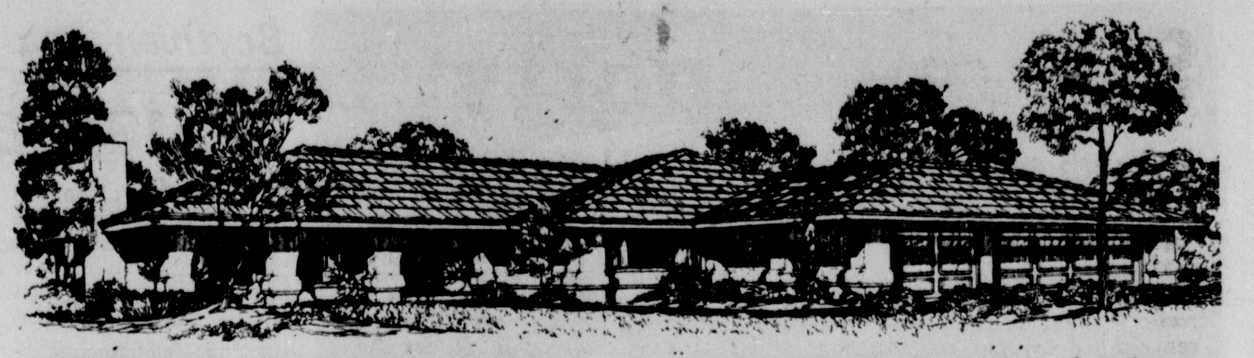
"Third, counseling beyond the formal courses should be available to holders of certificates.

"Finally, follow-up counseling should also be made available to the homebuyers and used as a check to see that the program is accomplishing the desired result."

The Realtors chief concluded that his association felt the counseling courses should be conducted through community colleges.

He said funding could be through consumer education programs, such as the one authorized for the Department of Real Estate, but he added other sources of funding should be sought.

Houses built in Claraboya



LUXURY HOME — This drawing depicts one of 15 luxury homes being constructed in Claraboya. The three and four bedroom homes, priced from $76,500, are built by Armstrong Development Corp.

Fifteen luxury homes are now being constructed in Claraboya above Claremont. The three and four bedroom homes, priced from $76,500, are available in three floorplans. Homebuyers also have nine exteriors from which to choose.

The homes are being built by Armstrong Development Corp.

"Since its inception in 1965, Claraboya has been an address of distinction and elegance in Claremont," said John Armstrong, president of the construction firm. "These 15 new homes will share the fine quality appointments and attention to detail which has contributed so greatly to the popularity Claraboya has enjoyed."

Each home is built on a minimum half-acre hillside lot, with most having more than 2,500 square feet of living space and panoramic views.

The homes feature sunken living rooms, formal dining rooms, separate family rooms, wet bars, wood-burning fireplaces, intercommunication systems and indoor planters.

Dinette areas accentuate designed built-in kitchens with double ovens, ranges, dishwashers and vinyl tile flooring. They also have abundant counter and cabinet space, luminous overhead lighting and full pantries.

The master bedroom suites have sunken Roman tubs, private dressing areas, walk-in closets and mirrored wardrobes.

In addition, each home includes refrigerated air conditioning, a three-car garage and separate laundry room.

Armstrong Development Corp. is based in Claremont and has been building homes in Southern California for 20 years.

Real estate

Sale of houses increase

Sales of existing single family homes continued to rise in May but at a slower pace than earlier this year, reports the National Association of Realtors.

The seasonally adjusted sales volume index advanced two points to 108 in May, marking the fourth consecutive month of rising sales activity. The volume index has climbed 21 points since the January low of 87.

All regions of the country contributed to the increase in sales volume. During the four month period of February to May, the index rose 27 points in the northeast, 21 points in the west, 20 points in the north central region and 19 points in the south.

For the first time in the nine year history of the association's existing home sales series, the median sales price for an existing single family home in each region of the country exceeded $30,000.

The median price nationally in May was $35,210, which is 9.6 per cent higher than the $32,130 median price reported for May, 1974.

Price advances regionally were varied. In the western region, the price rise was 11.3 per cent to $39,360; north central region, 9.6 per cent to $30,320; southern region, eight per cent to $34,900; and northeast region, 7.9 per cent to $38,080.

Costs may cause boost in condominium sales

For many Southern California families, their next home could be a condominium.

This is because the typical new single family home costs $50,000 and only 17 per cent of the Southland households can qualify to buy it, said Robert J. Dunham, president of Ashley Economic Services, Inc., a Newport Beach economics consulting firm.

"Economics, not buyer preference, will dictate the housing style of the future," he said. "Even though single family homes now are out-selling condominiums and townhouses, rising costs will bring about a reversal of this trend within a year or two."

Dunham said attached housing such as condominiums or townhouses offer a more economic solution to housing than do detached singie family homes.

"Among all the factors which have been influenced by inflation and the building process, the value of raw land has shot up the most rapidly," he added.

"Condominiums make more efficient use of the land, hence they can be offered at lower prices because of lower lot costs —and more families can qualify to buy them."

"While incomes have increased in the past few years, they have not come close to keeping up with the rising prices of housing," Dunham said in explaining why single family homes are priced beyond the means of most families.

Four years ago, the median family income in southern California was $10,000, the median price of a new home was $33,000 and one-third of all households could qualify to buy it.

Now, median income has climbed to $16,000 while the median price of a home has skyrocketed to $50,000.

Dunham disagrees with many housing industry leaders who believe that the "American dream" of owning a single family home can be fulfilled by building stripped down, less expensive single family dwellings.

"Land costs will make this prohibitive in all but the most remote regions," he said.

A few years ago, buyers were able to find lower priced single family homes in outlying areas if they were willing to commute 50 or more miles a day.

"Commuting used to be mainly an inconvenience. Today, long automobile travel is still inconvenient—and extremely costly," Dunham said.

"If a buyer has a choice of spending money for gasoline or food, the odds are he'll buy a condominium in a closer in location closer to his work, even though he and his family would prefer a single family home," he said.

While the attached home is the most economic solution to the housing problem, Southland families will not change their preference overnight, he said.

"The key to satisfying the nation's housing needs with the attached concept will be better design that is aimed for specific lifestyles.

"Condominium developers must improve the facilities for children with play areas and more durable landscaping and design projects to attract both families with children and adult households in different sections," he stated.

Housing needs tax incentive

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congress has been warned that proposals to eliminate federal tax incentives for investments in residential construction if enacted would constitute a serious setback for thousands of Americans who need decent, safe and sanitary rental housing every year.

John C. Hart, a homebuilder from Indianapolis, Ind., and vice president of the National Association of Home Builders, testified recently before the House Ways and Means Committee hearing on tax reform.

"Any change in the federal income tax laws which significantly reduces the tax incentives to channeling capital into rental hoesing would not cause particular harm to the investors—they would simply abandon our industry in favor of other types of investments which promised a higher return with less risk," he said.

"The federal income tax laws have had a major, positive impact upon home building, particularly in providing incentives for raising the equity capital necessary to construct multifamily rental housing.

"We therefore believe the policy of encouraging the construction of necessary housing through the provision of federal income tax incentives is one which Congress should continue as being in the national interest."

The tax panel is considering a number of reforms in this area, including the elimination of accelerated depreciation for new residential rental property and an increase in the amount of depreciation that could be recaptured upon the sale of the property.

Hart also urged Congress to return tax exempt status to non-profit condominium and homeowners' associations. The Internal Revenue Service ruled last year that that associations. The Internal Revenue Service ruled last year that association funds set aside for future capital improvements, exterior maintenance and replacement of common facilities are subject to federal taxation.

Survey reports 'buyers' market in much of U.S.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Wrier

In this keep-your-fingers-crossed housing market, a tremendous upsurge in house referrals by Realtors in April — 25.76 per cent crease — was followed by two steady months, said C.H. Touchberry of Charlotte, N.C., in an interview. He is national president of Intercity Relocation Service, known as Relo, the 15-year-old, 800-member, nonprofit association of real estate brokers who help relocate families.

"It still is mainly a buyer's market in most areas except for isolated places — Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and so on, but the picture can change. For example, Washington, D.C., has had a turnaround in the $40,000 to $70,000 house bracket and is now experiencing a seller's market," he explained.

Omaha, Kansas City, Cleveland and Pittsburgh are among other seller's markets revealed in a recent survey of 100 of the organization's top metropolitan areas, and some suburban areas — Chicago, St. Louis and the Philadelphia mainline — have become seller's markets but there are odd twists. In Davenport, Iowa, it is a seller's market under $40,000 and a buyer's market over $60,000. But Denver, Miami, Cincinnati, Mobile and most of New England continue to report buyer's markets.

Company moves cause instant change in many areas. When an oil company mass-moved out of Shreveport, it became a buyer's market, whereas an electric company moved to Greensboro, N.C., creating a market that couldn't even be met by existing housing.

Most people seek houses that cost as much or more than their present homes because they are then not taxed on the profits. On the West Coast members indicated that younger buyers are evaluating life patterns in more realistic terms, thinking far into the future before doing anything.

In some areas the three-bedroom house is now more in demand than the four-bedroom house and in Memphis Realtors are predicting "a return to the nice two-bedroom house." In higher priced suburbs of Chicago and some other cities the four-bedroom house is still preferred.

"The four-bedroom house is still popular here. There are a tremendous number of traveling men here and in Atlanta who work out of their homes," Touchberry explained. "Formerly many bought five-bedroom houses, using one bedroom for an office, but now they buy a four-bedroom house, using one room for an office and guest room."

Although location, price and resale value are prime considerations this year in the choice of a home, the survey showed, there is still a lot of interest in schools. In Erie, Detroit and Greensboro anything unusual in the school situation still is an overriding concern.

People are paying two and a half to three times their gross income for a home and often it is purchased with the combined income of husband and wife. Many are paying more in monthly payments than their weekly income, usually the rule of thumb.

"Any family who wants a home priced at triple their income should plan a large cash payment to reduce the amount they borrow. They should try to bring it down to the doubled income figure," advises Touchberry, who has been in the real estate business for two decades.

While Louisville shows a slight trend to cluster homes and condominiums, overwhelmingly the single-family home still is the most popular in most areas. Some states do not yet have laws governing condominiums.

"We have been behind in North Carolina as we have had a law governing condominiums for only six years. In other states there have been problems where some projects have gone into foreclosure and people have become scared. In Florida, they are enacting laws now that would prohibit condominium developers from leasing the land on which condominiums are built. That's where the trouble is mainly, when the leased land doubles in price."

Location important in selecting house

CHICAGO (NFS) — You often hear it said in real estate circles that the three most important factors in the value of a house are location, location, and location. That sounds good, but what does it mean?

"Location means different things to different people. A young family with school-age children would seek a location close to a school and playground. An older couple might want to be away from schools and near shopping," notes Robert G. Walters, senior vice president, Baird & Warner, Inc., one of Chicago's real estate companies.

So you really have to evaluate location in terms of your own present and future needs. You also have to recognize that location means more than the physical site of your home. It also includes the neighborhood, community facilities, people and regulations that go along with the site.

Walters advises home shoppers to think about the following location factors:

— The lot: Is it big enough for you? If you plan on expanding the home later on, is there enough space? Is the exposure to sunlight good for your needs? This may be important if you want a garden or expect to grow houseplants. Is the view what you'd like?

— The immediate neighborhood: Who are the people living on either side of the house you're considering? Are the homes well-kept? Does the neighborhood life style seem consistent with yours? How much street traffic is there?

— Nearby facilities: If schools are important to you, how far away are they? Can your children walk or must they take the bus? How far is it to shopping? How far away to your place of work? Is commuting available? What churches are nearby? How about medical facilities?

— Cost: What are the real estate taxes apt to be? How much is insurance for this location? Do you face any added commuting costs?

— Environment: Are you near a flight path, major highway, or railroad whose noise may disturb you? What about any nearby factories that produce noise, smoke, and traffic? Is the location particularly windy? Are the people in the neighborhood quiet or noisy?

— Codes and zoning: These are very important. Can you park your car on the street overnight? Are you allowed to put up a fence? Can you keep a boat in your driveway? What kinds of restrictions on remodeling and room additions are there? Is there apt to be any commercial or industrial building nearby?

Computer used in housing

Buying vs. renting — how does one compare with the other?

A California condominium developer has introduced a computerized system for comparison, said Walter Arnold, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

Forms are completed by potential buyers and fed into the computer terminal which is linked to portable terminals at each development's sales office.

The computer considers several variables for each prospect: price of home, size of home, income and combined federal and state income tax bracket, Arnold explained. It calculates future rent and future home value based on projected rates of inflation.

"The computer then produces a print-out profile showing the effective cost per year of home ownership and accumulated equity to accurately compare the financial differences between buying and renting.

"The print-out shows tax benefits which accrue to the homebuyer as a result of the deductibility of mortgage interest and property taxes, loan reduction and possible property appreciation."

The print-out also compares with renting the effective monthly income required to own a home and gives actual investment over five years on an after-tax basis, he added. And it projects results from ownership and compares it with the equity a renter might have achieved had he put an amount equal to a down payment in a savings account.

"For those who don't have access to such a sophisticated method for comparison, it's possible, of course, to do your own dollars-and-cents analysis."

Realty seminar set

A real estate seminar on "Organization of Brokerage Offices" will be held Wednesday at the Covina Valley Board of Realtors office, 248 E. Rowland Ave., Covina.

The program is co-sponsored by the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors and the California Association of Realtors.

The speaker will be Mary Aileen Matheis, who is engaged in real estate in Newport Beach. She has been a member of the Newport Beach Board of Realtors political affairs committee for the past two years and is serving this year as treasurer of the Newport chapter of the Women's Council of the National Association of Realtors.

The three hour seminar is open to the public, with state association members allowed one unit of credit toward their Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) certificate and designation.

MARY MATHEIS

"This is an opportunity for real estate practitioners to broaden their knowledge and understanding of their profession," said Walter Arnold, president of the Pomona realty board.

"The course features advanced materials designed to help Realtors and salesmen who already have a good working knowledge of the real estate business but who want to learn more, especially new techniques for helping their clients."

Registration fee is $10 which includes the materials. For more information, persons may phone the Pomona board, 623-1607.

Philanthropist

The Smithsonian Institution owes its origin to James Smithson, a wealthy English scientist who never visited the United States. Smithson, who died in Italy in 1829, willed his entire fortune to the U.S. "to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The bequest totaled more than half a million dollars, a great fortune in that day.

BUGS BUNNY by Stoffel & Heimdahl

FROM WRIGLEY'S GUM

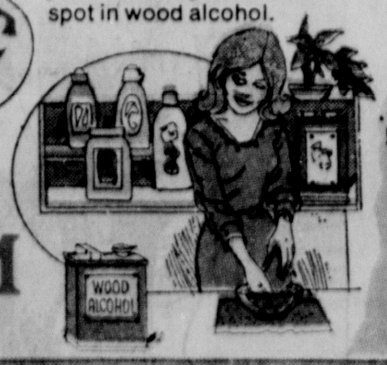
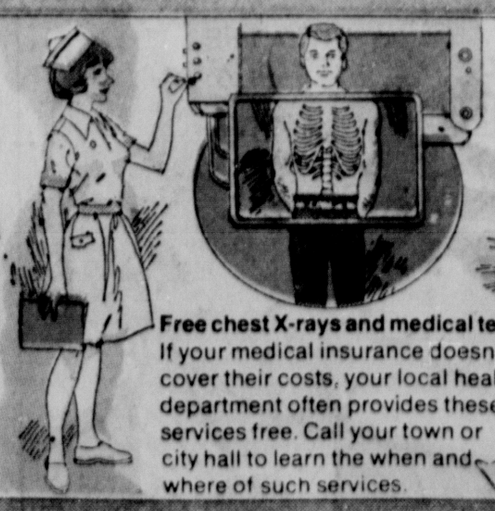
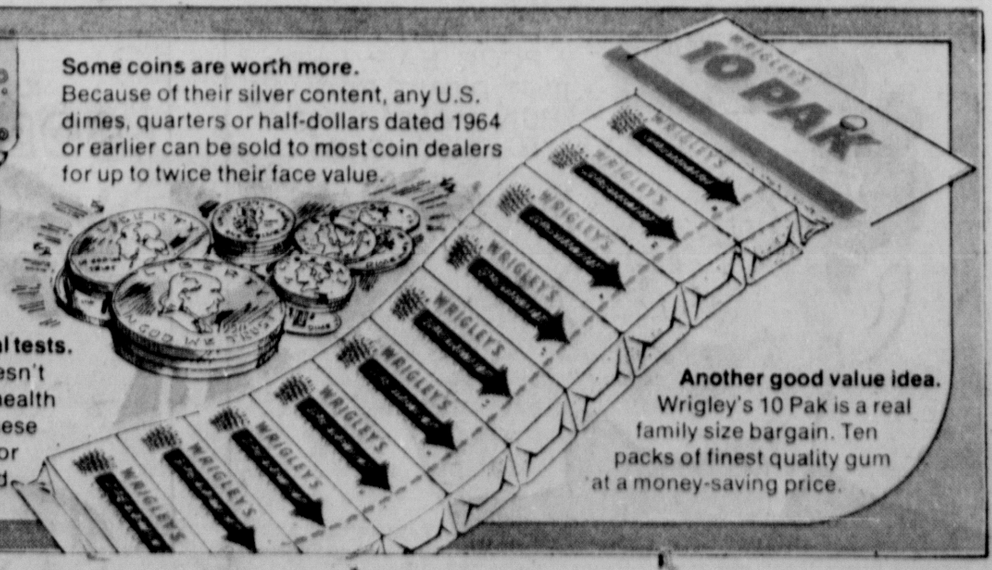
Kids' clothes vs. grass stains. To avoid the expense of dry cleaning grass stained clothes, just soak the grass stained spot in wood alcohol.





Free chest X-rays and medical tests. If your medical insurance doesn't cover their costs, your local health department often provides these services free. Call your town or city hall to learn the when and where of such services.

Some coins are worth more. Because of their silver content, any U.S. dimes, quarters or half-dollars dated 1964 or earlier can be sold to most coin dealers for up to twice their face value.



Another good value idea. Wrigley's 10 Pak is a real family size bargain. Ten packs of finest quality gum at a money-saving price.

SNOWSHOE RABBIT..

THE SNOWSHOE RABBIT GETS ITS NAME BECAUSE IN WINTER ITS LARGE HIND FEET ARE COVERED WITH THICK FUR, WHICH ENABLES IT TO TRAVEL EASILY OVER THE SNOW. THE COLOR OF ITS FUR CHANGES FROM BROWN IN SUMMER TO WHITE IN WINTER. BECAUSE OF THIS THE RABBIT IS ALSO CALLED A "VARYING HARE."

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

LAURIE FUERNISS OF DELMONT, SD, ASKS:

"WHY IS A DIME SMALLER THAN A PENNY?"

THE ANSWER IS THAT AT ONE TIME SOME COINS WERE MADE WITH PRECIOUS METALS, SUCH AS SILVER AND GOLD. THE AMOUNT OF SILVER OR GOLD DETERMINED A COIN'S VALUE. THUS, A THIN DIME WAS MORE VALUABLE THAN A LARGER PENNY MADE FROM LESS-PRECIOUS COPPER. COINS ARE NO LONGER MADE FROM SILVER AND GOLD. THEY ARE MADE FROM LESS VALUABLE METALS, SUCH AS COPPER, NICKEL AND ZINC. BUT THEY ARE STILL MINTED IN THE OLD SIZES MOST FAMILIAR TO US!

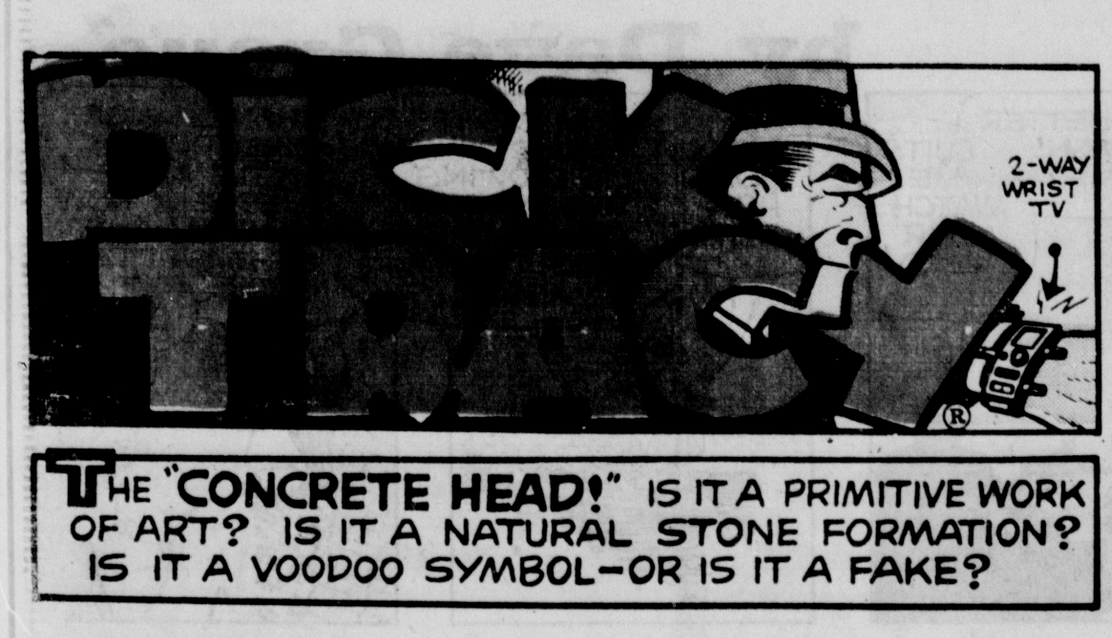
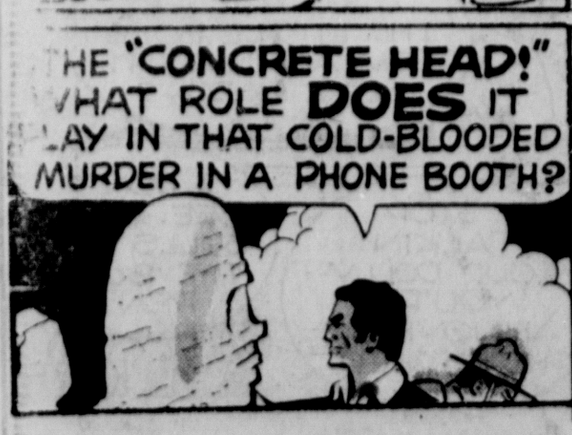
CAPTAIN EASY

by Crooks & Lawrence



THE "CONCRETE HEAD!" IS IT A PRIMITIVE WORK OF ART? IS IT A NATURAL STONE FORMATION? IS IT A VOODOO SYMBOL—OR IS IT A FAKE?

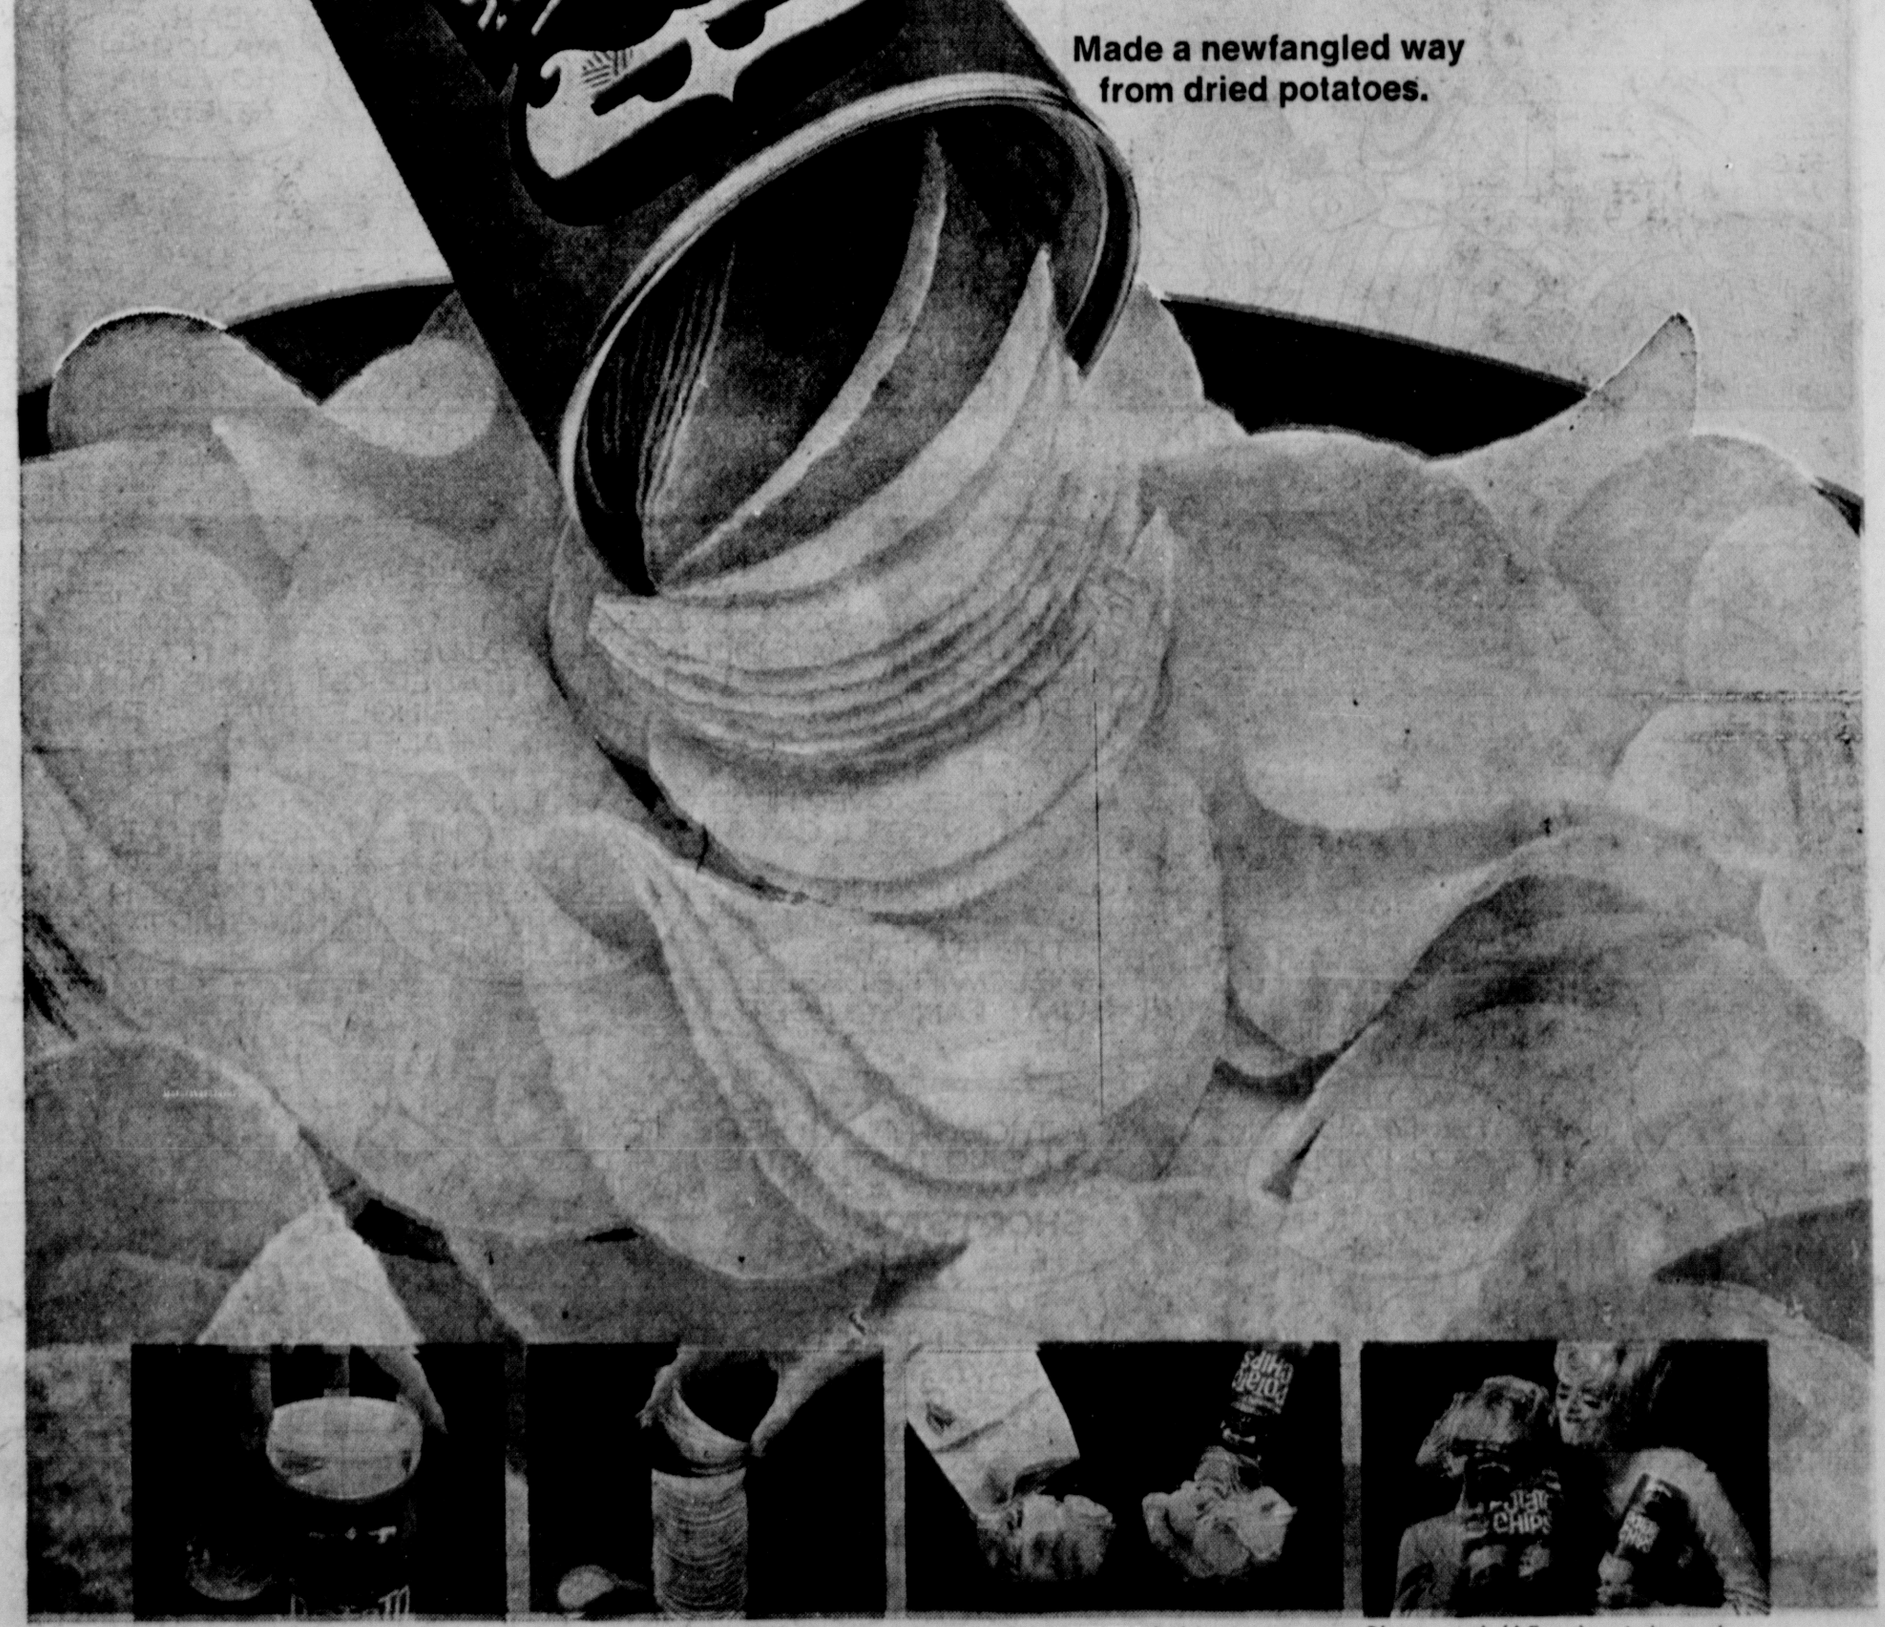


What's newfangled about Pringle's Newfangled Potato Chips?

Everything! They're fresh and unbroken. They come crackling fresh and stay that way—even after they're open! They fit in cupboards—without squashing. And, made a new way, they're perfectly shaped so a big bagful fits inside this newfangled crushproof canister!

Pour out a bowlful and chomp into the most tantalizing taste in the whole crunchy world.

Made a newfangled way from dried potatoes.



Airtight pull-tab top and plastic lid assure lasting freshness.

Perfectly shaped, they're snugly stacked to reach you unbroken.

Single pack (4.5 oz.) or twin pack (9.0 oz.) . . . in shelf-size canisters.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When washing my hair I used to end up with a tangled mess, but found the solution is to brush my hair while still in the shower with the water running in the direction in which I want it brushed. — PAMELA age 12.

© 1975 by NEA, Inc.

•

DEAR POLLY — Vinyl left over after wallpapering the kitchen makes fine covers for appliances. Cut patterns from paper, trace on vinyl, cut out the pieces and stitch on the machine. — MRS. D.K.

•

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Beer left in a glass or can makes a great shampoo rinse. Beer will also kill snails if placed in a shallow pan around ivy plants, etc., and with no danger to pets. — NELL.

•

DEAR POLLY — When making rolls of dough that need to be cut into long strips, I use my pizza cutter. It works better and faster than a knife. — LIZ.

•

DEAR POLLY — It is not easy to remember the medical history of all family members, so record each family member's name, date and place of birth and each medical "event," with the name of the doctor and the hospital, on file cards. Encourage the older members of your family to make their own records, too. As the children grow up and leave home they have records to take along. — CARMEN.

(POLLY'S NOTE: How many times I have wished I had done just that! My children have often called to ask for information to pass on to a new doctor.)

DEAR POLLY — Use pipe cleaners or those wires that come around bread to string matching buttons on, then twist ends together. — BABE.

•

DEAR POLLY — I keep one address book just for business addresses, phone numbers, account numbers, insurance policy numbers, credit-card numbers, etc. In case of an emergency all such needed information is immediately available. I carry this address book in the car glove compartment when traveling. — MRS. R.P.C.

•

DEAR POLLY — The cost of polyester stuffing for pillows is expensive, so I began saving all my trimmings and tails of double knits left from sewing. I use this material to stuff pillows and, although it takes a little longer to fill a pillow, it is soft and washable. I also cut up old and worn out double knit garments into small pieces to use for stuffing. We homemakers need to remember the old saying, "Use up, wear out, make do or do without." — MRS. H.P.

'THE IMPOSTER'

Paul Hecht stars as ex-Army Intelligence Officer Joe Tyler, who stands in for a wealthy contractor targeted for assassination, and impersonates others to uncover a conspiracy to loot a land development company in "The Imposter," an NBC World Premiere Movie repeat, Tuesday at 8:30PM. Tyler relies on impersonations—a talent he learned as an actor at a theatre operated by Victoria (Nancy Kelly). In the course of protecting the wealthy Elliot (Joe Gallison), Tyler disguises himself as a personable Louisiana millionaire planning to invest in the company. He receives all the courtesies the company public relations girl (Meredith Baxter) can provide, but he soon learns that she is actually the property of his former Army superior, Barney (Edward Asner), now an executive in Elliot's company. Additional guest stars include John Vernon, Barbara Baxley, Jack Ging, Bruce Glover and Sherwood Price.

'ANIMAL LOVER'

One of the most unusual sights in the San Fernando Valley these days is the appearance of Earl Holliman, star of NBC's Police Woman series (Fridays, 10-11PM), followed by a big black police dog wearing a white sock. The dog, named "Smoke," is one of five strays picked up by animal-lover Holliman, who is Vice President of Actors and Other Friends of Animals, and the sock is to protect the hind foot which was nearly severed by a hit-and-run motorist. Holliman found the injured Shepherd alongside the road, where he would have died had he not been rushed to a veterinarian.

Another such stray befriended by Holliman is the enchanting "Kathy," a photogenic mutt he found wandering around Compton, half-starved and limping badly. X-rays showed the little female had been struck by a car and her pelvis was fractured. Today, at a year and a half, she is healthy, happy and adorable. Holliman's oldest dog is 16 years old at this point, the first of the mistreated animals to whom he gave a home . . . a tradition dating back to a ranch boyhood where animals were around the house constantly; loved, petted and disciplined, but appreciated.

Does he keep a running tab at the vet's? "Not at all," says Holliman. "It's like somebody with a big family. By the time you have five kids, you don't call the doctor every time they get an earache . . . you just learn certain basic things so you can cope. People can do so many things for their animals once they've had a little practice. You know when to reach for the Pepto-Bismol and all the other things to make them feel better." Like all the members of Actors and Other Friends of Animals, Holliman is adamant about the need for proper tags for pets, for identification tattoos and for spaying clinics. Many places in the country don't have the facilities of Los Angeles for low-cost neutering of pets, and the plight of 50,000 homeless animals gives Holliman great distress. "There's nothing cuter than a puppy or a kitten," he says, "but there's nothing sadder than one starving and uncared for."

Returning to his home after a photo session at NBC, Holliman stopped his station wagon (beat-up and perfect for three big German shepherds; Kate the floppy eared, and the fifth mixed-breed he found in Mexico, wandering over the trashcans of a small village to keep from starving) when a dazed dog ran onto the ramp of the Ventura Freeway. He stopped and rescued the animal, located its owners, who shrugged and said, "We don't want him . . . could you find him a home?" By the next morning, Sally Powers, the casting director of Police Woman, had placed the dog for Holliman. (On television shows the "animal people" soon learn as much about who cares as they do about our four-footed friends.) Another Police Woman case was wrapped up.

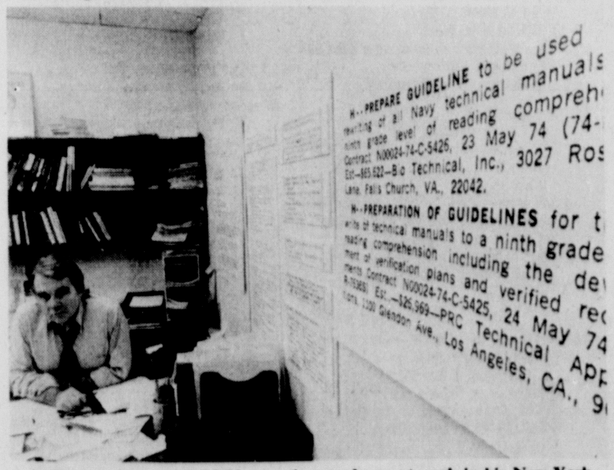
'BASICALLY, IT'S BUREAUCRACY'

The CBS News Special "Mr. Rooney Goes to Washington," a Rooney-eye-view of the labyrinthine bureaucracy of the nation's capital, will be rebroadcast Monday at 10PM. CBS News sent Rooney to Washington to see what a non-political reporter, with no previous knowledge of the place, would find out. The assignment led him into the labyrinth of government bureaucracy. What he found out—and what he wasn't able to find out—makes up the hour-long broadcast.

Rooney's study is filled with questions, like how many buildings does the government own in Washington, D.C. The General Services Administration, whose job is to keep track of such things, said it didn't have a complete list—but it could get one for Rooney if he came up with $150. With the end of the military draft, which was run by the Selective Service system, Rooney thought, "maybe that was an agency we could do without." However, he talked with the agency's director, who explained that it costs $47 million not to draft anyone—and why.



Andrew A. Rooney, CBS News writer-producer, at work in his New York office.

"All the time we were in Washington, we didn't find one single person who didn't think the government was spending too much money," Rooney says, but he also didn't find anyone who thought the government was spending too much on the individual's particular area.

Everyone also agreed that there's too much paper being written on and distributed throughout the government. Rooney found there was a government-sponsored contest for ideas to cut down on paper—and came across a request for six copies of paper relating to the contest, rather than the usual four carbons.

Rooney also looks at many of whom he calls "the good guys," competent people working in government jobs. And he looks at the city. "The first thing I tried in Washington was to find my way around," he says. "It's embarrassing the first day, when you go out the door and don't know whether you should turn left or right to get to The White House."

Rooney's uncommon talents, which have brought him three Writers Guild Awards and an Emmy, have been responsible for many memorable television broadcasts. In the last year, he wrote and produced CBS REPORTS: "The Colleges" and an essay, "In Praise of New York City," for the CBS News Special "New York, New York." His previous essays produced for CBS News include "A Bird's Eye View of America," "An Essay on Doors," "An Essay on Bridges," "An Essay on Hotels," "An Essay on Women," "Barry Goldwater's Arizona," "An Essay on Chairs," and "The Strong Case of the English Language."

"Mr. Rooney Goes to Dinner," a study of how Americans eat when they go out, where they go and why, will be presented later this season.

CLOSE-UP

'MAKIN' PEOPLE HAPPY'

"The Jim Stafford Show," a summer series for ABC, debuting Wednesday at 10PM, stars singer-musician-composer-humorist Jim Stafford. For a fellow who never studied music, Jim Stafford has come a long way.

Born in Eloise, Florida, Stafford originally wanted to become a preacher, but at the age of 14 discovered the guitar. Seven years later he found himself working in the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville. There he began a lasting personal and professional friendship with Kent Lavoie, whose artistry would later surface as "Lobo," and whose eventual professional standing was to open the door to the "big time" for Jim Stafford.

That recognition came in the form of Jim's song "Swamp Witch," which he auditioned for Lobo, who in turn took it to his producer, Phil Gernhard. The result was a hit single, followed by the "Jim Stafford" album. The LP contained "Swamp Witch" and three additional songs which also became hits—a quadruple punch unique in contemporary music—"Spiders and Snakes," "Wildwood Weed" and the slyly comic, "My Girl Bill." Due to the immense success of his music and storytelling song lyrics, the best clubs and concert halls around the country beckoned, and Stafford was requested for guest appearances by television shows.

An unusual performer he is. While in Nashville, he teamed with a drummer and when the drummer departed, Stafford teamed with himself. He's been working alone since, sharing the stage with his "group" consisting of guitars, banjos and harmonicas. He has his own rhythm section, manipulating a tambourine with his right foot and a set of bass pedals with his left. He also carries on conversations with a man who lives in his guitar. All this, and Jim also does many characterizations. Stafford is more than songwriter and song performer. He is a storyteller in the Mark Twain tradition. A genuine humorist, he takes his lead and makes his laughs from insightful observation of the everyday scene.

Regulars joining Stafford on the hour-long series are Mel Blanc, singers Deborah Allen, Jean Anne Chapman and Jeanne Sheffield, along with drummer Bill MacKenzie. Also, there will be a unique computerized person by the name of Adam, who has to be seen to be believed. Upcoming guest stars appearing with Stafford are Academy Award-winning actor, Art Carney, and Robert Mitchum, Kris Kristofferson, The Pointer Sisters, Bernadette Peters, Gary Burghoff, Karen Valentine, Arte Johnson, Marie Osmond, Jesse Colter and Emmy Lou Harris.

As Stafford says, "My songs don't have anything in common except for me. I love a good story. That's what I try to do in my songs, build a good story. I just look for ideas that are different." After 15 years on the road, Jim Stafford has become one of the music industry's latest "overnight successes." He's established residence on the record charts, progressed to concerts at prestige halls before enthusiastic crowds and critics and has found a home on television.

Jim Stafford has invested many years cultivating his refreshing, unusual style and lives up to his philosophy: "I live to make people happy. If you can do that with a fine story and a good melody, that's about the best you can do."

"The Jim Stafford Show," from Stafford Entertainment Inc./Fours Company, is co-produced by Rich Eustis and Al Rogers under executive producers Phil Gernhard and Tony Scotti.

FOR ABIGAIL VAN BUREN ("Dear Abby")

What's the most unusual letter you've ever received?
—James Wagner, Ann Arbor, Mich.

● This one prompted the most requests for reprints: "I am the most heartbroken person on earth. I always found time to go everywhere else but to see my old, gray-haired parents. They sat at home alone, loving me just the same. It's too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give, and now when I go to visit their graves and look at the green grass above them, I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches I must have caused them. I pray that you will print this, Abby, to tell those who still have parents to visit them and show their love and respect while there's still time. For it is later than you think. Signed: TOO LATE."

FOR WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Why do you use such big words in your columns when so few people understand their meaning without referring to a dictionary?—Mrs. Joan M. Herz, New London, N.H.

● Why make champagne when so few people drink it? Because some do enjoy it—and among those ignorant of it, there are a few who will venture to spend the money to try it and will find pleasure. Looking up new words is cheap. But the rewards are as intoxicating as champagne.

FOR TOTIE FIELDS

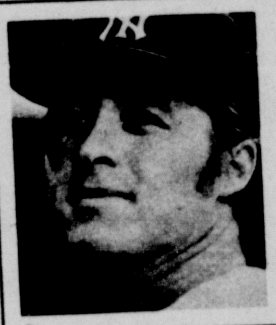
What is your biggest weakness besides food?—R.O., Visalia, Calif.

● Sales. I live for them. My husband says if blubber's going cheap at the North Pole, I'll be there. He's convinced I'm in show business to supplement my real business—shopping at sales. I once bought 12 pairs of stockings, greatly reduced, but even finding they were minus the feet didn't dishearten me. Just like the pilot who goes right up after a crash, I ran right out and got myself a new dress—reduced, of course!

FOR RONA JAFFE, author of "Family Secrets"

Why are there no explicit sex scenes in your book when that's the style now?—K.N., Hamilton, Ohio

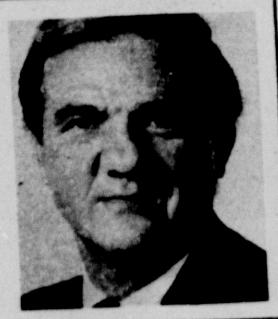
● Because today people can read all that in manuals. People used to riffle through novels for the "juicy" parts, but today they want more—a story and characters that will hold their interest. Those who are turned off by glaring sex and violence in contemporary novels are reading my book and then giving it to their children—and parents—to read.



FOR BOBBY MURCER, San Francisco Giants outfielder

Do you resent it when writers say the New York Yankees got the better deal when you went to the Giants in exchange for Bobby Bonds?—John D. Bateman, Coal Grove, Ohio

● I sure do. I don't think anyone will be able to say who got the better deal until at least the end of the season. And maybe not for several seasons. I wish Bonds all the best in New York. He's a fine player. But I'm going to play as hard as I can for the Giants and try to win for my team.



FOR KARL MALDEN, movie-TV actor

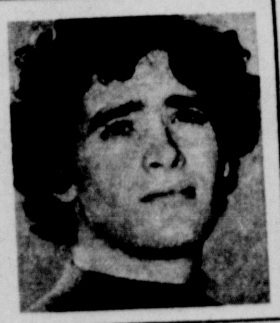
I read in Family Weekly that your real name is Mladen Sekulovich. How did you receive your present name of Karl Malden?—Mrs. John W. Howell, Cumberland, Wis.

● While playing in summer stock early in my career, I realized the name Mladen Sekulovich had certain drawbacks for someone who wanted his name in lights. So I changed Mladen to Malden. I took Karl because I liked the name.

FOR MARLO THOMAS

Why aren't actors and actresses heroes to the public any more?—David Barrett, Albany, Ga.

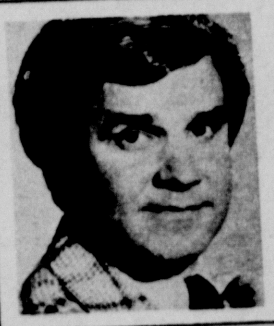
● Too much is known about celebrities. The more you know, the less the mystery. In the old days, people weren't photographed at home, the way they are now. There were no in-depth interviews. Today, when you "make it" you're on the cover of everything. You have no secrets. Years ago the studios purposely kept their stars under wraps—to make them remote and appealing.



FOR SCOTT NEWMAN, actor son of Paul Newman

As a parachute instructor, exactly how safe do you think parachuting is as a sport?—A.K., Youngstown, Ohio

● Do you know that out of two million jumps each year, the fatality rate is betwen 25-36, making parachuting safe when compared with the high death rate from autos? And if you broke down those chute casualties, you'd find the jumper was negligent or did something contrary to what he was taught. I've trained hundreds of students and I've never lost one.



FOR RICH LITTLE

Why do you think impersonators are always so popular?—T.N.N., Denton, Texas

● There are many ways to act and sing, but there's only one way to mimic Wayne or Carson or Brando or Bogart—the right way. The audience feels like an examining board. They're testing the applicant to see if he's going to fail or pass. They have fun determining the accuracy of the impressionist onstage. It makes them important, not simply entertained.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I've been in love with Alexis Smith since I first watched her slink through those movies in the '40's. What's she like now?—D. O'K., Santa Rosa, Calif.

● Married, for one thing (to actor Craig Stevens). And you're going to get to see her slink through another movie soon—as the star of Jackie Susann's "Once Is Not Enough." You may not like this, but Alexis hates the past. She says: "I don't sit around and drool over snapshot albums or hear an old song and daydream about the first time I heard it. I go for Paul Williams and Neil Diamond—not the singers of yesterday. If I'm asked, 'Do you remember?' I say, 'No, I don't.' I have a short memory span. In fact, Craig is always astonished that I remember him when he comes home at night!"

A Great Biographer's Personal Portrait:

How Judy Garland Used Her "Extra Senses" On Audiences–And Men

"You and I, listening, might hear a leaf drop; to her, it was a house crashing. You and I might be conscious of a preoccupied glance from a friend or intimate—she felt it like a physical blow."

Judy was noted for her "capacity to enjoy" (as above). At right she is with her mother Ethel, her sister Jimmy and Jimmy's daughter Judalein.

Pictorial Parade

In a writing career of more years than I like to think of, it has been my good fortune to deal intimately —that is, with the almost-psychoanalytical intimacy of the biographer—with some of the fascinating women of our time, seeking to probe, to learn, to understand the unique and peculiar gifts that made them what they were.

None, however, has been such a challenge—and so overwhelming an experience—as Judy Garland, the subject of my just-published biography. She was every extraordinary woman I have known wrapped into one, but far bigger than life, and, above all else, touched with genius.

By Gerold Frank

What was Judy Garland's power? How could she mesmerize the thousands in her audiences, step out on a stage and command it so compellingly that nothing existed save that tiny figure (she stood less than five feet), those huge, dark eyes, and that voice, with its heartbreak, its Caruso note, that tore at your very being and simply took you out of yourself.

First and foremost, she was a magician. A sorceress. She possessed not only that sixth sense we read about (she always liked to say, "Remember, I'm a black Irish witch, like my mother!") but a seventh, an eighth, a ninth sense. She had her own radar. It picked up, it tracked down, everything. She was the most acutely aware woman I have known—an exquisitely sensitive instrument, tuned to sounds no one else heard, reacting to emotions others were not even aware they felt.

She was like a supersensitive microphone. You and I, listening, might hear a leaf drop; to her, it was a house crashing. You and I might be conscious of a preoccupied glance from a friend or intimate—she felt it like a physical blow. Even now her children —Liza Minnelli, 29, her daughter by Vincente Minnelli, the director, and Lorna, 22, and Joey Luft, 20, her children by Sid Luft, for many years her manager—like her, can enter a room and know at once if something is wrong. Judy could walk into a room and instantly feel the flavor of it, sense the inner play and counterplay of the personalities in it. It was a sensitivity so highly tuned that it explained both the infinite joy and the infinite suffering she knew. Profound as was her ability to suffer, so was her capacity to enjoy; despite all you may have read, Judy's life had more of delight and fulfillment than of tragedy.

Judy was one of the wittiest, funniest, sharpest and most enchanting women of her time, with a sense of mischievous irony, a wild, raffish humor and a defiance of the fates that perplexed even those who knew her best. How many of her cataclysmic experiences were fantasy, built out of the world of fantasy in which she lived —and how much was truth? For remember—she was not only magician, sorceress and wonder-worker, but consummate actress, teller and maker of tales, who saw at once and grasped immediately how mundane the world could be and, instantly, with her skill, wit and unbelievably sensitive perceptions, transformed it into pure magic.

Judy Garland could be whatever she wanted to be, depending upon the situation, and the two situations that called out the real wonder-worker in her were being in love—and being onstage. Then she was her happiest, her most prescient, then her radar was so astonishing as to be almost frightening. She became whatever was required of her (sensing the need of the audience, or the lover)—child or adult, adorably helpless or superbly in command.

And Judy, always, was in love. For all her perceptiveness and all her intelligence, she was the ultimate romantic. Her father was a movie-house operator; from the age of two she had grown up watching (and believing) the fantasies unfolding on the screen. When, at 13, she was signed by Hollywood, that fantasy became real on the MGM lots, where kings and queens and courtiers in their robes moved about, and dreams were made with all the earmarks of reality, so that 60 million Americans a year could live within that dream at their local movie.

To be in love was Judy's natural state of being. Falling in love meant for her exactly what the words say: a delicious, delirious, overwhelming, intoxicating, headlong descent into ecstasy, a kind of drunkenness of mind, soul and body, utter rapture. When she was in love, her man was Galahad, he was every knight who had ever won guerdon from his fair lady, he was the epitome of everything a woman dreamed of and sought in a man.

Again, it was Liza who put it best to me: "Mama could make princes out of paupers." She did it by the power of her belief, the hypnotic belief that made her audiences believe when she

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

Jill Krementz

Gerold Frank is the author of "Judy," just published by Harper and Row ($12.50), the best of the spate of new biographies of Judy Garland. Mr. Frank also wrote "The Boston Strangler," "Beloved Infidel" (with Sheilah Graham), "Too Much Too Soon" (about Diana Barrymore) and "I'll Cry Tomorrow" (Lillian Roth).

sang "The Man That Got Away"—you knew the man had got away, you wept with her for her loss. When she sang, "The wind grows colder—," you felt goose pimples, you shivered; she made you believe the lyrics as she believed, as she believed in love, as she believed in the man she loved.

And that sensitivity, those sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth senses, enabled her to keep watch on her man, it seemed, from the very back of her head. If he was in the same room she did not have to see him to know what he thought, felt, what went on within him; she sensed it by that same extraordinary radar that came into play when she was onstage. From the stage she could track down a tiny clump of disinterest anywhere in a huge audience, and know it immediately. She knew if a man in the twentieth row was not reacting ecstatically enough; she would dash backstage, gulp a quick swallow of whiskey and soda—pure liquor was too harsh for her throat—exclaim, "I'm going out and nail that goon!" and back she would be on the stage, projecting daggers of energy, until the man in the twentieth row found himself standing up, applauding madly, tears streaming down his cheeks, not even aware what she was willing upon him. She had tracked him down, she had fixed on him, and he was her slave.

And when it came to the man she loved?

If she could transform an audience of thousands into near-maniacs, standing up on their seats, cheering, applauding, screaming, "Judy, we love you!"—imagine how powerful that laser beam of pure emotion when directed at an audience of one: the man she wanted?

That radar astonished her husbands. She was married five times, and each husband, in his own time, was mesmerized by her. If the two were separated, Judy on the road, he busy with his own projects, she sensed what was going on within him even from miles away. Suddenly there would be a wire to him, a telephone call, a gift in the mail—out of a clear sky, completely unexpected—to drive her back into his mind, making it impossible for him to forget her even for a moment.

It was as though she were in tune with him, on the same wave-beat, aware when her beat in him was soft or retarded, or needed stimulation—how dare he, at any time, anywhere, not have her uppermost in his mind! There wasn't a moment when they were apart that she did not seem instinctively to know when to make him aware of her—she knew what was going on in him, and this appeared to be true whether he was in the same room with her or oceans apart!

The man married longest to her—Sid Luft, for nearly 13 years—would shake his head in disbelief each time this power would manifest itself. It was uncanny. How did she do it? How explain this witchcraft of hers, that phenomenal sensitivity? It brought her both ecstasy and despair, that exquisite invisible antenna that made her able to recognize the still-inarticulated thought behind a man's eyes. "She's got a spell on me!" Luft would exclaim, utterly baffled. She knew what he thought almost before he did. He might be saying A to her, but she read B in his eyes—and Judy knew it was B. And later, to his astonishment, he would realize that yes, he had really meant B. How did she know?

This was Judy Garland. It explains our unending fascination with her. It explains why 40 cameras focused on her at the same moment would produce 40 photographs—and each would be different, and each would be Judy Garland, and each would not be Judy Garland—she was that prismatic and quicksilver-like. Like a diamond, a thousand facets glittered from her, each reflecting the world to her, giving her a thousand messages, each blinding the spectator and, together, utterly dazzling him—and, in the end, consuming her.

AT LAST! A DOCTOR WHO SAYS:

Take Food, Not Medicine, If You Suffer from Any of These Ills!

"Why do I AVOID prescribing drugs?", says this brilliant physician, who has cured thousands of patients with nothing more than ordinary food alone! For these four vital reasons"—

1. Because drugs do not produce health. They merely mask the symptoms of a disease . . . cover up the condition, while the body struggles on valiantly to cure itself

2. This is the reason why so many men and women, of all ages, no sooner fight their way out of one ailment, than they fall right into another. Why they are always "half-sick". Why they never really know what it means to be completely free of pain, in glowing health. Because they, and their doctors, do nothing more than merely fight off each new attack, and never drain out the poison that is left from that attack, or rebuild the vital weakened tissue before it can fall prey to a new disease!

It Is "Tissue Weakness" That Opens The Door To One New Disease After Another! And NO Drug—Only Food—Can Build REAL TISSUE STRENGTH Again!

3. The lasting way to fight disease, then, is not just to counter-attack each new symptom in its turn . . . but to build such sheer physical strength into each threatened cell of your body that the organism that causes that disease is either destroyed, or rendered harmless, the very instant it enters your body!

4. This is done in two ways: First, to use a medical-diet to drain out the poisons that make your body weak today. And, finally, to use a second, even more powerful medical-diet to pour Super-Nutrients – Nature's own medicines – into every crippled organ of that body . . . not only to force out that specific disease, as fast as humanly possible, but also to leave that organ perhaps even healthier than before it was first attacked!

See How This NATURAL Method Has Worked—In Thousands Of Case Histories, From Every Walk Of Life, And With Almost Every Ailment You Can Imagine!

Let Dr. Nittler's patients speak for themselves: "When I came to you I suffered from swelling and tingling of extremities, almost constant hunger, periodic weakness, great sensitivity to glare and loud noise . . . Since becoming your patient I find myself energetic and alert until nearly midnight, awake fully by 7:30 or 8 each morning, in good spirits, not sluggish, and continuing throughout the day glad to be alive, performing challenging tasks!"

"Before I became your patient, I had visited several skin specialists hoping to find help in the removal of what appeared to be growths on my face. Biopsies were taken; result negative. I asked how to get rid of these growths; how to prevent their growing back. I received a shrug of the specialist's shoulder (later, his bill!); he didn't know! Dr. Nittler took one look at the area involved and prescribed (natural) medication for external application which within one week's time cleared up the difficulty. It has not returned."

And Still More Thrilling Results! All Told In The Patient's Own Documented Words!

"However, on Easter Sunday, March 29, 1970, I suffered not only another occlusion, but an acute cardiac arrest. This was preceded by three days of intense weariness, fatigue and restlessness . . . Only extreme good luck made it possible for me to write these words . . . They (his regular physicians) believed open heart surgery to be the only hope for giving me a normal life span . . . It was at this point that I was referred to Dr. Nittler . . . after his initial examination and after reviewing my medical history . . . he started me on his "basic heart program" . . . Within weeks, I noticed great improvement . . . an increased surge of well-being with each passing week. My family doctor continues to monitor my case. He cannot, at this point, rule out the open heart surgery recommended by his peers, but he is honest enough to admit I've shown great improvement. He says my heart is beating more slowly and stronger . . . My laboratory tests are all normal."

"I've been subject to asthma all my life. It would come with a cold or when I laughed or exercised too hard. The situation became dramatically worse when we moved to Santa Cruz in 1966.

For some reason I'd catch a cold every four to six weeks . . . Only when I got it, it would go to my chest, develop into asthma, and I could hardly breathe. I was fed up with being sick and tired all the time . . . So I went through Dr. Nittler's whole program . . . Now (1971) the few colds I catch are very mild. I can't even remember the last time I had asthma with or without a cold!"

"In the latter part of November past, I broke out in an allergic dermatitis—severe hives . . . in addition to the hives, I would get a severe pain in an area above the right kidney . . . It was an acute shattering pain that immobilized me. I was next given cortisone. After 24 hours this would lessen the severity of both hives and pain. As long as I continued with cortisone . . . I was fine, but when I stopped, severe hives and pain recurred. Then back to cortisone for four or five days, followed by hives and pain. I seesawed back and forth in this manner for several weeks . . . A friend of mine gave me Dr. Nittler's phone number and begged me to call him. . . . Then on the tenth day under Dr. Nittler's care, something wonderful (to me, a miracle) happened—I was free of my ailments! A staggering weight had been lifted from both my shoulders and my wife's . . . Now I am in the thirteenth month after the doctor's care, enjoying the best of health and feeling great."

And Literally Thousands Upon Thousands Of Case Histories More! ALL FROM NATURAL "SUPER-FOOD" TECHNIQUES LIKE THESE, THAT YOU CAN USE TOMORROW!

Again, to list only a few examples of the step-by-step "Super-Food" Treatments given you:

Home treatment for constipation that works through your skin, and removes internal poisons, painlessly and automatically, at the same time it restores normal functions.

How to increase the blood flow (and therefore the life-giving oxygen) not only to your heart tissues, but your entire circulatory system. (As just one side-benefit of this new, natural therapy, cold feet simply feel warm and good again!) This process automatically lowers the work load of your heart, and your lungs, and so, as another marvelous side-benefit, almost immediately diminishes the ever-increasing shortness of breath!

How to get rapid relief from gallbladder pain. A treatment that also may enable you to actually, painlessly pass a stone or two (and get rid of them for good). And, at the same time, stimulate the flow of bile from your liver, and begin simultaneously stomach-healing food-therapy.

Why hemorrhoids do not have to be endured any longer! A simple capsule that may yield apparent benefits in a day or two, with restoration of normal function and comfort in a few weeks, just as it has in case after case in Dr. Nittler's files!

How to keep from being poisoned by commercial food sprays. This method simply removes the spray from fruits and vegetables—in minutes!

A new way to brush your teeth that costs nothing. And that greatly increases your powers of digestion!

How, if you suffer from an acute illness, you can feed your body healing food-ingredients through the skin. That help you, in seconds!

How to cut down overproduction of stomach acid almost immediately, without taking a thing!

PAIN-CAUSING POISONS LITERALLY POUR OUT OF YOUR BODY!

The best and most ancient method of healing wounds. (Animals do this instinctively.)

A do-it-yourself prostate massage that involves only a simple motion with the legs and soles of your feet . . . plus a little-known and delicious food that greatly aids in the normal function of this important gland.

What to do for repeated violent pains in the chest (often mistaken for heart trouble or even attack). How to tell the difference at once. And then use a simple natural spray that relieves this torturous pain in minutes, for hours!

The inexpensive food that has fantastic results with cold, and even flu! As Dr. Nittler says: "This remedy alone cures many cases of flu."

Why Dr. Nittler dares to say: "I have known very severe long-standing cases (of Athlete's Foot) respond dramatically after one application"!

And why he also says: "I have seen a deep nasty boil on a cheek drain through the skin in one night with the use of this (natural food product). The infection was on the pad, there was no infection left in the boil and no wound visible."

PLUS: emergency treatments for burns that prevent scarring . . . a simple remedy for poison ivy that works . . . how to melt away warts (and even some brown spots) . . . a non-prescription product (as are all the other remedies given here) that has a wonderful healing effect on the mucous membranes of the intestinal tract . . . home remedies for internal parasites . . . what you must do, at once, for diarrhea . . . how Dr. Nittler treats ulcers . . . how to rebuild weak stomachs, without aggravating them . . . how to break fever in emergencies, especially in children . . . the tested routine to follow for any virus infection . . . strength-foods for every part of the body . . . how your body can build up its own reserve supply of nutrients to fortify its natural resistance in terms of stress or epidemic . . . weight-reducing without tears . . . the most effective treatment ever invented for hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) . . . and much more! Yours to read, for 30 days, at our risk!

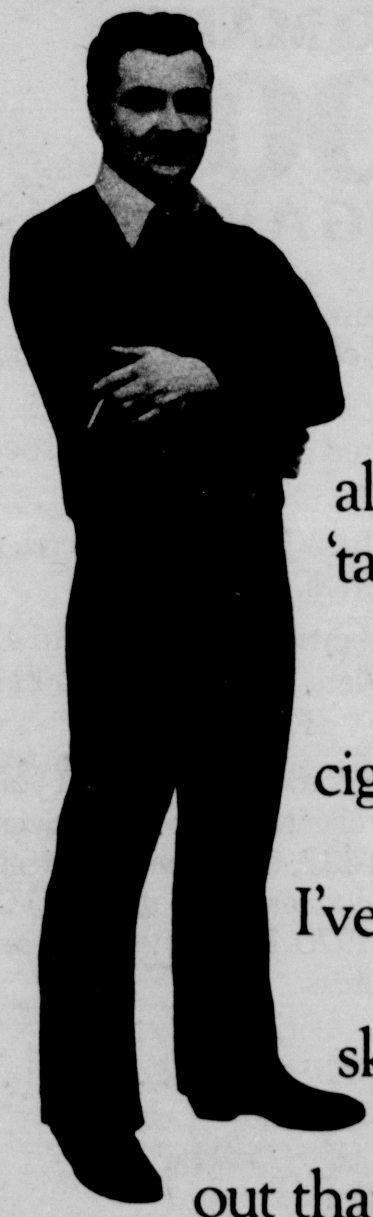
I smoked the same brand of cigarettes for 16 years. Here's what made me stop.



The pleasure I get from a cigarette is important to me. And I've been pretty loyal to the taste I like.

But even up here in the small town I live in I've heard all the things they've been saying against smoking and against 'tar' and nicotine.

Yet I didn't want to quit. I enjoyed it too much.

So every once in a while I'd try one of those low 'tar' cigarettes. To me they were like smoking cabbage.

Then one day my wife said, "Bill, here's a new cigarette I've been reading about."

It was Vantage. I lit it up skeptically. But was I surprised! It tasted as good as my old brand. I found out that while Vantage isn't the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette I can buy, it sure is the one I can enjoy. In my book that means a lot.

Because of Vantage I gave up my old brand without giving up anything I really wanted.

Strange Forces That Guide a Child's Behavior

True or False: If you're shocked when your small child starts to bring home four-letter words, you shouldn't let him know it. (See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Regardless of a child's age, "forbidden fruits are sweeter," and to forbid something is to make it more desirable.
2. If you're shocked when your small child starts to bring home four-letter words, you shouldn't let him know it.
3. How intelligent a child is depends on when he was born.
4. The treatment a child gets from adults depends on his looks and whether the youngster is a boy or a girl.

ANSWERS

1. False—where younger children are concerned, but all too true with older ones. University of Wisconsin studies have shown, for example, that when a preschool child is forbidden something (a toy or whatever) it decreases in attractiveness. But in the case of older children, the "forbidden fruit" phenomenon obtains—with the forbidden object tending to become more and more attractive. This finding suggests that it's important to train a child, and encourage him to develop good habits, before he gets old enough to want to do the things you tell him not to.
2. True. As psychologist Fitzhugh Dodson points out in his definitive monograph "How to Father," when a young child begins bringing home four-letter words to shock his parents, "many parents do exactly the wrong thing. They reinforce the child's use of these words by their shocked attention. Unconsciously they teach him to continue using the words, since he gets an emotional response from them." Parents are advised to simply ignore the four-letter words. When the child discovers that the words don't "get a rise out of you," he will tend to lose interest in them.
3. True—according to the findings of University of Michigan psychologist Robert B. Zajonc, who has evaluated the results of leading investigations that show intelligence to be reliably linked to birth order and family size, with the brightest children being the earliest born and from the smallest families. "One explanation for this," the scientist notes, "is that brighter families are more apt to limit their family size, and therefore have the time and money to invest in a more favorable intellectual climate." And other investigations have shown that the first child in a family of two children averages the highest IQ scores.
4. True—as far as women are concerned, as evidenced by psychological studies of the child-adult relationship conducted at the University of Toronto. Findings: "Women behaved more leniently toward an attractive boy than toward an attractive girl or an unattractive boy," But men were not influenced by either a child's attractiveness or sex.

Leaf of Life

Amazing! Mystical!

The Leaf of Life is so amazing the Yogis of India believe that these mystical leaves possess the Secret of Life.

Wherever a leaf falls, a new plant starts to grow . . . on air, water, or soil.

Yes, the Leaf of Life can start to grow on air alone. New plants grow from the edges of each leaf.

After it starts, put the leaf in a pot. The bigger the pot, the bigger the plant will grow — from one to six feet tall. You can have the size you want and it grows in sun or shade.

It blossoms with fragrant pink & lime bell-like flowers that look like jeweled, oriental lanterns.

For the first time ever... a remarkably QUICK absolutely FOOLPROOF way to lose all the weight you want — PERMANENTLY.

Lose Weight While You Sleep!

ENTERTAINERS, ATHLETES, TEENAGERS, EVEN FAMOUS WEIGHT-LOSS PROGRAM FLUNK-OUTS HAVE LOST 10, 20, 50, UP TO 99 POUNDS OF UGLY FAT!

Not a diet — a weight loss revolution. Here is a proven alternative to every diet method ever used. The miraculous Slim-Through-Sleep Plan that has been clinically tested on over 2,000 overweight people.

Eat all the foods you ate before. For the first time, here is a weight loss method that works even if you don't cooperate. No formulas to follow, no special foods to prepare, nothing to count or weigh. Best of all, the Slim-Through-Sleep method eliminates the single greatest cause for weight-loss failure — Will Power. That's right, the hardest part of any diet — is the fight to avoid food, and STS makes painful will power a thing of the past.

Almost immediately you will begin losing weight more easily than ever before in your life . . . effortless weight loss that your friends, even your own family, will notice right away!

Yes, even if every other method you've tried has failed, you can now lose every pound you want to — and never gain it back!

STS has worked near miracles with thousands of people. (Just look at some of the pictures and comments on this page). With the Slim-Through-Sleep Plan you won't feel the least bit deprived. It won't be a matter of pushing yourself away from the dinner table . . . or doing strenuous exercises . . . or substituting foods.

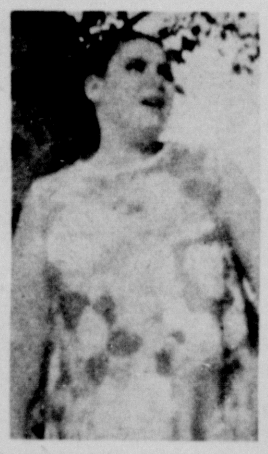
5 MINUTES A DAY FOR 5 DAYS AND POUNDS START TO DISAPPEAR. For just five minutes before you go to sleep, follow the STS Plan . . . that's all. While you are sleeping, it's actually working.

STS will actually leave you feeling more relaxed, free of tension and free of those unhealthy EXTRA pounds you've been carrying around for so long.

Before you know it, your spirits will soar to new heights. You'll have the self-confidence that comes from being pleased with your appearance. You will look and feel the way you deserve to, perhaps the way you thought was impossible before.

No "starvation," no substitutes. Eat every food you eat now.

Everything that has been unpleasant about losing weight before no longer exists. If you love mashed potatoes smothered in gravy . . . rich cheesecake . . . whipped cream on your desserts, you'll still be able to enjoy these and every delicious food you have always loved. Never again will you have to contend with pills that leave you jittery; exercises that leave you exhausted and achy; food cravings that have you climbing the walls. Spend just 5 minutes with the STS plan the first evening you get it and we promise you results in weight loss that will startle you. Without suffering a moment of anxiety you will shed pound after pound quickly and effortlessly — and you'll never regain that weight again.



Sandra Glass lost 99 pounds! "I had let myself go to pot, weightwise, and now I have been able to bring my weight down to the right level and bring up my spirits and my life. I previously weighed 241 pounds and now I weigh a gorgeous 142."

Domenick Griesi, teenager, lost 52 pounds! "I weighed 211 pounds and am now down to 159. I have tried other methods to lose weight, but have never been able to stick with them. Being a teenager, you have no idea how much happier I am now."

STS Method Sweeping Europe, Now Available For The First Time In This Country

Within the past year, the STS Method has become an enormous success in France, Switzerland, Germany and other European countries. Thousands and thousands of overweight Europeans have discovered that this is the only method that provides any meaningful, permanent weight loss. In development in this country for over 16 years, only now has this wonder-working method become available in such an easy-to-use plan . . . a foolproof plan . . . that could be considered the most important weight-loss discovery in over 50 years!

American Consumer has been involved in researching weight-loss concepts for the past three years. Our customers have taught us that what is required is an effective, quick and safe weight-loss plan. We have spent the last year in negotiation to secure the STS program exclusively for our mail order public. We feel the results — the fantastic STS Program — has been worth the effort.

Here's What Users Of The STS Method Have To Say:

Lee G., 25 lbs. in 1½ months: "It is such an easy and non-frustrating way to lose weight. This is the best method I have found in 15 years of dieting."

Father Pat B., 30 lbs. in 2 months: "I recommend this program enthusiastically to anyone who seriously wants to lose weight."

Terry W., 22 lbs. in 2 months: "I tried just about every diet or pill and nothing ever helped like this. I can face myself in a mirror again."

Sarah P., 33 lbs. in 3 months: "I feel in a wonderful frame of mind, plenty of pep and energy and ambition."

Barbara B., 22 lbs.: "Thanks so much for the new 'skinny' me. No more diet pill blues or starvation cranks. You've helped me become a happy, slim female again."

Pat T., 30 lbs. in 3 months: 3 months ago, I started and not to sound like an ad, I really am a new person. Very happy!"

Harry C., 51 lbs. in 2½ months: "There are no nasty after effects. I've been on about five or six diets, all of which involved medication, and I always lost weight. But I didn't like the feeling. The drugs would make me grouchy after the pills wore off . . . Besides, I always went up again after I stopped using the pills."

Why The STS Plan Is Better Than Any So-called Diet You've Ever Tried

- Diet pills make you tense and nervous — STS leaves you relaxed and energetic
- Diet Plans require change in eating habits — with STS you eat all the foods you ate before
- Almost every weight-loss method requires will power — STS eliminates that painful barrier
- Other plans require a different regimen for active, non-active, young and old — STS works remarkable results for everyone, including teenagers and children
- Other methods require a change in dining out and party habits — STS doesn't change the food you eat regardless of the occasion
- Other methods have a yo-yo effect, weight comes off, and goes right back on — with STS weight stays off permanently

Money-back Guarantee

We promise that if you truly want to lose every excess pound you have been living with — even if it's been years since you last dieted — This will be the easiest, most permanent weight-loss method you have ever tried. If you, for any reason, fail to lose the weight you want within 30 days (and you are the sole judge of how much you want to lose), simply return your STS Plan and your money will be promptly refunded (except postage/handling).

The only thing now between you and weight-loss success is the effort it takes to mail the coupon below. Do it today and you won't be sorry. We guarantee it!

Meet the Creator Of The STS Method. Frank Rocco, R. H., is a world-renowned registered therapist, and his clinical success with people who had never before been able to lose weight has been phenomenal.

Mr. Rocco's contention is: "Any person can lose weight with this plan as long as they have the sincere desire to lose. That is the only prerequisite. They can lose as much as they want, five pounds to a hundred pounds, and there is no medication involved." He has proven this in case after case, where he has given new hope and new happiness to people who had tried dozens of other weight-loss methods without lasting success.

Frank Rocco is recognized as a major authority in his field and has been the subject of many newspaper articles and television shows.

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES

Simply choose up to 13 selections shown here (multi-unit sets and certain single selections count as two — write each number in a separate box). Then mail the application, together with your check or money order as payment.

Every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest...plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular Club prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing — it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened...the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $6.98 or $6.98 —plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 11 selections within 3 years), you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan.

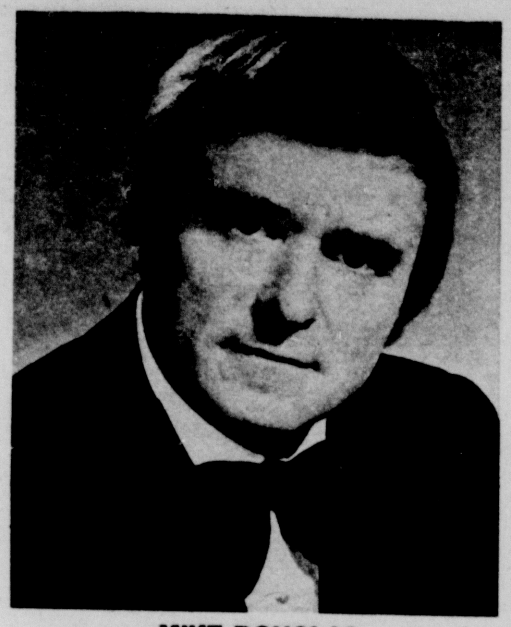
What in the World!



MIKE DOUGLAS
It's good to be "square"

"Square" has never been fashionable, but Mike Douglas owes his enormous success to that image. "I have often been kidded about being a 'square.'" Mike told FAMILY WEEKLY, "but it doesn't bother me in the least. In fact, I'm glad about it. Neither my wife nor I drinks or smokes, and we never sit down to dinner without praying. My family is important to me, and in spite of my success, I've gone out of my way to keep my family life as normal as possible." Mike turned to prayer in 1969, when he learned that his brother was dying of cancer: "I was powerless to help. I realized that my money, my power and fame could not save him, and suddenly those commodities meant very little." Mike may be a show-biz oddity, but he's one of those "nice" guys who won't finish last—he has an estimated 20 million fans and is referred to by his peers as the "King Midas of daytime television."

British stage actor Alec McCowen talks about America's uniqueness: "You seem to have much more fun in New York than we do in London. Even your menus are fun, although I'm never quite sure what to expect when I order! Look at Central Park—it was designed for frivolity. There's the zoo, a skating pond, tunnels and even checker and chess tables for the old men. London, on the other hand, can only boast Hyde Park, which may have its aesthetic rewards but is certainly not designed for physical enjoyment. You Americans have an uncanny capacity to live so much in the present," says Alec. "Everyone is so anxious. Every emotion lies on the surface. In England, we go to great lengths to conceal our feelings. We go to the theater and see a great comedy, and after the show is over we spend countless hours explaining why we were 'forced' to laugh. As an Englishman, I really appreciate American audiences because they're not afraid to laugh or cry—they're honest. I constantly marvel that so much distinguishes two peoples who share a common language."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

NO HELP

"What would you like for dinner?"
My wife asks me day after day,
And awaits with great expectation
Whatever it is I say.

It's good of my wife to ask me,
It's nice that she wants to know.
I'm glad she's so kind and thoughtful—
One reason I love her so.

That's why I'm a little embarrassed
And squirm just a bit in my chair
When I answer her wifely question:
"I don't know, dear. I really don't care."

Presents are like absence. They make the heart grow fonder. —Franklin P. Jones

I had a terrible argument with my teenager about leaving home. She wouldn't.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

My young son was going on a trip last summer, and I asked my five-year-old daughter to pray for his safety. I said, "God always hears little children's prayers first." "That's because we go to bed earlier," my little girl answered.

—Mrs. Daniel J. Nealon
Manchester, N.H.

The newlyweds, operating on a limited budget, looked at an apartment in a very seedy neighborhood. Being concerned for their safety, they asked the landlord how long it would take to walk to the police station in case of emergency. The landlord replied, "I really don't know. Nobody's ever made it."
